Mayor Meehan Has Signed the Pump Resolution

New York Concern Asks For Permit to Exhibit the Jeffries-Johnson Fight Pictures — A Special Meeting of Aldermen Tomorrow Afternoon — Many Autos Line Up at City Hall — Police Officer vs. Small Boys

Mayor Meehan has signed the resolution of the board of aldermen requesting the water board to ask for competitive bids for a new pump prior to the making of an appropriation for same.

The same request was made by the committee on appropriations and the water board, replying to the committee, said the board deemed it inexpedient to call for bids before an appropriation had been made.

Following is a copy of the resolution to which the mayor affixed his signature today:

Resolved by the board of aldermen of the city of Lowell, assembled, as follows:

That the water board be and it is hereby requested to procure competitive bids for a new pump for Centralville pumping station, so that an accurate estimate of its cost may be obtained.

Relative to the signing of the resolution, Mayor Meehan said: "I have given the matter a great deal of thought and I decided that to ask for competitive bids before an appropriation had been made was a sound business proposition. What I signed is nothing more or less than a request. I do not look upon it as being mandatory in the least. I am not fully acquainted with the pump question. I have heard the arguments, pro and con, but any knowledge of the affair that I have at the present time is in the abstract. I take it that the aldermen are as much in the dark as the mayor and the best thing to do is to ask for bids, as the aldermen request, in order that we may get an accurate estimate of the cost. I do not see why any reliable pump company should hesitate to put in a bid even though the money was not appropriated in advance."

Those Fight Pictures

Mayor Meehan is in receipt of a letter from the New York Herald Co. of Newark, Louis J. Berger secretary, asking permission to exhibit the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures in this city. It is very evident that New Yorkers do not keep posted on affairs in Lowell, but that doesn't detract in the least from Lowell's greatness.

It was generally understood that the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures were a dead issue in Lowell. The agitation of the question was quite lively here for a time. Mayor Meehan was opposed to any exhibition of the pictures in this city, but an opinion handed down by the city solicitor took the matter out of the mayor's hands and transferred it to the board of police.

No sooner did the police board members discover that authority in the matter rested with them than they came out with a statement in which they said that they would not stand for the pictures being exhibited here. That settled it in Lowell, but it would appear that the news didn't reach New York.

The letter received by Mayor Meehan today reads as follows:

New York City, Aug. 18, 1910.

Hon. John F. Meehan, Mayor City of Lowell, Lowell, Mass.

My Dear Sir:

Will you please be kind enough to inform me by return mail to room 321 Knickerbocker theatre building, New York City, whether or not I can exhibit the above fight pictures in your city for some night in the near future.

Thanking you in advance for the favor, I beg to remain

Yours very truly,

L. J. Berger.

They Contented Themselves With Jeering Strikebreakers

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 19.—The heavy rain of the early morning prevented much of the construction work in this city today and as a result there was little chance for the striking building laborers to interfere with the strikebreaking laborers. A demonstration had been expected at the new Sharp mill in the extreme southern part of the city but when 100 or more strikers divided into four or five groups approached the mill from different directions they were corralled by a detail of police who handed the strikers together and sent them up Dartmouth street. In command of the police detail at the Sharp mill was Inspector Stow who fifteen or twenty years ago was a famous major league baseball player known as Harry Stovey.

The strike breakers at the Sharp mill construction work were hooted and jeered by the strikers but no violence was attempted. A large party of city laborers was encountered by a small band of strikers today. The strikers requested the city employees to join the strike but were not insistent in their demands inasmuch as they were greatly outnumbered. The city laborers refused to listen to the pleas of the strikers.

Felice D'Alessandro, organizer of the union, said today that there were 3200 men enrolled in the union and now on strike. Organizer D'Alessandro said he had visited Boston, Providence and other cities and that he had made it impossible for the contractors to secure Italian strikebreakers at any of the cities he had visited. Both the strikers and the contractors are loud in their criticism of the police. The strike officials say that the strikers have been discriminated against and the contractors claim that they are not given protection to enable them to keep non-union laborers at work in safety. The method of protecting the strikebreakers at the construction work on the new Nashawena mill in the North End yesterday, though most efficacious, has caused amusement about the city. The contractor in charge of the work coupled up several lines of fire hose and every striker who attempted to cross a "dead line" was given a drenching. The strike breakers who were on this job were able to keep at their work with little interference beyond the jeers of the strikers who remained at a discreet distance from the mill.

ARCHBISHOP TO SPEAK

At Hibernian Mass On Next Tuesday Morning

As the week in which the great A. O. H. celebration is to be held in this city draws near, the completion of preliminary plans emphasizes the fact that the week is to be one of the biggest of its kind in the history of the city. Thousands of strangers will make temporary residence in Lowell and as they are all to be here for a gala occasion their presence means thousands of dollars for the merchants of Lowell. The fact that Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan is the promoter of the big parade on Wednesday is the biggest "ad" for the week for all the Irish societies of this vicinity still recall the big St. Patrick's day celebration which he promoted a few years ago while every veteran fireman in Massachusetts, be he Irish or Scandinavian, will manage to get to Lowell for any event that Humphrey runs. In Lowell we recall not only these big events but the Fourth of July celebration of a few years, promoted by Mr. Sullivan, and voted one of the best ever held here though it cost the city many a cent.

Corporations Show Right Spirit

Secretary Murphy of the board of trade recently sent a communication to all the local mills, as follows:

Lowell, Aug. 18, 1910.

Dear Sir:

I have been delegated by the joint committees from the board of trade and the Ancient Order of Hibernians to request you to grant your employees the privilege of being absent from work on the occasion of the state parade of the convention which will be held in Lowell August 24. The desire is to secure your permission for these employees so that their absence from work on this day will not in any way jeopardize their position.

Trusting to receive an early reply, I beg to remain

Respectfully yours,

John H. Murphy, Secretary.

He has received favorable answers from the Massachusetts—which was to be closed regardless of the celebration—the Boot, Lowell Machine Shop, Middlesex and Merrimack. All agree that their help may get off to see the parade without losing their employment, while some of his correspondents wished him luck, a fine day and a great time.

Archbishop Will Speak

It is now expected that Archbishop O'Connell will not only be present at the service prior to the opening of the convention on Tuesday morning, but that His Grace will also make an address to the Hibernians at the close of mass. The ushers appointed for the church service are as follows: Chief, Thomas J. Fitzgerald; John J. Hanlon, Warren P. Riordan, private secretary to Mayor Meehan; Edward P. Murphy, Dr. P. J. Meehan, Dr. John Donovan and James P. Sheehan.

The Local Delegates

The local delegates to the convention are as follows:

Division 1—Michael McMullen and Daniel E. Hogan. The latter is the lasting secretary of the general committee.

Division 3—Daniel P. Riley and Thomas Dawson.

Division 4—Patrick Connolly and Joseph Molloy.

Division 5—Hugh P. McQuade and Daniel E. Hogan. The latter one of Lowell's oldest and most prominent Hibernians.

Merrimack Information Bureau

Manager P. Mahoney of the Merrimack Clothing company, waxing enthusiastic over the coming event, has prepared a commodious and well appointed bureau of information at the Merrimack Clothing company for the visiting delegates of both sexes. A more convenient place for such a bureau could not be located, for it is directly under Associate hall and only a few steps from Mathews hall. Manager Mahoney states that he will provide necessary stationery, telephones and chairs and desks, so that the visitors using the place will find every convenience and comfort.

Band Concert Wednesday

Mayor Meehan has made a popular move by shifting the municipal band concert from Thursday to Wednesday.

George Conley, William O'Neill and John McFarlane. At the grave Rev. Fr. Murphy read the committal prayers and the burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

JEFFERS—The funeral of the late Miss Elizabeth B. Jeffers took place this morning at 8.30 o'clock from the home of her sister, Mrs. Edward J. Barrett, 94 School street, and was largely attended. The cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church, where at 9 o'clock a mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Timothy Callahan. The choir under the direction of Mr. Michael Johnson sang the Gregorian mass, the solos being sustained by Miss Alice E. Murphy and Mr. Andrew McCarthy. The floral tributes were beautiful and profuse. The bearers were John Meagher, James Gannon, Frank McCarthy, James Slavin, John O'Leary and John Mahoney. At the grave Rev. Fr. Callahan read the committal prayers and the burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

LYNN, Aug. 19.—A game of "toss" ended fatally for two Lynn men yesterday when they entered the surf near the Nahant bath house just after the exercise, which had been of a violent form. Both were drowned in a spot a little over 10 feet in depth, though they were nearly 300 yards from shore.

The victims of the double drowning are Alonzo Leandrin, 19, a mechanic, of 11 Cheever place, and Alfred LaBlanc, 17, a show cutter of Littlefield block. Both were unmarried.

John H. Clinton, a police officer of Andover, who is taking his vacation at Nahant, so far as can be learned was the only witness of the drowning, and it was he who gave the alarm to Supt. William A. Anderson and the life guards, who recovered the bodies later about 45 feet from shore.

According to both Clinton and Anderson, the men have been repeatedly cautioned about going into the water in an overheated condition. The two men, according to Clinton, arrived on the beach about 10 o'clock and started a game of "toss," each playing as fast and hard as he could. At the end of the game they took a fast run up the beach toward Nahant, and returning to a point about a quarter of a mile from Nahant, both men entered the water as far as their waists and there continued the game of ball.

When they seemed to have tired of the sport, both started on a long swim from shore. The water in this particular spot is not very deep and both men were expert swimmers. When about 200 yards from shore Leandrin lived, and it is thought called upon LaBlanc for help. The men were swimming for help. The men were swimming for help. The men were swimming for help.

TRUENMAN—The funeral of the late Samuel C. Trueman took place from his late home, 11 Walte st., yesterday morning at 9.15. Services were conducted by Rev. L. L. Green. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, including a pillow inscribed "Husband and Papa" from the family; standing present and star, brother and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Churchill and family, New Bedford; oyal mound with dove, D. A. Lakin, Concord Junction; spray of asters, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Sears, New Bedford; spray of roses and asters, Mrs. Dean and Mr. J. E. IN POLICE COURT

Dentist's Bill Sets Two Women Fighting

A dentist bill which caused considerable trouble between two women, figured as the most important piece of evidence produced in the case of Maria Lundstrom, charged with assault and battery on Freda Johnson, which was heard before Judge Hadley in the police court this morning. Both the complainant and defendant disclaimed the ownership of the bill, but in regard to the assault the court found Mrs. Lundstrom guilty and ordered her to pay a fine of $5.

According to the testimony offered in the case, Mrs. Johnson resides at 109 South Whipple street and recently received a letter addressed to "Mrs. Lundstrom, 109 South Whipple street," inasmuch as Mrs. Lundstrom had lived in the house now occupied by Mrs. Johnson, the latter turned the letter over to the letter carrier and told him that the letter belonged to Mrs. Lundstrom and gave the carrier the address where the woman is now living.

When Mrs. Lundstrom opened the letter she found that it contained a bill for dental work. She also learned that the letter had been delivered at Mrs. Johnson's house and the latter had refused to accept it. Mrs. Lundstrom then called upon Mrs. Johnson and asked her what she meant by sending bills to her house. Mrs. Johnson said that she thought the bill belonged to Mrs. Lundstrom. Then followed the colloquy.

Mrs. Johnson claimed that Mrs. Lundstrom struck her on the chin, while on the other hand Mrs. Lundstrom said that she tapped Mrs. Johnson an openlander on the chin in self-defense.

Mrs. Lundstrom said that she never had any dental work done in this city and that when she received the bill she thought Mrs. Johnson was giving her name to the dentist because excited and gave her maiden name which was Lundstrom. She testified that when she went to Mrs. Johnson's house that she felt that the bill belonged to her.

Mrs. Lundstrom was cautioned by the court not to enter people's houses and assault them. He then imposed a fine of $5.

Arrested in Middlesex Street

Joseph Poulton and Eva Trotter were taken from 1683 Middlesex street last night about 12 o'clock by Patrolman Bagley. This morning they were charged with fornication. Both entered pleas of not guilty but after the testimony had been submitted they were found guilty and each ordered to pay a fine of $15.

Denied He Was Drunk

Daniel J. Regan denied that he was drunk last night, but Special Officer Briggs said that he found Regan staggering drunk in Webster street about 11.30 o'clock last night. He was fined $5.

Cornelius Sullivan is on parole from the state farm and he will be returned to that institution. Samuel Sharrow received a direct sentence to the state farm.

James McGrade, Patrick Higgins and John H. Moriarty were fined $5 each. Six first offenders were fined $2 each.

COTTON INDUSTRY IS WORTH $4,000,000

Steady Growth in New Eng-land States Arkansas Negro Offers Free Farms to Colored Men

While the growth of the south in the cotton manufacturing industry has been rapid during the past few years, its progress has been but slight in comparison with the energy displayed during the same period in Massachusetts. writes a correspondent in the current issue of the Manufacturers' Record. His article follows:

"Massachusetts has 3,000,000 population," he says, "but it has $728,000,000 in its savings banks, or an average of nearly $250 represented in this form of savings for every man, woman, and child in the state. In this state there are over 2,000,000 savings bank deposit accounts.

"The south, with 38,000,000 population, has only $166,000,000 in its savings banks, and of that amount $81,000,000 is in Baltimore. Even including Baltimore, the south has less than 56 per capita in its savings banks, against nearly $250 per capita in Massachusetts. Omitting the state of Maryland, the south has only about $3 per capita in savings banks.

"Massachusetts has 50 times as much per capita, or, in other words, for every dollar per capita the south outside of Maryland has in savings banks, Massachusetts has about $50.

"This disproportion in the tangible wealth represented by savings banks deposits is only indicative of the vast difference in the industrial progress and the general wealth of Massachusetts, and, for that matter, of New England as compared with the south. A study of these facts is of profound interest.

"Turning from savings banks to manufacturing interests, it is found that at the end of 1904, the latest date of government figures giving the manufacturing statistics of New England, Massachusetts had invested in manufacturing enterprises $95,048,857. The south, with more than eight times as many people, with 100 times as much land area, with 1000 times more natural resources, had only $1,597,638,872 capital invested in manufacturing.

"New England as a whole had $1,370,995,405 manufacturing capital, or nearly $300,000,000 more than the south. Maryland is Texas included, though the south has 18 times the area of New England and more than four times its population. The value of the manufactured products of New England in 1904 was $2,025,998,438, while that of the south was $1,787,926,325.

"But some may say that these figures are five and six years old, and that during that time the south has made very great industrial development. That is true. The capital invested in manufacturing in the south has grown from $1,500,000,000 in 1904 to over $2,300,000,000 at present, and the value of manufactured products from $1,787,000,000 to over $2,700,000,000. This is a marvelous increase, worthy to be commended. But what has Massachusetts been doing in the meantime?

"New England was putting $75,000,000 of new money into the building of textile industries, while the south felt, and justly so, that it was doing great things because it was spending $25,000,000 in building new cotton mills. Wherever one turns from the moment he enters New England he sees on every hand the evidence of increasing wealth. He sees the power of energy combined with almost limitless wealth, made by the same energy.

"It is the human agency without raw materials, but the human agency developed to the highest type, determined to win material success regardless of a lack of advantages. It has, indeed, gathered its raw materials of manufacture from the four quarters of the globe and touched them with the magic wand of energy of trained brain, and brawn, and from this touch there is pouring out a stream of wealth so vast in its proportions as to justify the boast of the delegate from Massachusetts.

"Two hundred and thirteen new textile mills have been built or planned in the United States during the first six months of the present year. This, the wool and cotton men say, is absolute evidence of the return of prosperity.

"Massachusetts leads in 1910 construction with 52 new mills, of which 25 are cotton and 13 wool. North Carolina comes next with 28 new mills, of which 16 are cotton, seven knit, and one wool. New York state is third with 20 new mills, of which 10 are knit, six wool and three cotton. Then comes Rhode Island with 17 new mills, of which eight are wool; South Carolina with 16 new mills, all of which are cotton; and Pennsylvania with 13 new mills, of which seven are knit and six miscellaneous. Of the 215 new mills, 127 are in the north and 76 in the south. Thirty-one states are in this revival of textile industry: Alabama, 2; Arkansas, 2; Calif., 1; Colorado, 1; Connecticut, 6; Delaware, 1; Georgia, 9; Idaho, 1; Illinois, 1; Indiana, 1; Iowa, 1; Kentucky, 1; Maine, 4; Michigan, 1; Minnesota, 2; Ohio, 5; Oklahoma, 4; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 5; Utah, 2; Virginia, 4; Washington, 1; and Wisconsin, 4.

"John Bearup, a woolen manufacturer of Albuquerque, N. M., heads a syndicate which plans a $16,000,000 string of mills in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, California and other ranch states. M. C. D. Borden is putting up a 108,000 spindle mill in Fall River, Lawrence and Pacific mill company is erecting a worsted mill to cover eight blocks. A 60,000 spindle mill is under way in New Bedford. A cotton storehouse to handle 18,000 bales of cotton a year is being put up by the Nashua Manufacturing company in Nashua. Planning the 213 new mills at $50,000 each, and the 800 and more mill additions at $25,000 each, a low estimate, more than $15,000,000 has gone into textile construction in six months.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—An old-fashioned Arkansas derby, one of those proud to call himself "nigger" and equally free-spoken with all his countrymen, stood up in the second day's session of the negro business men's league yesterday and vowed that he "wouldn't change places with Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, big American as he is."

"Come out with us, you niggers," he told the New York negroes, "where the air is free and God is good, and where, if there is any gumption in you, you can have more in a year than you ever earned in all your life before. If you haven't a dollar I'll give you a farm and a chance. Come out to Arkansas."

"When I got up in the morning and see my cows going to pasture, my calves in the lot, my sheep grazing in the meadow, and my eleven boys going about to tend to the business, I say to myself, even if I am a nigger, I wouldn't change places with Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, big a man as he is."

The speaker was introduced to the audience by Booker T. Washington as Scott Bond, an uneducated negro of Madison, Ark., but a solid substance and a man of his word.

"How much are you worth?" asked an inquisitive delegate.

Scott Bond shuffled and grinned. "Well," he said, "down in Arkansas they tax us 50 cents on every $1000. I pay a few dollars less than $2000 a year."

A little arithmetic shows that this tax represents a capital appraised at nearly $4,000,000, consisting, Scott Bond said, of his own farm, 19 farms rented to other negroes, cotton gins, 26 general stores and live stock.

"What do you raise?" asked a woman delegate.

"On my place," was the reply, "I raise mules, corn, cotton, tobacco and boys and girls."

"These insurance men talk about the mortality among our race, but I tell you the thing that's killing us off is style. If the nigger women would quit wearing patent leather shoes and get out into the country and try less to be like white women, we'd have more and healthier children."

Other speakers at the afternoon session were Booker T. Washington, Mrs. Henry Villard, the daughter of William Lloyd Garrison, and Garrison's grandson, Oswald Garrison Villard, a New York editor. Solidarity, Mr. Villard thought, was what the negro most needed.

lack of advantages. It has, indeed, gathered its raw materials of manufacture from the four quarters of the globe and touched them with the magic wand of energy of trained brain, and brawn, and from this touch there is pouring out a stream of wealth so vast in its proportions as to justify the boast of the delegate from Massachusetts.

The Committee Makes Recommendation

The members of the fire department committee went on a tour of inspection yesterday afternoon and later held a meeting at city hall. The committee visited the central fire station, the Highland, Pawtucketville and Oaklands districts. The boiler inspectors have recommended that a new boiler be installed at the central fire station and the committee's visit to the Highland and Pawtucketville districts was to look over proposed sites for fire alarm boxes. The committee visited the Oaklands as the result of a request by the residents of that section for better fire protection. Chief Mosmer accompanied the committee.

At the meeting, and on motion of Councilman Achin, the committee voted to recommend to the lands and buildings committee that better heating apparatus be installed in the central fire station. Mr. Achin explained that the main fire alarm system is located on the top floor of the building and that an even temperature must be maintained. He said that if the present boiler should go wrong during the coming winter the system would be put out of commission.

In regard to better fire protection in the Oaklands district, Councilman Tracey expressed the belief that the proper thing to do would be to place a new fire house somewhere near Shedd park, but Aldermen Byam and Adams were of the belief that an auto fire combination wagon, stationed at the High street house would provide ample protection for that section.

On motion of Councilman Kilpatrick it was voted to recognize the prayer of the petitioners from the Oaklands district and to recommend the placing of an auto combination chemical and hose wagon at the High street engine house.

Public Swimming Pool

The question of a public swimming pool and bath was the main question at a meeting of the public convenience committee held at city hall last night. A few days ago the committee visited the bathhouse and swimming pool at Brookline and got a few pointers that will assist in the putting in of a swimming pool and bath in this city.

Inspector Dow of the lands and buildings, accompanied the committee to Brookline and at the meeting last night he submitted a rough sketch of a building that he thought would serve the purpose in Lowell. The plan allows for a swimming pool 50 feet long and 25 feet wide, with a depth, at one end, of three feet and sloping to a depth, at the other end, of six feet. The building would be 96 by 44 feet.

The head house, where the office, toilets, shower baths and possibly a laundry would be located, was also included in the plans. This would be 54 feet by 16 feet. Allowances were made for 44 dressing rooms surrounding the swimming pool and seven showerbaths. The building over the swimming pool, according to the plans, would be either of cement or brick.

Minor changes were suggested by the members, and finally it was voted to have Inspector Dow ask for bids on his own plans and submit them to the committee.

Although no particular location was suggested by the committee it is understood that either the South or North common would prove more suitable, the former being the choice of the committee, if only one can be secured.

A public comfort station in Merrimack square was talked over at length, but no action was taken.

HUNT FOR CAPSALIS

Reward for Capture of the Greek is Considered

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 19.—Deputy Sheriff Elmer Clark of this city and Loven D. Casler of Somersworth, who have been hunting in Maine and Massachusetts since Sunday for Nicholas Capsalis, better known among the Greeks as Capsalis, who is wanted for the alleged murder of his aunt, Marissa Capsalis, at Somersworth Aug. 10, both returned from Maine late yesterday empty-handed.

It is said that a conference will be held by Sheriff Smith and his deputies with County Solicitor Dwight Hall today in regard to the next move. Solicitor Hall stated last night that the Bangor crew had not been abandoned, but might be investigated later. A move in another direction, which the authorities have not disclosed, is first contemplated.

Whether the county will offer a reward has not been decided. There are many who think that the offer of a reward would hasten the Greek's arrest. A Somersworth man well acquainted with the Greeks said last night that the offer of a reward of a few hundred dollars would arouse an interest on the

MAYOR GAYNOR JAS. F. MORRISON

Will Leave Hospital in a Few Weeks

Going to the Eagles Convention

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Mayor Gaynor awoke today from a refreshing night's rest and seemingly much improved in spirits and strength. His physicians said, he had a fine night. Mr. Gaynor will leave the hospital in a few weeks, it is said. It is further stated that there are no present indications necessitating an operation and that the bullet gave the mayor no inconvenience and had become encysted, the physician said, and the worst that could be looked for would be a slight suppuration and that could be easily treated as a case of quinsy sore throat.

The wound in the mayor's neck is nearly healed, and the scar that will be left will be hardly noticeable.

The following official bulletin on Mayor Gaynor's condition was issued at 8 a. m.:

"The mayor slept well and is in excellent condition this morning. Temperature, pulse and respiration normal and all symptoms are favorable."

The Eagles' convention takes place at St. Louis, Mo., next week. The local aerle will be represented by Past Worthy President James F. Morrison, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Morrison and Past Worthy President Mr. Duffy.

JAMES F. MORRISON.

and Mrs. Duffy of Peabody, Mass. Mr. Morrison says this will be the largest convention ever held by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, as about every aerle in this country and British Columbia and Canada will be represented.

According to the estimate given, the Fraternal Order of Eagles gained about 50,000 members last year, making a grand total of over 400,000 members.

THE MUNSEY TRIP

Lowell People Accompanied the Autoists

Mr. Donald A. Mackenzie, of the Mackenzie Auto. Co., local agents for the Maxwell cars, accompanied by John J. Deavitt, of the Deavitt Mfg. Co., in Thorndike street, and representatives of the Courier-Citizen and The Sun, made up one of the many parties of automobilists which acted as escort from Providence to Boston to the automobilists in the Munsey historic tour yesterday afternoon.

The Lowell party left Merrimack square yesterday morning at 8:15 o'clock in a Model G, 20-horse power Maxwell toy tonneau and had a most delightful non-stop trip into the Rhode Island city. The weather was ideal, the roads for the greater part in excellent condition, the car was in perfect running order and good time was made all the way, an average speed of 30 miles an hour being negotiated.

Owing to the number of cities and towns through which the party had to pass and the restrictions in many places, it was deemed advisable not to do much speeding.

The trip which was made in two hours and 35 minutes was through Billerica, Bedford, Lexington, Waltham, Dedham, Norwood, Walpole, Wrentham, North Attleboro, Mass., Pawtucket, R. I., and Providence.

Upon arriving at Providence the Lowell party stopped at the Crown hotel, the headquarters for the tourists, after which the car was parked in Exchange place, where several hundred automobiles were parked.

Mr. Mackenzie's intention to entertain the members of his party at the Crown hotel for dinner, but upon invitation of Mr. Eugene L. R. Drake, of the Cassella Color company, a friend of Mr. Deavitt, the Lowellites were entertained at the West End club in Aborn street. An excellent dinner was enjoyed, after which the visitors were shown through the clubhouse, which occupies three floors of one of the largest buildings in Providence.

Shortly after-noon the party started to Boston with the tourists, the trip between Providence and Boston being made in one hour and 45 minutes.

Upon arriving at the Hotel Lenox, where the Bay State Automobile association's headquarters are situated, the Lowell aggregation visited the Maxwell-Eriscow headquarters in Massachusetts avenue, which was recently damaged by fire.

The return trip was made to Lowell during the early part of the evening, all members of the party having had a most enjoyable time, thanks to Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Drake.

Among the entrants in the Munsey tour were Forest L. Peabody, formerly of this city, and Jack Coffey, who drove one of the racing cars in the races held over the Merrimack Valley course last fall.

The only thing to mar the pleasure of the Munsey tour from New London, Conn., to Boston yesterday was the fact that one of the entrants rode through an auto trap in Providence at a rate of 25 miles an hour, was arrested and fined $15 and costs. The promoters of the contest feel that the police officials of Providence should have shown some leniency to the tourists on the occasion.

The Munseyites left Boston this morning at 8 o'clock and will check in at Portland, Me., tonight, the noon stop being made at Portsmouth, N. H., from Portland the route leads to Bethlehem, N. H., Burlington, Vt., Saratoga, N. Y., Binghamton, N. Y., Wilkesbarre, Pa., Harrisburg, Pa., and Washington, where the run will come to an end on August 25.

RACE TROUBLES

Admiral Marshall Makes His Report

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 19.—Rear Admiral William Alexander Marshall, commanding the Norfolk Navy Yard yesterday forwarded to the navy department a report on the race disturbances in this city on July 14th, following the Jeffries-Johnson fight. The report gives the names of ten or twelve sailors who were arrested and punished in the city courts as the result of the rioting but shows that the one marine arrested that day, had no connection with the race troubles. In which only blue jackets were involved. It has been alleged that United States marines and sailors made unprovoked attacks upon negroes. Publication of this report brought forth a protest from W. H. Ellis, of New York, in communications to both the White House and navy department and the suggestion that marines who attacked negroes without provocation deserved punishment just as severe as that given to negro troops for assaults upon white citizens in the Brownsville, Texas, affair.

MGR O'CALLAGHAN

BOSTON RECTOR IS ILL IN HOSPITAL IN CORK

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—The Rt. Rev. Mr. D. O'Callaghan, permanent rector of St. Augustine's church, South Boston, who sailed for Ireland three weeks ago, has been at a hospital in Cork, Ire., since Aug. 7, but late reports state that he is quite comfortable.

Yesterday Miss Annie O'Callaghan, a niece of the modelsgon, and a housekeeper at his residence on P street, South Boston, received a letter dated August 9, which stated that he had been taken ill with stomach trouble and was being cared for at the Cork hospital.

Later messages indicate that, while he is slowly improving, it will be necessary for him to remain there a week more.

This was Mgr. O'Callaghan's first trip to his native land in more than five years, and he planned to spend the greater part of his time in the vicinity of his native heath, Cork. He was the guest of the Very Rev. Cannon Lynch of Blarney.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to all those who so kindly assisted us in our time of trouble and bereavement. Also for the sympathy and beautiful floral tributes.

Mrs. S. C. Trueman and family.

DAM COMPLETE

Big Structure is 6200 Feet Long

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The earthwork on the big Belle Fourche irrigation dam in South Dakota, which is one of the largest earth embankments in the world, practically has been completed, according to advices received here by the reclamation service. The dam is 6200 feet long with a maximum height of 115 feet and contains 45,200 cubic feet of earth. When the distribution system is completed 600 miles of canals and laterals will carry the waters over 100,000 acres of land. About 3000 acres already are receiving water.

FOUNDED O'TOOLE

Lowell Bunched Hits in the Fourth Inning Yesterday

By getting to Mike O'Toole in the fourth inning for three singles and two doubles, Lowell defeated Haverhill at Spaulding park yesterday afternoon. In the fifth inning they got another and five was the total for the day.

The game was fast and well played, though without any startling features. Wolfgang pitched a steady game for Lowell, using his spit ball throughout. Little Joe Boyle was back in the game for Haverhill and his throwing to second was one of the features. Cooney and Magee were the batting stars of the occasion, each getting two singles and a double.

First Inning.
Hagan opened up with a single. Bannan and Moore hit grounders to Cooney, and were thrown out at first. Foulke struck out.

Foulke, Blakely hit in front of the plate and was thrown out at first by Joe Boyle. Fitzpatrick was thrown out at first by O'Toole and Cooney then drove out a single but was caught trying to steal second.

Score—Lowell 0, Haverhill 0.

Second Inning.
Merrill sent a fly to right field which Fuharty misjudged and Merrill reached third. Later he scored on a wild pitch. Cain struck out and Anderson fled out to Sullivan.
In Lowell's half, Magee opened with a single. Tenney sacrificed. Magee reaching second. Fuharty hit to Anderson and was thrown out at first. Magee taking third. Riley hit to O'Toole and was an easy out at first.
Score: Lowell, 0; Haverhill, 1.

Third Inning.
O'Toole struck out. Hagan singled to center. Wolfgang tried to catch Hagan leading off first and threw badly to Tenney and Hagan reached third. He scored a moment later when Bannan singled to left. Bannan tried to steal second and was thrown out. Moore fled out to Fuharty.
For Lowell, Sullivan and Wolfgang hit grounders to O'Toole and were thrown out at first. Blakely hit a fly to Bannan, who dropped the ball, but Blakely was thrown out while trying to steal second.
Score: Lowell, 0; Haverhill, 2.

Fourth Inning.
Foulke sent a grounder to Riley and was thrown out at first. Merrill struck out and Cain fled out to Fuharty. Nine men went to bat for Lowell in this inning and four runs were scored. Fitzpatrick was hit by a pitched ball and beat out the ball to first. Magee taking third. Fuharty followed with a single to center and Magee scored. Riley struck out. Sullivan singled and then Fuharty hit to Anderson, who threw Sullivan out at second but Tenney scored on the play. Wolfgang stole second. Blakely hit to Anderson and was thrown out at first.
Score—Lowell 4, Haverhill 2.

Fifth Inning.
Anderson hit to Fitzpatrick and was thrown out at first. Boyle sent a sharp one to Cooney who took care of the runner at first. O'Toole struck out. In Lowell's half, Fitzpatrick fled out to Moore. Cooney placed a dandy single. Magee singled to left and Bannan fumbled the ball allowing Cooney to score. Tenney sacrificed. Magee advancing a base. Fuharty fled out.
Score: Lowell 5, Haverhill 2.

Sixth Inning.
Hagan hit to Wolfgang and was an easy out at first. Bannan drove what would ordinarily be a single to right field, but Fuharty by a quick return of the ball to Tenney caught Bannan at first. Moore fled out to Blakely.
In Lowell's half, Riley hit to O'Toole and was out at first. Sullivan's grounder went to Anderson, who threw the Lowell man out at first. Wolfgang fled out to Anderson.
Score—Lowell 5, Haverhill 2.

Seventh Inning.
Foulke fled out to Cooney. Merrill hit to Cooney who made a bad throw to Tenney and Merrill reached second. Cain hit to Cooney who made another bad throw to first and Merrill tried to score, but Tenney recovered the ball in time to throw him out at the plate. Anderson sent a grounder to Wolfgang and was out at first.

For Lowell, Blakely was thrown out at first by Hagan.
Fitzpatrick singled to left field. He tried to steal second but Cooney, who was at bat interfered with Boyle's throw to catch Fitz and the latter was sent back to first while Cooney was called out. Fitz then made another attempt to steal second and was thrown out.

Score: Lowell 5, Haverhill 2.

Eighth Inning.
Boyle opened the eighth with a single. O'Toole fled out to Cooney. Hagan fled out. Bannan got a base on balls but Moore sent a grounder to Wolfgang and died at first.

DIAMOND NOTES
Fall River today is—
Joe Boyle demonstrated the fact that his arm is as good as ever. He nailed the four men who tried to steal second.
New Bedford here tomorrow.
And still we're three games behind Fall River and the first division.
Riley looks them to third.
Tom Bannan was full of life although Fuharty robbed him of a hit by a perfect throw to first from right field.
It's being whispered about the circuit that Umpire Klobedanz has leanings toward New Bedford.
Cooney and Magee had their battling eyes with them yesterday.
Cooney's two bad throws were result of the spiltball delivery of Wolfgang. Fans never know where they're going to throw when the ball is wet with saliva.
Mike O'Brien wasn't so bad if he did call Cooney out for interference.
"Michael," as Cain frequently addressed Mike O'Toole, was momentarily vexed when someone in the bleachers referred to him as a "bum," after the disastrous fourth inning. He soon recovered his composure and finished well.
Is Jesse Burkett starting to squeal, or has he cause for complaint? Just to what the Worcester Telegram says: Manager Jesse C. Burkett of the Worcester team is getting suspicious that means other than fair may be resorted to to prevent Worcester winning the pennant in the New England league.
He calls into question the action of Jacob Morse, secretary of the league, in the assignment of umpires Saturday, alleging bad judgment or something else on the part of Morse.
"There were two umpires in Lynn and two more in Brockton for those games," said Burkett. "Klobedanz was sent to New Bedford, a new umpire to the league. A couple of little teams had two regular officials, while the two leading teams who are fighting for first place had a newly appointed man," said Burkett.
"Klobedanz gave us wretched treatment. We were warned by Lowell players that he would because they said he gave it to them the day before, and we were also warned by New Bedford players who had on games. They wanted to bet on Worcester, but said they would not bet on Worcester while Klobedanz was umpiring.
"Morse sent a young fellow over to assist in the umpiring. The New Bedford folks would not let him umpire in the first game because he didn't have any credentials from Morse, but said he was sent over to act. I refused to let him go in and we got a fair deal from him.
"Some of the players say Klobedanz was not competent to umpire the game, and they say they are willing to tell why."

SOCIETY WOMAN GIVES SAILORS TWENTY-FOUR THOUSAND CIGARETS

NEWPORT, Aug. 19.—Two thousand four hundred packages of cigarettes are ready for distribution among the sailors of the north Atlantic battleship fleet, now at anchor here. The little division before the curtain rolls down on the season.

The Sox infield yesterday with Lord at third, McCannell at second and Tannhill on first with Zolner at short, was the strongest Chicago has presented here since the old days of Donohue, Isbell, Davis and Tannhill.

ARELLANES LET OUT
BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Frank Arellanes has been disposed of for the season to the Sacramento club of the Pacific coast league.
As the Boston club has a working agreement with this California club, Arellanes will no doubt be in line again next spring in better shape to go the distance than he has been this year.

NO HIT, NO FIRST BASE
DAVENPORT, Ia., Aug. 19.—Pitcher E. Faber of the Dubuque team of the Three-I league yesterday did not allow a hit and did not let a Davenport player reach first base in the nine innings played.
This feat has been accomplished but few times, notably by Cy Young, pitching for Boston against Philadelphia in 1904, and by Addie Joss, pitching for Cleveland against Chicago in 1908.
The trick was first turned by Gavlin of St. Louis in defeating Detroit in 1876. It was duplicated by Lee Richmond of Worcester against Cleveland in 1880 and by Ward of Providence against Buffalo in the same season.

MANAGER MCGRAW
OF THE GIANTS HAS BEEN INDEFINITELY SUSPENDED
NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—President Thomas J. Lynch, of the National league indefinitely suspended last night, Manager John McGraw, of the New York Giants for protesting too vehemently against the decisions of Umpires Charles Rigler and Robert Emmet in the recent Pittsburgh-New York series on the polo grounds. His announcement follows:
"I will tolerate no longer this un-pire-baiting and these tactics of putting the crowd on the umpire. I have suspended Manager McGraw of the New York club indefinitely for his actions in Wednesday's game. I am sure the high class patronage we now enjoy does not approve such methods to incite spectators which are directly responsible for the spectacle of calling in the police to protect the national league representatives."

AMATEUR BASEBALL
Saturday, Aug. 20th the Pawtucket Rhos will line up against the strong Graniteville team at the picnic grounds at Forge Pond, Forge Village. Players of the former team will take the 12.45 car for North Chelmsford.

BLAZE OF LIGHT
IN HONOR OF THE SPANISH VISITORS.
MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 19.—This old fishing port was gaily illuminated last night in honor of the visiting Spanish yachtsmen. On the yachting side of the harbor, the two big yacht club-houses were ablaze with lights. At 8 o'clock by a pre-arranged signal the entire shore on both sides was brilliantly outlined with red lights. From the dark spot in the centre of the harbor there soon issued hissing balls of fire and other fireworks effects were produced from a plant on a float. Seen all the yachts in the harbor were outlined with small electric lights and the little cove was literally ablaze. The Spanish visitors were delighted with the fête, and are enthusiastic over their reception.

FOOTBALL RULES COMPLICATED
NEW HAVEN, Aug. 19.—Walter Camp, head advisory coach of the Yale football association and a member of the intercollegiate union committee, says that the new rules look somewhat complicated. He believes the rules will work toward a lessening of certain injuries produced by the heavy mass plays of former years.

AN OLD TIMER
J. W. Warren Came to Lowell in 1850
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Warren and niece, Miss Mary Matterer of Sewickley, Pa., are visiting Mr. Oswald O'Hair, of the A. E. O'Hair Furniture company. It is a return visit, Mr. O'Hair having visited Mr. Warren a year or more ago.
Mr. Warren is 80 years old and from all appearances he bids fair to make the century run. He came to Lowell in 1850, and he was then 20 years old. He came to Lowell from Kennebunkport, Me.
He learned his trade as a locomotive builder in the Lowell Machine-shop under J. W. Peirce, and he allows that Lowell has undergone a great many changes since he left here. He managed, however, to recognize a few buildings connected with the big shop, and parts of the old canal.
While in Lowell, he boarded with a Mrs. Foster, in Suffolk street, but he has not been able to locate his old boarding-house.
Among those mentioned by Mr. Warren as being prominent in his time in Lowell was Mr. Samuel Horn, who owned a rum man. She was a pacer and was considered one of the fastest hereabouts at that time. Mr. Horn died about ten years ago.
Although Mr. Warren is well beyond the biblical three score and ten he is hale and hearty and he says he feels almost as young as he did thirty years ago.

Miss Helen Linnehan of Crosby street is spending her vacation in Haverhill and at Salisbury beach.
William J. Lannon, clerk at the Gallagher house, is enjoying this week at the hotel along the New Hampshire shores. In the late fall Mr. Lannon will make a sojourn in the Maine woods, where with his trusty dog and his good gun he allows that he will capture some big game.

SALISBURY BEACH
LARGE NUMBER OF LOWELL PEOPLE ENJOYED BRILLIANT SHOW
The annual International and midsummer carnival at this resort was held Wednesday evening, and there was a large attendance of spectators gathered to witness the brilliant display, which in point of magnificence and general beauty eclipsed any former event of this kind. The entire square at the Centre was a maze of vari-colored lights, with hundreds of Japanese lanterns of every conceivable shape and hue contributing to the brilliancy of the scene. These sparkling lights, which swayed gently in the cool evening breeze, were accentuated by scores of other brilliant light effects which adorned the various business places, and the entire scene was especially beautiful and was enjoyed by thousands from Lowell, Haverhill, Amesbury, Newburyport, Hampton beach, and in fact from every city and town throughout the Merrimack valley. Long lines of colored lanterns were suspended from the Cushing house to the Atlantic house, and all about the square there were rows upon rows of lights which made a most entrancing spectacle. The decorative scheme which was followed was quite similar to that utilized in former seasons, and to speak of the individual displays which were arranged is quite unnecessary. All of the business places operated in the event, with several of the cottages and the headquarters of the volunteer life-saving crew were included among those participating in the affair. At the close of the theatrical performance there was a magnificent display of fireworks which was presented upon the ocean front opposite the Centre, the pyrotechnics including a number of creations with several pleasing novelties. The event was characterized as "Amesbury night."

$17.50 For the $25 Lines

Reductions like these on blue serges are unusual. Fancy patterns change from season to season, and no good merchant will hesitate to cut prices on such goods down to the bone to keep his stock clean.
But with serges, it's different. They're good from one year to the next, and many men wear these weights the year round. So when we cut the prices on our staple serges $5.50 to $7.50 a suit, we have only one object—to make room for fall goods—and we need the room—every inch of it—for our new fall purchases.

Nearly all sizes are here, as we keep our serge lines filled up late in the season. Big men, and very tall men will find proportions to suit them.

The Rest Cure

August has been given over to the rest cure by the great American people. A worthy practice and I'd like to see it become even more general and widespread. The rest cure was instituted for the individual, that he might forget his work and struggles for a couple of weeks in the quest of relaxation among the great natural and artificial playgrounds of the land.

But the rest cure was never intended for a business. Let a business take the rest cure for a month and it's good bye business. The individual comes back from a vacation refreshed—a business never comes back at all. That's why we fight for business in the dull season. But we have conditions that amount to about the same thing. As a rule individuals won't buy merchandise in August: they won't buy anything but a good time. Business is virtually packed up in dress suit cases in August and shipped with the vacationist to mountain, lake or shore resort. In other words, business takes the rest cure in August with those of us who are away; and it takes it almost in spite of anything that can be done by those of us who happen to be home.

So it's a fight—a struggle; something must be done to rescue business this month. It's a case of rescuer vs. rest cure, with bargains as the ammunition.

I submit herewith the bargains. If anything on earth will make you order these goods, my prices will make you. If anything on earth could make you order Now the suit or overcoat that you will order next month anyway, these fabrics at my prices ought to.

MITCHELL THE TAILOR 24 Central St., Lowell

Read these names carefully and ask to see the goods. They are all standard fabrics, known everywhere throughout the land. They are the favorites of clothing manufacturers and tailors up and down this country and they are as welcome among them as the Lowell Sun is welcome among the homes of Middlesex county. There is no secret to the goods—they are genuine. They cost the money and they earned the reputation of being worth their cost. You can't buy better any place at any price. I've dug them up and I sell them at these prices to rescue business from the August dullness. Buy them—buy them Now on my recommendation.

NINTH REGIMENT

Will Leave Boston for Pine Camp, N. Y. Tomorrow

Tomorrow the 9th Infantry, M. V. M., will leave Boston for Pine camp, N. Y., where it will participate with other regiments from New England and the regular army in maneuvers for the next eight days.

Co. M of this city will leave with the other companies of the regiment.

The regiment will be commanded by Col. John J. Sullivan and will go out with full rank, but will be rather weak in officers, there being several vacancies in companies.

During the past week the east armory in Boston has been a veritable hive of industry, and Capt. William L. Conrad, regimental quartermaster, has been a busy man, but with the assistance of the three battalion quartermasters, Lieut. William L. Ford, Lieut. J. B. Connolly and Lieut. Richard H. Barker, he hopes to have all the 13 wagons loaded by noon tomorrow and on board the baggage train in the yards of the B. & A. railroad in rear of the Mechanics building, Huntington avenue.

The company wagons will each be drawn by two horses, and these with the mounts for the officers, will be boxed and sent along at 8 o'clock, the wagons being loaded on flat cars.

In the evening at 6:45 o'clock the regiment will assemble at the east armory and, headed by its band, march to the South station and board two special trains of standard tourist sleepers, the first section leaving at 8 o'clock and the second section 10 minutes later.

The regiment will leave in heavy marching order, and will carry two rations. Enroute each company will be supplied with coffee.

Capt. Daniel J. Murphy and his assistants will have their hands full on the arrival of the regiment, as each wagon will have to be unloaded, and afterwards he will have to go to the division commissary for rations for the regiment, which will be quite an undertaking should the regiment be late on arrival at the rendezvous.

It is expected that the regiment will be brigaded with several other organizations from New England, as Maine, Rhode Island and Vermont will be represented. Many of the officers are looking forward with no little degree of pleasure to meeting the officers of the 10th U. S. cavalry, which is at the maneuvers, and whom they met at the New England maneuvers last year.

A LADY JOURNALIST'S ADVICE TO MOTHERS

A lady journalist writes: "Of all the troubles mother endures during her baby's helpless days, skin troubles are the most perplexing. There are many of them and all are so obstinate and persistent so wearing to the little sufferer and so apt to become chronic. Often they become so virulent that life itself is threatened, and always they mar baby's beauty and cast an intolerable (though often undeserved) suspicion of neglect upon mother. I am constantly being asked for some safe and effective home remedy for rashes, pimples, blotches, eruptions, and similar blemishes on baby's skin, and especially for something really effective in cases of eczema, and I am quite delighted to hear from several of my regular correspondents that they have used Cuticura, the new medical discovery, and have obtained results far in excess of their expectations. A trial box of this wonderful healing salve is sold by all druggists at 10c; large box 25c."

Get Rid of Itching Scalp, Falling Hair and Dandruff

As a rule, one application of Parisian Sage will stop the worst case of itching scalp and make the head feel cool and refreshed.

Used as directed, this wonderful hair tonic (which can now be obtained in every town and city in America) will stop falling hair and dandruff in two weeks, or money back. Ask Carter & Sherman.

Careful people who desire an immediate scalp and hair treatment should not hesitate to try this wonderful hair tonic and hair beautifier, for nothing ever compounded can compare with it.

Get rid of dandruff; stop your hair from falling out; start to grow an abundance of luxuriant hair; make your hair look lustrous, radiant and attractive.

Parisian Sage will do it, and do it for men or woman. In an astonishingly short time, it is not sticky or greasy; it is delicately perfumed, and in summer will drive away the disagreeable odor arising from perspiration.

Large bottles only 50 cents at druggists everywhere and at Carter & Sherman's.

Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by Groux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Look out for imitations. The genuine has the girl with the Auburn hair on every bottle and carton.

The following is the roster of the regiment:

Col. John J. Sullivan commanding.

CANOBIE LAKE PARK

Another banner week of vaudeville is promised for the Canobie Lake theater for the week commencing Aug. 22, and the bill includes many acts that are known features in the variety field. The original Frank J. McNish of "Silence and Fun" fame is coming with McNish and McNish in a real fantasia of singing, dancing and talking and their most grotesque comedy. Berry and Berry are expert exponents of comedy, and their act is interspersed with much delightful music. The novelty in the program will be perhaps furnished by Darnody, the master manipulator, who does most anything he wishes with dreams and other unworldly things.

A metropolitan act is to be found on the program in that of the favorites, Joe Hearn and Matt Butler, who are novelty artists in wooden shoe dancing and in grotesque soft shoe dancing.

GREEN TIMBER

4,000,000 Feet Destroyed by Fires

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 19.—Only about 4,000,000 feet of first class green standing timber has been destroyed by forest fires in western Washington this season, according to computations made yesterday by D. P. Simons, chief warden of the Washington Forest association. About 20,000 acres have been burned over this season west of the Cascade mountains, a large part of which, however, was logged off. In addition to this green timber Mr. Simons says that thousands of cords of firewood and shingle bolts and many fallen trees that might have been cut into logs, have been burned.

LINEMAN INJURED
James E. Wilebeck, aged 52 years, residing at the Washington Tavern, was injured yesterday while engaged in his work as a lineman on the N. E. Telephone company, by being hit upon the head by a heavy wrench. The wound required five stitches and was dressed at the Emergency hospital.

BAY STATE TROOPS MAN FOUND DYING

Will Receive Largest Sum From Believed to be Victim of a Murderous Assault

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The New England militia will be helped by the federal government this year by allotments aggregating nearly $350,000 from appropriations of $4,000,000 for the benefit of the militia authorized by the last session of congress.

There are two appropriations of $2,000,000 each, one to be distributed according to the representation of each state in congress and the other to be allotted upon the basis of the enlisted strength of the militia of each state.

The allotments under the first appropriation are divided into new funds, one available for arms, equipments and camp purposes, and the other for the promotion of rifle practice.

If no emergencies arise during the year this amount will be distributed among the states according to the strength of their militia at the end of the fiscal year, June 30 next.

The $1,000,000 of the second appropriation was divided into two funds. The first is for ammunition, the allowance of which to the militia is limited to 50 per cent. of the allowance made to the regular army. The second fund is available for the purchase of supplies.

The allotment to New England upon the basis of the enlisted strength of their militia organizations is as follows:

Massachusetts, with an enlisted strength of 5494, is allotted $26,204.50 for ammunition and $1,945.02 for supplies, a total of $28,149.52.

Maine, with an enlisted strength of 1238, is allotted $5,831.79 for ammunition and $1,111.65 for supplies, a total of $6,943.44.

Vermont, with only 769 men in her militia, received the smallest allotment of any New England state, $3,846.63 for ammunition and $7,253.13 for supplies, a total of $11,100.76.

Rhode Island has an enlisted militia strength of 1037 and received $2144.47 for ammunition and $11,226.49 for supplies, a total of $13,370.96.

Connecticut received the second largest allotment. With 2,398 militia she has received an allowance of $10,919.39 for ammunition and $23,563.65 for supplies, a total of $34,483.04.

INJURIES FATAL

Boy Jumped In Front of Auto

SALISBURY, Aug. 18.—Jumping from a team directly in front of an automobile owned and operated by William Wallace Benjamin of W. Southerville, John McManis, aged 19 years, received injuries which caused his death late tonight at the Salem hospital. Benjamin was not held responsible.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Down in the dark of the floor of the Hotel Somerset, while the fashionable guests were dining all unmindful far above, a tragedy took place last evening and Night Watchman Joseph Levy of 96 Harvard street, Dorchester, was found lying in a pool of blood with a compound fracture of the skull.

Night Engineer William Lacey of 570 Columbus avenue, who had deserted his post and was nowhere to be found when the injured man was discovered, was afterwards arrested, charged with assault with intent to kill.

No one saw the struggle, if struggle there was. No one heard the sounds of the two men battling in the gloom, if they really did battle, and the great hotel was for a time in danger of sudden darkness or any other mishap that might happen as a result of the engine being deserted.

Lacey, the arrested night engineer, denied striking the night watchman, and stated that he must have fallen; but further than that he would say nothing, preferring to wait until represented by counsel.

Dr. Wagner OPTOMETRIST of New York, opened his office at 161 Middlesex Street, Lowell, Mass. EYES EXAMINED FREE

He was brought face to face with the injured man in the hospital, the officers hoping that Levy might identify him, if he appeared to be the right man, as his assailant, but Levy when he sat up in bed was still in a stupor and could only murmur: "Take that block of wood away from my head."

Shortly after 7 o'clock last evening the police of station 16 received a hurried call from the Hotel Somerset for an ambulance. The ambulance arrived at the hotel and the accompanying officers saw at once that no ordinary accident had taken place.

They inquired as to who might have been around when the prostrated Levy had received the injury, and were told that Engineer Lacey should have been in the vicinity.

Lacey was searched for but not found and another call to the station house brought Sergeant Barry with Officer Brett to the scene. Levy was hurried to the hospital, where he was found to be in a dying condition.

The police officers left on the scene were unable to learn a single fact that would shed further light on the affair except the persistent rumor that there had been bad blood between Lacey and Levy.

WOMAN DIED

AFTER HAVING A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Charles Mahagan of East 5th street, South Boston, who had a narrow escape from drowning while making a long-distance swim in Dorchester bay two days previous, died yesterday in the City hospital from internal hemorrhages.

Mrs. Mahagan was known as one of the cleverest woman swimmers at the headwaters beach at City Point. Shortly before noon Tuesday, when several bathers asked her if she was not going to take her usual long-distance swim, she struck out into the bay and met with a trying experience.

After being rescued by volunteers she was taken to the U. S. life saving station in Dorchester bay and later to her home. Her condition became more serious the following day and she was removed to the hospital.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1900 was

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

The more auto fire machines we add to our fire department the fewer fire stations and firemen we will need.

John Bull goes right ahead building Dreadnoughts without paying much attention to aeroplanes or dirigible balloons. Thus far he seems to have both the bulge and the laugh on the kaiser.

Some clergymen are never happy unless they get their congregation quarrelling with some other congregation over things which neither congregation knows anything about.

TEACH THEM A LESSON

If we are not mistaken there is a law which compels automobilists in passing a street car where passengers are alighting to go slowly and if necessary to come to a standstill. They certainly do not observe this law in Merrimack square. We have watched them frequently and not a single chauffeur seemed to have the slightest regard for the law or the least consideration for people getting on or off the street cars. We have wondered why some one hasn't been killed long ago in Merrimack square. It is not the fault of the drivers of automobiles that accidents haven't occurred in the square every day in the week.

PLAIN LOOT IN LAND DEALS

Here is what the Springfield Republican says about the Indian land scandals in which high government officials are involved:

"Not a day passes in the Indian lands investigation without justifying Senator Gore's action in dragging the scandal into the light of publicity. Each new witness seems to testify much as Congressman Carter did, when he mentioned various personages who would 'get their share,' or who were 'in on the deal.' No very high standard of morality, to be sure, was shown by the Indians who signed the names of their puppets to the McMurray contracts, but the fertile, finished rascality of the white man is manifest in all of the operations. Possibly nothing has yet developed that would send anyone to jail, although the lying here and there must be terrible. The real benefit will arise probably, from the fact that 'attorney's fees' in such cases will hereafter be known to the world as plain loot."

MAKE IT A SWIMMING POOL

There are many complaints about the condition of the pond on the South common, and many suggestions as to the possibilities of its development as a swimming pool for boys in the summer time. It is contended that the pond is hard to keep clean because it receives the drainage from the surrounding portions of the common. That could be easily overcome by running a pipe or drain around the outer side of the walk to catch the water that flows from the higher land adjoining. If the pond was thus protected, and had a concrete bottom, then there would be little difficulty in using it as a swimming pool for children in the summer season. We have nothing of this kind in Lowell, and it is about time to meet the public demand even in a moderate way.

Some method must be adopted to prevent the crank bent on homicide from purchasing a gun at the nearest hardware store or pawn shop. Otherwise every public official who does his duty fearlessly will require a body guard.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES

Fraternal societies are very good in their way. They have many fine features, and they certainly accomplish a great deal of good. But there is one feature that should be very carefully supervised in the formation and conducting of fraternal organizations, and that is the insurance feature.

Any plan of insurance that is not founded upon sound principles will sooner or later prove burdensome to the members and work irreparable injury to otherwise worthy organizations. Never fool with an insurance plan that is based on chance. Life insurance is entirely different from fire insurance. One is positive, the other is not. A fire insurance company may carry policies on a hundred buildings, and none of them may ever burn down. Barring a big conflagration only a small percentage of the buildings are likely to be destroyed by fire. But when a life insurance company takes a risk upon the lives of a hundred men, it must set down as a positive fact that the hundred men will surely die, and one hundred insurance policies must be paid within a limited time. There is no chance to this obligation. It is a positive obligation from the moment the policy is written, and the time of death, according to age, is fixed so accurately by the American mortality tables that the average expectation of life in every group of one thousand policy holders has not varied for two hundred years, including years of wars and pestilence.

Any insurance system that does not provide for the payment of every policy at the time of the expectation of death or sooner is unsound. To levy assessments only when a death occurs is a chance or gambling system of insurance that is bound to fail. Any system imposing a total loss on the insurer who fails to keep up his payments is unjust, because a partly paid policy should have a cancellation value at all times. To take a man's money for years and then give him or his beneficiaries nothing because he was unable to pay in his last days is an unjust transaction even though it be agreed to by the policy holder.

Fraternal societies should, therefore, see to it that if they introduce an insurance feature into their organizations it should be based on the simple and sound plan that a sum of money be paid in annually by each policy holder sufficient to meet the amount of his policy at the expectation of death according to the American mortality tables, and to this sum should be added a reasonable amount to pay the expenses of conducting the insurance department.

Insurance based on such a plan as this may not be as cheap as the lottery form of insurance, but it will be sound and free from every possible taint of insurance gambling.

SEEN AND HEARD

Paying the bills is the Alysine right of man.

To owe no man is almost like being a capitalist.

Some folks' idea of satire is just disagreeableness.

The man who means well too often loses his meaning.

The bald man never thinks that baldness is noticeable, much.

The uncommon thing in the world is to follow advice, something that's most commonly asked.

When a woman would discuss her friends' troubles, a man generally switches the conversation to the weather.

"I want some talcum powder," said a Hebrew gentleman to a drug clerk the other day.

"Yes, sir! Some talcum powder—Mennen's, I suppose?"

"No, no! Vimmie's!" replied the Hebrew.

"Do you want it scented?" asked the clerk, further.

"No, I'll take it vid me!"

And even with all that fun the Hebrew thought he wasn't getting his money's worth.

A well known shoe man says that he fell asleep one evening and dreamed he had died and gone to heaven. St. Peter showed him around and everything seemed to be perfect with one exception. The newcomer was surprised at the makeshifts used for footwear. St. Peter questioned him.

"How do you like things in general?"

"Oh, first class in most every way," the stranger replied.

"Most every way!" exclaimed St. Peter, in a surprised tone of voice. "Why, name one thing that's wrong."

"Well," said the recent arrival, "just look at the shoes you're wearing here—they're the limit."

St. Peter shook his head in a melancholy manner.

NERVOUS CHILD

He harried the household cat.

He worried and whipped the dog.

He sat on his auntie's hat.

He caught and he killed a frog.

He lamed with a sizable stone.

The best of his uncle's chickens.

He broke the bed, and it may be said.

With truth, that he raised the dickens.

Till grandmother raised her eyes, she did.

And murmured, "The Lord preserve us!"

But mother remarked, as she kissed the kid:

"The poor little dear is nervous."

He fidgeted, ailed and fussed—

So dainty about his meat.

He screamed that his mother must.

Have something a fellow could eat.

He answered his auntie back.

He snapped at his uncle, too.

He tortured and teased and did as he pleased.

And not what they wished he'd do.

Till grandmother raised her eyes, she did.

And murmured, "The Lord preserve us!"

But mother remarked, as she kissed the kid:

"The poor little dear is nervous."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mrs. Perry Starkweather has four women assistants in her work as assistant labor commissioner of Minnesota.

Mrs. Starkweather is the only woman in the country holding such an office, and Minnesota is the only state in the Union that has a department for women and children in its bureau of labor.

This department is a sort of clearing house for all matters pertaining to women and children in industry and school. At present special attention is being given to the home conditions.

The filling of plans with the building department of the borough of Queens, New York, discloses another of the plans of the Sage foundation, in which Mrs. Russell Sage is interested, which is developing at Forest Hills a community for working men and women.

There is to be built there a fine modern hotel for the accommodation of those who will not care to own their own homes, but who may desire to avail themselves of the privileges afforded by the community.

The plans show that the hotel will be one of the largest on Long Island. There will be three wings, the dimensions being 245 by 215 by 35 by 55.

The main wing will be eight stories in height, another will be five stories, and third will be three stories. There will be several hundred guest rooms and suites.

The construction will be entirely fire-proof—steel skeleton filled with reinforced concrete, brick and terra cotta. There will be all modern improvements, and on one of the wings there will be a roof garden. The hotel will cost several hundred thousand dollars, and it will be located on the west side of Station square, near Continental avenue, facing the splendid station which is now being erected jointly by the Long Island railroad, the Sage Foundation company, and the Cord Meyer company.

"Jere McCauley," a reformed drunkard, made, nearly forty years ago, a strong impression on the slum activities of New York in his Water street mission, which attained national fame. "Hadley," his successor, built well on the foundation, and his last words were reported as being, "What will the 'barnum' boys do?" But the present manager seems to have been in no wise behind his predecessor, until now it is announced that a new five-story building on the site, to which has been added an adjoining lot, is to be erected, the estimated cost of which will be about $100,000.

Edmond Rostand, author of "Chantecler," recently won the grand prize offered by the French Society for the Protection of Animals. The award was really made not because of any active friendship shown by the poet for dumb creatures, but because of the genuine sympathy and tenderness for them which is supposed to have animated to a very great degree his composition of "Chantecler."

There are no end of caustic critics who laugh at this idea. More serious, however, than this is the fact that the real friends of animals declare that M. Rostand and his family display quite a cruel spirit in regard to them, says a Paris despatch to the New York Times.

In the first place, the proper staging of "Chantecler" meant the spoils of thousands of harmless birds—both those of the barnyard and those which inhabit the wilds had to be employed.

In the making of costumes there was a wonderfully lavish use of feathers. The excuse that the sacrifice was made to art might be a bit better, but because of the genuine sympathy and tenderness for them which is supposed to have animated to a very great degree his composition of "Chantecler."

HOLYOKE YOUTH

Tripped and Fell to His Death

HOLYOKE, Aug. 19.—Michael Connelly, a youth of 18, tripped while at work on the roof of the new mill of the Farr Alpaca company yesterday morning and fell through a skylight down an elevator shaft eight stories to the basement.

Death was instantaneous, as his skull was badly fractured, shoulder blade broken and several ribs crushed in.

Workmen in the building rushed to him, but nothing could be done.

Asst. Medical Examiner Frank A. Woods viewed the body, which was taken to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Maurice Hogan at 325 Main street. He also leaves two sisters, Josephine and Mary, both of Holyoke.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 18.—Frank Krause of East Orange, N. J., beat P. O'Sullivan of Holyoke in two special matches at the National circuit bicycle track here last night, taking the first, a one mile sprint, in 3.10, and the second, a five mile motor paced race, in 9.00 2-5. 112,985 DEATHS

Caused by the Cholera in Russia So Far This Year

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 19.—One week's cholera record shows 23,944 new cases of cholera and 10,723 deaths, bringing the total number of cases in Russia this year to 112,985. Of these 50,237 or nearly half, have died, the exact percentage of mortality being 44.5.

The figures are those furnished by the sanitary bureau covering the week from August 7 to August 13 inclusive and are therefore official. Reports from Red Cross sources indicate that the actual figures are somewhat greater as it is a practical impossibility to register every case in an epidemic of such proportions.

Of the deaths last week 1078 were reported from the district of the Don Cossacks, 1057 from the district of Kuban Cossacks, 1018 in Yekaterinoslav province, 759 in Samara province, 416 in Voronez, 411 in the Terek Cossack district, 523 in Kherson province, 334 in the Crimea, where Russians resort for the summer months, 333 in Tambov province, and 325 in Stavropol province.

The epidemic in St. Petersburg shows a decrease, only 13 deaths having been reported for the six days ending at noon yesterday in comparison to the 232 deaths reported the previous week. The sanitary authorities of the city believe that from now on the epidemic will continue its natural decrease. The total figures for St. Petersburg since the first cases reported June 20 show 2,619 cases and 730 deaths. The mortality here in the capital is 25 per cent, less than in the southern province owing to better hospital facilities and the experience gained in handling the first big outbreak two years ago.

JAMES P. RAMSAY

Will Have Full Charge of Middlesex County Work

Probation Officer James P. Ramsay of this city has been given full charge of the probationary work of Middlesex county by the judges of the superior court.

The resignation of Rev. Robert Walker, chaplain for the past 14 years or so of the house of correction at Cambridge, from the probation work which he has taken care of for some time at that end of the county, left a vacancy which it required a man of ability and training in the work to fill. Mr. Ramsay has resigned to become chaplain of the Massachusetts reformatory, a place to which he has just been appointed.

The superior court judges immediately appointed Mr. Ramsay as chief of all the work in the county, to have charge not only of the work which he has cared for in the past, but also of that formerly conducted by Rev. Mr. Walker.

Mr. Ramsay has been given an assistant, Miss Louisa Higginbotham of Waltham. Miss Higginbotham has had considerable experience in probation work gained through voluntary service along those lines. She will therefore be of great assistance in carrying on the multitudinous minor duties of the probation officer. It was in response to the expressed wish of Mr. Ramsay that a woman was appointed as an assistant.

During the year Mr. Ramsay collected some $1000 in small sums in non-support cases in addition to his other work in connection with the office. This work and similar duties will be turned

JAMES P. RAMSAY.

Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Subattus, Maine.—"You told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills before child-birth, and we are all surprised to see how much good it did. Another Woman Helped. Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffering from nervousness and other annoying symptoms. Lydia E. For the sake of other suffering women I am willing you should publish my letter." —Mrs. CHARLES BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills.

BOGUS BILLS

SOME COUNTERFEIT TWO DOLLARS IN CIRCULATION

Lowell merchants and the public generally are warned to be on the look out for spurious $2 bills which may find their way into this city almost any day now. The bill is a good imitation of the legal tender and they have been worked in a number of New Hampshire cities, especially in Manchester. The police of the Queen City are on the lookout for the passers of these counterfeit bills and undoubtedly the "shoppers of the queen" will make their way into Massachusetts.

All of the bills are of $2 denomination, of good imitation on the green side but pale on the portrait side. They are printed on flimsy material.

MADE FAST TIME

Gamar Went a Mile in 2.08 1-2

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 19.—A record crowd attended the races here yesterday and besides some excellent contests for the purse events they saw one of the greatest mile events trotted by a stallion over a half mile track.

Gamar, 2:07 1-4, that has been racing over the grand circuit tracks, stopped off here on his way to the Empire track meeting to try for the $250 trophy offered by B. A. Bulkley of Bridgeport, Conn., for a trotter that should beat 2:09 1-2, the time made by his mare Nahma, 2:07 1-4, over this track last season.

Starting without a pacemaker, Gamar trotted twice around the track in 2:08 1-2, which is only a half second slower than the world's stallion record over a half mile track, held by Crescens, 2:02 3-4. The first half was in 1:04 3-4 and the last quarter in 51 3-4 seconds.

Ray Miller, whose birthplace is at Chester, a few miles from here in Orange county, won the 2 year old sweepstakes with the Dromore farms well mannered colt Judge Brooks, by Baron More, 2:14 1-4, out of Expectation, dam of Major Delmar, 1:59 3-4.

George G. Moore, the colt's owner, occupied a box in the grandstand and not only saw Judge Brooks win but also saw Miller drive Belle Bunker, his chestnut daughter of Axworthy, a winner of second money in the 3 year old trot. Chatty Direct, bred in Kentucky but owned in Massachusetts, won the event very handily and acted like she could have gone several seconds faster than her best heat, which was in 1:16 1-2.

The 2.25 trot proved the most hotly contested race of the day, it took five heats for Baron Aberdeen, the champion, to win. Madge Worthing trotted a grand race and when she did not win heats was only beaten a few inches. The summary:

THE DIVING HORSES

Probably the most interesting feature that was seen at Lakeview park last season was that provided by the original Prof. Holloway's diving horses. At that time they made such a pronounced hit and there were so many requests for a return engagement that their manager has been induced to cancel western engagements to appear again at the Boston & Northern street railway's circuit of parks. They will give absolutely free exhibitions at Lakeview park every afternoon and evening during next week.

As people who saw the horses last year well know, they are very beautiful specimens of the equine family. They are pure snow white. Since they were very small colts, when they first evidenced a desire to dive, they have been trained particularly for this purpose. They have had the most careful attention; in fact, they have been given fully as much care as the average child. These horses have never been ridden and have never worn a shoe. They are sleek and beautiful.

It is necessary wherever they appear to build for them special stalls which must be fitted with electric lights. Two men are in constant attendance upon them and sleep by their side each night. These horses really and genuinely delight in their work. They do not have to be whipped off the high platform from which they dive, nor do they have to be coaxed. It is no exaggeration at all to say that they would a great deal rather do their dive and have the pleasure of a plunge in the cooling waters of the tank than to remain inactive in their stalls. Their dive is especially graceful, and one which appeals to the natural love which everyone has for the sight of a beautiful horse in action.

PLEASANT OUTING

At the Home of Albert O'Heir, Clark Road

Mr. Albert E. O'Heir, the well known furniture dealer, gave a large number of his friends a most delightful evening's entertainment at his beautiful suburban home on Clark road last evening.

Mr. O'Heir has certainly become somewhat of a farmer in that district. He promised his friends when he became properly situated on his farm he would give them an outing, and that time arrived last evening when his spacious lawn never looked more beautiful. There were hundreds of Japanese lanterns illuminated and strong all about the trees and the house, and with the darkness of the night they showed to great advantage, and looked pretty from a distance.

Mr. O'Heir has a very pretty home, and it was agreed by all present to the number of fifty, that no better time nor place for an outing could be chosen than at the O'Heir farm.

One of the most interesting features of the event was a "Corn Roast," which is certainly a novelty, and considerably out of the usual, but none the less pleasant. The idea of this feature arose from Mr. O'Heir's talk about the superior quality of his farm products, particularly his sweet corn, which he claimed to be superior to any found elsewhere in Middlesex county. His friend, Joe Duffy, selectman from Tewksbury, disputed the statement. Well, Joe is considered by everybody an authority on agriculture, so it was decided that Albert would produce the sample of the products on his farm in the form of sweet corn. Joe was to have a committee with him to test the quality of the corn. By a unanimous vote it was considered the best corn ever seen. The corn roast on the lawn was a novelty to most of those present.

Another feature of the occasion was the dedication of Mr. O'Heir's new home. An impromptu program was rendered, which consisted of about every stunt that might be thought up to go with a husking bee.

Mr. O'Heir was acknowledged the king farmer of Clark road, while Mrs. O'Heir proved her ability in the domestic line by the bountiful supply of refreshments she had prepared and the ingenious way she had of serving them.

After the pleasures enjoyed on the spacious lawn the party repaired to the house, where both vocal and instrumental music, readings and other pleasurable pastimes were indulged in. The entire party before leaving became patriotic and the whole assembly joined in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

JOHN GOLDEN

TRIES TO AROUSE LABOR UNIONS OF LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, Aug. 19.—Following in the wake of the suffragette campaign of last week John Golden, former president of the National Mute Spinners' association and now general president of the United States Textile Workers, assisted by several prominent women, representatives of the Woman's Trade Union league of Boston, are in Lawrence this week conducting a series of meetings in behalf of the cause of organized labor.

The movement is not to stir up a strike but to organize the women textile workers as well as the men. President Golden will stop at the Hotel Needham, through the week and has already opened headquarters at the Central Labor Union headquarters, 184 Broadway.

Mill gate and street corner campaigns similar to those conducted last week by the "Votes for Women" workers, will be held each day. The women who are here assisting President Golden are Mrs. Glendower Evans, who was here last week in the interest of the "votes for women," Mrs. Sarah Conloy, Miss Gillespie and Mrs. Mary K. O'Sullivan. The first three named were prominently identified as leaders during the Roxbury carpet factory strike through which they gained a great deal of newspaper notoriety.

Meetings will be held at the junction of Lawrence and Essex streets and Essex street and Broadway every evening and at the various mill gates during the noon hour. The speakers are able and forceful and are listened to with intense interest by large crowds every day.

Mrs. Conloy and President Golden spoke at the corner of Essex and Lawrence streets last night. Organization was the theme.

TWO MEN ARRESTED

Larceny of Silk Valued at $50,000 is Alleged

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—A scheme to rob the Boston & Maine railroad and a leading woolen merchant of thousands of dollars was unearthed last night by Inspectors Glenavey, Pelton, Linton and Laughlin, and two arrests followed, though more are expected.

At present about $2500 is involved, but the arresting officers say that the accused had planned to divert $50,000 worth of silk, which was soon to be put into transit over the Boston & Maine lines, with Boston as its objective point.

Those arrested last night gave their names as William Potter, 33, claiming to live at 83 Brooks street, East Boston, and John H. O'Neill, 32, who says he lives at 6 Harmony place, South Boston. Both are teamsters.

Last night 14 rolls of woolen containing 700 yards were recovered in a tailoring shop in Meridian street, East Boston, by the arresting inspectors. This was brought to police headquarters in a team with Inspector Linton as guard.

An employee in the mills where the alleged stolen goods were sent from is under surveillance, the police having evidence to show, they claim, that he was a party to the fraud. This mill is to take stock on Sept. 1, and it is said that the employee in question intends to resign right away, so that when an inventory is taken at the mill he will be conspicuous by his absence.

About two months ago, when the police first learned of the big swindle, three rolls of cloth were found in a local tailor shop, and since then the officers have been quietly working up their case. They did not want to make any arrests too hastily, as they heard that a big shipment of silk, valued at $50,000, which was to be shipped here, would be diverted to someone other than the consignee and then disposed of at a low figure.

MORE ARRESTS

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Two more arrests were made today in connection with the wholesale stealings of wool from the Boston & Maine and various Massachusetts woolen mills. The men arrested today, Edward Perkins and John Rose, are teamsters. Perkins was on the team last night when the first two defendants, John O'Neill and William Potter were arrested, but managed to make his escape. The officers waited for him this morning and took him into custody as he appeared at his place of work. It is alleged that the wool thefts will aggregate $50,000.

Philadelphia and Chicago Loom Up as Pennant Winners

By TOMMY CLARK.

NOW that the baseball teams are nearing the homestretch in the American and National leagues pennant races the two organizations are beginning to shape themselves so as to give the fans a very good idea as to which teams will fight it out for the world's championship this fall. Of course there may be an upset in either league before the final games have been played in the 1910 pennant struggle; but, judging from the class of ball certain clubs have been playing, it appears that picking Philadelphia in the American and Chicago in the National would not be such a bad guess as to the probable outcome of the leaders in the two leagues.

Manager Mack has everything that he needs to pull off the trick and is almost sure that he will do it. He has the best balanced team in the league this year and has worked his way to the top in the face of some discouraging handicaps in the way of injuries to players. The Detroit team is not as good as it was last year, while the Athletics are better than ever. The Bostonians are good, but not quite the equal of Connie Mack's bunch, and there is nothing in the second division that compares with the leaders.

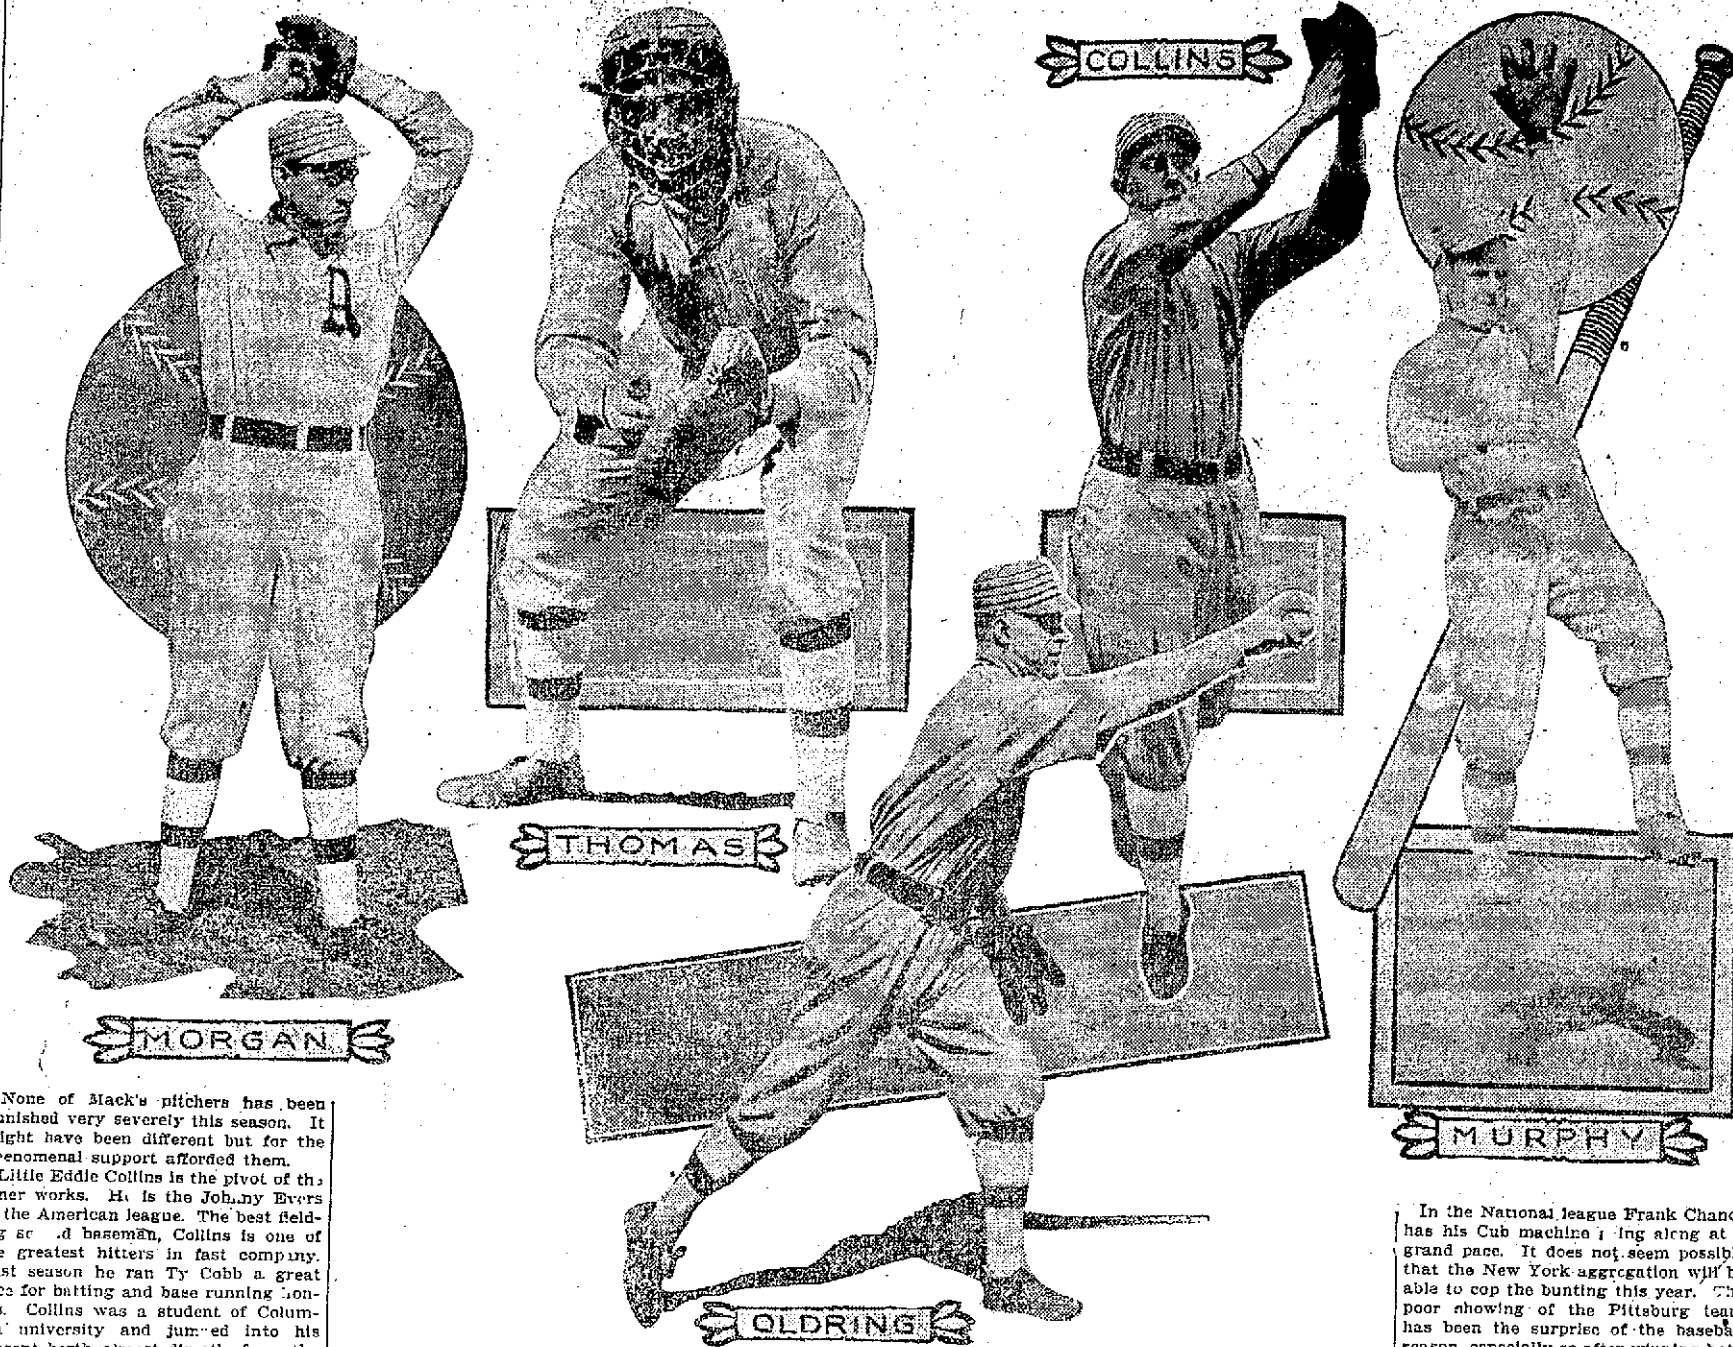

If the Athletics do win the pennant the team that beats them for the world's title will have to do some stepping.

The team is well fortified offensively and defensively for the development of every character of strength. The infield, from first base to third base, is made up of a quartet of stars easily the equal of anything in fast company. The outfield is not the speediest imaginable. But the garden trio makes up in hitting ability whatever may be lacking in the ground covering line. At third, Topsy Hartsel, Rube Oldring and Danny Murphy are masters at playing for batters, and all are pretty shifty on the base path.

But on top of all this Connie Mack has the greatest staff of pitchers in either league today. Eddie Plank is one of the greatest soups in the game. Chief Bender, at present indisposed, is this year the equal of any other right hander in the league, while Cy Morgan and Jack Coombs have shown remarkable ability so far. To Coombs falls the honor of rounding out this formidable array of box material. Mack carried the tall boy for a couple of seasons because of his great hitting ability. Besides figuring as a pinch hitter, the pitcher subbed in the outfield. Coombs was bothered with a lame arm for a long time after he joined the Athletics. Toward the end of last season the big fellow rounded into fine condition. He gave such promise that Mack held on to him, and the keen judgment of Connie is well reflected in the gallant performance of Coombs so far this year.

None of Mack's pitchers has been punished very severely this season. It might have been different but for the phenomenal support afforded them.

Little Eddie Collins is the pivot of the inner works. He is the Johnny Evers of the American league. The best fielding second baseman, Collins is one of the greatest hitters in fast company. Last season he ran Ty Cobb a great race for batting and base running honors. Collins was a student of Columbia university and jumped into his present berth almost directly from the campus. Collins' aged Clarke Griffith, then manager of the Highlanders, to give him a trial. For some reason the "Old Fox" failed to look the youngster over. Griffith couldn't get Collins now for a fortune.

Some of Mack's Stars Who Are Burning Up the Diamond

Scarcely less phenomenal and meteoric has been the career of Third Baseman Baker. As a fielder this fellow stands out as prominently as his position as does Collins at second base. Baker is a heavy hitter and finished base runner, though in both these departments somewhat inferior to Collins. This young gentleman stands a monument to the managerial ability of Connie Mack. In the spring of last year he appeared the biggest frost that ever donned spangles. Yet before the end of the season Mack had converted him into the sensation of the year. Had Baker not been spiked by Ty Cobb near the close of the season it is generally believed that Philadelphia and not Detroit would have played the Pirates for the world's championship last fall.

Harry Davis, first baseman of the leaders, is one of the best known and most highly respected figures in baseball. He is a veteran of the old school, a man who has been in the game almost as long as any infielder now before the public. Davis is of that type which is fast disappearing before modern developments.

He is a great slugger and holds the long distance hitting records of the league. Davis has knocked the ball over almost every fence in the American league. It was generally believed in 1908 that Davis had about outlived his usefulness, and there was some talk of Mack releasing him so that he could accept the management of an American league club. But Davis came back last season with all his old snap and vim. This year he is even better than last.

While there is little of the fancy style in his makeup, Davis is a steady, heady and capable fielder. He stands second only to Hal Chase in the American league in fielding the first base position.

World's Series Stars Fall Out by Wayside

Players Who Were Prominent in Big Games Seem to Be Hoodooed

Is it a Jonah to be one of the shining lights in the world's baseball series? The hoodoo that seems to pursue the men who star in the big show would lead one to believe so.

Bill Dineen, who practically pitched Boston to a victory over Pittsburgh, is now an umpire on the American league staff. Most people are willing to take an oath that no greater calamity can befall a man.

Billy Gilbert, whose batting played as prominent a part as Mathewson's pitching in the Giants' victory over Philadelphia in 1905, is no longer a big leaguer. He played his last engagement with St. Louis and is now having his troubles holding up his end in the minors.

George Roche, whose work at third base and particularly at the bat made the Chicago White Sox's victory over the Cubs possible in 1906, has been out of the big league for several years. He has since shifted his affections to first base and is now playing that position for the New Orleans team of the Southern league.

No two Detroit players played better ball in the series of 1907 than Charley O'Leary and Claud Rossman. Before the opening of the series Rossman was regarded as the feeble sister, but his work was superior to that of Frank Chance. O'Leary is now playing utility roles for the Tigers, while Rossman has dropped out of the majors. Johnny Kling was the big show in 1908, and last year Kling did not play ball. Believing his work during the season and in the series had a great deal to do with the Cubs' success, Kling held out for a fancy increase in salary. He didn't get it and refused to play, thereby losing his big salary.

Coming down to the series of last year, take the two idols of the Pittsburgh team, "Babe" Adams and Hans Wagner. Wagner by his great work in all departments of the game kept the Pirates in the running in every game, while Adams by thrice defeating Detroit made it possible for the Pirates to be labeled the world's champions. Adams has been getting his bumps regularly this year, while Wagner has been hitting like the immortal Casey.

FAMOUS ENGLISH PEDESTRIAN.

England has a famous pedestrian who is somewhat of a rival of Edward Weston. It is the octogenarian walker Mark All. His latest effort is to walk 5,000 miles in 90 days. All originally started out in 1900 to walk 100,000 miles in ten years. He finished his task on July 31, 1909. In the September following he was once more on the move, for he intended to keep walking for ten years, and he set himself to cover 10,000 miles in 200 days. He actually did the distance in 196 days, completing the last mile on April 4, 1910. When he finishes his latest 5,000 miles he will have tramped 115,000 miles since August 6, 1900.

all, McIntire, Richts and Pfeister. Not an infield in the league compares with Chance, Evers, Tinker and Steinfield, and where could one find three better garden men than Hofman, Sheppard and Schulte? As to catchers, Archer is about as clever as they make them, and then there are Kling and Needham as second string men. It looks like the Cubs all the way.

RACING TO BOOM IN CANADA.

Toronto Man to Head Syndicate Which Will Expend Fortune.

It would seem that Canada, ever the home of the thoroughbred, will be very much on the racing map hereafter. Tentative plans looking to the formation of a second Canadian racing circuit have been formulated, with Toronto the headquarters of the syndicate. According to dispatches just to hand, A. Orpen, the Toronto pool-room king, is back of the enterprise, which, it is said, will expend upward of $800,000 in three new mile tracks. According to those associated with Orpen, it is the intention to build a new mile track at Toronto, probably on the site of the Dufferin Driving park, and in which Orpen holds the controlling interest. Another at Hamilton and a third at Montreal. All three cities boast of half mile courses in addition to the regular mile affairs, and these, it is understood, will be converted into regulation courses.

Associated with Orpen is Joseph A. Murphy, for years a prominent racing official in the middle west. Murphy, when interviewed on the subject, stated that while he was not conversant with the intricate details of the enterprise, he was sufficiently apprised of the facts to warrant the belief that the expectations of the promoters would be realized. Murphy further intimated that the project met with the approval of the Canadian Racing associations, the governing body in things turf over 'ome.

"Under such an arrangement," said Murphy, "Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal would then have fourteen days racing both spring and fall. Under the recently enacted Miller bill there can only be seven days of racing at any one track, spring and fall, but the tracks each, of course, are not limited; hence you see the new circuit would be protected. While nothing of an official nature has come to my notice, I have been led to believe that the formation of a 'second circuit' meets with the approval of the Canadian Racing association and will receive its hearty cooperation."

THINKS THE CARDS WERE STACKED.

President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh club is of the opinion that the deck was stacked against him in the deal whereby the Cincinnati Reds secured Pitcher Benton from the Macon (Ga.) club. Pittsburgh offered $7,000 for this player, and an hour and a half later the Reds offered the same price. The Macon management wired Garry Herrmann that his bid was $250 too low, and when this raise was called Macon sold to the Reds. This action was taken by the Macon management after it had been announced that bids for Benton would close at a certain time. When this time arrived the Cincinnati bid had not been received.

BEST CHANCE AWAY FROM HOME

It is not always the best thing for a young ball player to get his first trial in fast company at home. If things break well for him all well and good, but should he have a few poor days he is sure to come in for his share of roasts, under which he may give way entirely. This is particularly true if the player has been heralded as a star.

HAL CHASE, NEW YORK AMERICANS' SENSATIONAL FIRST SACKER, IN ACTION.

The recent reports circulated by several ball players to the effect that Hal Chase, the sensational first baseman of the New York Americans, was sulking because he was not given full credit for the success of his team in this year's pennant race and that he would quit shortly is all tommyrot, say the officials of the New York club. The Highlanders' star was out of many games recently, and this caused the rumors to spread. The real cause for Chase's absence was that he was suffering from a lame back. He is now back at his old stand playing that same game that has characterized his playing since he broke into fast company.

PITCHER MADDOX, PIRATES' YOUNGSTER, WHO SEEMS TO HAVE LOST FORM.

What's the matter with Nick Maddox, the clever young twirler of the Pittsburgh Nationals? This is the question that many Pirates fans are asking this season. Last year and the one before Nick was considered to be one of the best young twirlers in the senior organization. But this season his arm seems to be in such poor condition that Manager Clarke uses him only occasionally. With Maddox in good shape he would be a great aid to the Pirates.

CHAIRMAN MANN BAVARIAN DUKE WILL SEE AMERICAN CITIES AND GIRLS

Delivered Address at Versailles

PARIS, France, August 18.—The grandest name in all the history of America is the name of George Washington and the history of all the nations gives us none that is grander," said James Mann, chairman of the Virginia commission, in the course of his address at Versailles yesterday in presenting to the people of France on behalf of Virginia a bronze copy of Houdon's statue of Washington. The original of the statue stands in the state capital at Richmond.

Mr. Mann recounted the splendid deeds of "the father of his country" both in war and in peace and paid fitting tribute to the illustrious Frenchmen who aided America in its struggle for liberty. "We remember always," he said, "that but for the aid of France success could not have crowned the efforts of Washington in our Revolutionary war. It is because Virginians remember these things and remembering them, love the people of France, that we have come in their name as the bearers of this token of their affection." The statue was accepted in behalf of the French government by M. Pinchon, secretary of foreign affairs.

"The graciousness with which the gift of this statue has been received," said Mr. Mann, "has added to the pleasure Virginia has felt in sending her best loved son to stand on the soil of France, amid the only allies of offensive and defensive America has ever had. It was a beautiful thought that prompted the people of France to place on the right of this statue of Washington the bust of Lafayette, his most trusted lieutenant and dearest friend, and on his left Sullivan, the gallant commander of the redoubtable Fantassur, who dealt such telling blows to the British ships upon our coast and later, by his bravery, won for himself the high honor of being the admiral of France. It is indeed fitting that there should be placed within the pedestal as a part of his support the names and portraits of the brave French soldiers who made possible the successful termination of the war and thereby entitled Washington to stand upon that high pinnacle of fame which history accords only to the victorious. His spirit, as it hovers here above his statue, must indeed feel that he stands in the midst of his friends."

Mr. Mann referred to the fact that it was within the very walls within which he stood and where the statue had been placed that on September 3, 1783, was signed the Treaty of Peace between Great Britain and the United States. "This indeed the birthplace of our nation," he said, "and we have come in grateful recognition of the splendid part that France took in the struggle to win our independence, to place within these walls the statue of the father of his country."

Speaking of Washington, Mr. Mann said:

"Grand as he was in war, he was grander still in peace, and to him above all others is due the adoption of the constitution, which wedded the states together into that form of government which became the pattern of future republics. Curious and courtly to all men, a tender affection characterized his intercourse with his friends. Lafayette's heart went out to him in filial love; Beaumarchais held him as a dearly beloved brother in arms; de Grasse admired him and was called him friend; Chestnut declared him to be the greatest and best of all men while his own people with one accord have proclaimed him "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

In glowing terms, Mr. Mann referred to Lafayette and the affectionate regard in which Americans hold his memory.

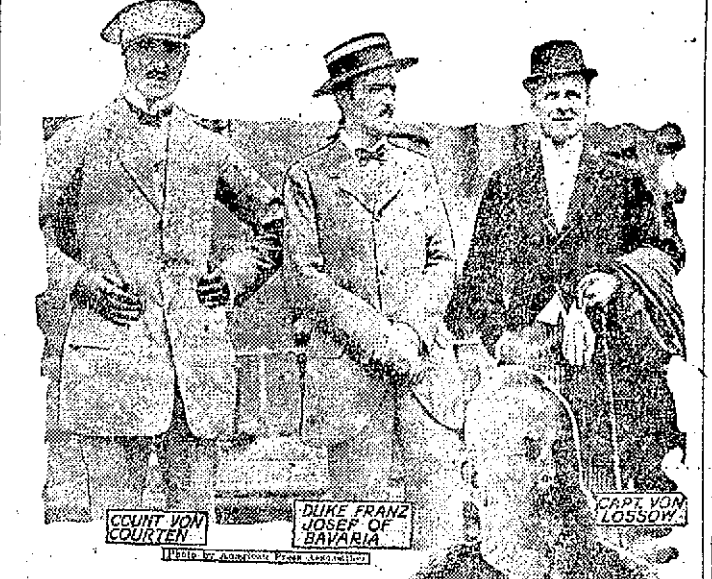

"No name in all the history of our Revolutionary period, save only that of Washington," said Mr. Mann, "is so dear to the American people as that of the gallant young Frenchman, who before he had reached the age of twenty became a major-general in the army of the United States, having tendered his services as a volunteer without pension or allowance." Before the constitution was adopted Lafayette had been by legislative act declared a citizen of Virginia, the highest honor a free state can pay to any man; and upon his death by order of the president of the United States the same honors were rendered the nation as had been observed on the death of Washington.

His love for our state was touchingly shown when he named a daughter Virginia. And I am proud to relate that when offered his choice of commands in the Continental army he selected a division, composed entirely of Virginians. It was he, at the head of his division of brave Virginians, who drove Cornwallis into the untenable position at Yorktown and held him there until the coming of Washington and Rochambeau by land, and of de Grasse and St. Simon by sea. Cornwallis had said of him, "The boy cannot escape me," but it was due to the splendid strategy of the boy that the entire British army on the glorious October day in 1781 was forced to march out in humble submission between the line of French and Americans and laid down its arms.

Mr. Mann related how a Frenchman had been chosen to perpetuate the form of the illustrious Washington in imperishable marble.

"The war drama of the Revolution had hardly ceased to sound before the new born state of Virginia voted a statue to Washington," he said. "Desiring to honor the greatest of her sons, she knew when she enshrined in the place of highest honor in her capital that splendid figure of a man, that she was handing down to generations that and now unborn an inspiration that would redound always to the good of the commonwealth."

"Jefferson, author of our Declaration of Independence and later president of the republic, then in France, selected for this great work the illustrious French sculptor, Jean Antoine Houdon, whom he declared to be without rivalship, the first statuary of the age. Houdon visited America and at Mount Vernon, where he was entertained with that courteous hospitality which distinguished the home life of Washington."

COUNT VON COURTEN DUKE FRANZ JOSEF OF BAVARIA

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Many American cities will be visited by Duke Franz Josef of Bavaria, who arrived here recently, and, while the duke neglects to say so, there is reason to believe that he will not be averse to meeting American girls wherever he journeys. The duke is a good looking, genial bachelor of twenty-one and is accompanied by Captain von Lossow of the German army. He says there would be no royal objection to his marrying an American and added, "You know the Emperor William is very fond of Americans." Duke Franz Josef is a nephew of the prince regent. The possibility that he may ever ascend the throne is rather remote. The duke's father was the Duke Karl Theodor, noted for his contributions to the various branches of optical science. Karl Theodor was one of the most skilled opticians in Europe. He died, and Franz Josef succeeded him in the year 1909. Franz Josef's mother is an aunt of the king of Portugal. His aunt, the Empress Elizabeth of Austria, was assassinated in Geneva twelve years ago. The young duke is a lieutenant in Emperor William's first regiment of Uhlans. He has had three years' service and is one of the expert horsemen in Europe. "After I complete my present term of service," said the duke, "I shall visit America again. I think it is much better for me to have work to be interested in. I love work. I could never be idle. I think when you are engaged in some sort of work that life is much more satisfactory. I am very keen to learn about your wonderful commercial life we hear so much about on the other side. I want to visit your large industries here. I shall go to Chicago and then to the Pacific coast. I shall look into your banking system and what you call your 'million dollar enterprises.' I should like very much, I think, to return here when I complete my army service and enter the banking business."

He studied thoroughly his subject, took accurate measurements and even made a mould of his face. Returning to France, under in your beautiful Paris, working patiently and with consummate skill, Houdon fashioned in marble the perfect statue which was described by Lafayette as a "fac simile of Washington's person."

"It is accepted as the standard and one perfect likeness of Washington, more than any portrait the best artist could produce, as a work of art it surpasses any statue in America, its value to my people cannot be measured in gold, or in silver or in precious stones. It is a beautiful bronze copy of this statue that we have brought to you on behalf of the people of Virginia."

In glowing terms, Mr. Mann referred to Lafayette and the affectionate regard in which Americans hold his memory.

"No name in all the history of our Revolutionary period, save only that of Washington," said Mr. Mann, "is so dear to the American people as that of the gallant young Frenchman, who before he had reached the age of twenty became a major-general in the army of the United States, having tendered his services as a volunteer without pension or allowance." Mr. Mann related how a Frenchman had been chosen to perpetuate the form of the illustrious Washington in imperishable marble.

"The war drama of the Revolution had hardly ceased to sound before the new born state of Virginia voted a statue to Washington," he said. "Desiring to honor the greatest of her sons, she knew when she enshrined in the place of highest honor in her capital that splendid figure of a man, that she was handing down to generations that and now unborn an inspiration that would redound always to the good of the commonwealth."

THEATRE VOYONS

The story of the eastern tenderfoot's adventures in the wild and woolly west is familiar to many and much fun has been made of them in "Willie" the comedy at the Theatre Voyons today. The laughs are plenty, the story interesting and the staging real western from top to bottom. It is one of the best western comedies yet shown and met with a most favorable reception yesterday. The dramatic feature is "The Attack on the Mill," a story of the Franco-German war, well acted and staged with due regard to history. It depicts several very dramatic episodes, deals with the affairs of a father, daughter and sweetheart, hides many other characters. The Sunday program to be offered next Sunday is a first class one in every way and the musical selections by James and Lillian Bales are especially worthy of attention.

NIGHT EDITION

SAVED HER HUSBAND

Plucky Woman Rescued Him From Quicksand

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The quick wit and invincible grit of Mrs. Mary Barth, a frail, slightly built woman, saved her two-hundred-pound husband, James Barth, from death in a quicksand yesterday. By swinging back and forth, suspended by her hands, from the limb of a tree until her feet came close enough for him to grasp her ankles, she succeeded in setting him to safety; then, exhausted by the mental anxiety and physical strain, she collapsed, and he had to carry her home in his arms.

Mr. and Mrs. Barth live in West street, Jamaica. They are well known socially and in church circles, the husband being bass soloist in St. Mary's Roman Catholic church.

Mr. and Mrs. Barth were gathering elderberries. They had learned that berries grow in profusion on a piece of boggy ground on the shore of Jamaica Bay, south of Jamaica. They had not been told, however, that in the middle of the bog there is a dangerous quicksand. The couple carried a large basket and they soon had it half full of berries.

The husband had been standing beside a bush for several minutes, busily picking, his wife some distance away, picking into a small tin pail that she carried. When Barth tried to walk to another bush he found he was stuck in the muddy sand up to his ankles, and that each moment he was sinking deeper. In a moment he realized that he had wandered into a quagmire. He struggled to free himself, but his efforts had the opposite from the desired effect, and he had soon sunk to his knees. Then he called to his wife to help him, but warned her not to come too close or she, too, would be caught.

About twenty feet away stood a large tree, with a branch extending over the quicksand, about six feet from the ground.

"If I could only reach that branch I'd be safe," said Barth.

"Well, I can reach it, and you can reach me," said his wife, after a moment of thought.

Grasping the limb she edged herself carefully along until she was close to her husband. Then she swung back and forth several times until finally he was able to grasp her ankles. Mrs. Barth knew that her husband's life depended upon her ability to cling to the branch. Barth tugged and tugged, for he had sunk almost to his waist. Encouraging his wife to hold on, he drew himself out little by little. Finally he was able to grasp his wife about the waist, give a mighty heave, and emerge from the sand.

Mrs. Barth's last ounce of strength left her at her husband's final pull, and she fell helpless. Barth picked her up and carried her to the nearest trolley car line, a mile away, and both reached home little the worse for their experience.

COTTON MILLS

Many Spindles Will Be Idle

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Millions of spindles in the cotton mills of the country will be idle for periods varying from one week to sixteen days during the latter part of this month and the first half of September. Mills in New England employing 50,000 operatives have already posted notices announcing a general curtailment, and it is understood that similar action will be taken by many other concerns.

In the southern states more than three million spindles will be idle one week in September.

In New England a number of mills shut down tonight until Sept. 6. Among these are the Pacific mills, Dover, N. H.; Everett mills, Lawrence, and other concerns will close as follows:

Clinton, Lancaster, glingham mills, Sept. 3 to Sept. 12.

Biddleford, Pepperell and Laconia mills, Sept. 3 to 12.

Saco, Me., York mills, Sept. 3 to 12.

Greenville, N. H., Columbian mills, Aug. 20 to Aug. 29.

Manchester, N. H., Amoskeag Mfg. Co., Aug. 26 to Sept. 12.

The Tremont & Suffolk mill and other Lowell corporations will also suspend.

The two Chace mills in Burlington, Vt., have closed for an indefinite period, and the Queen City mills, Burlington, are running half time. A short time policy among numerous other cotton plants in New England will be continued during September, according to the present outlook.

ALLEGED MURDERER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—It was learned here today that Gustav Rist, Jr., the young American who was reported to have been murdered in Bolivia on June 11 last, was a native of Bloomfield, N. J., where his father now resides. The state department has requested the American minister to make an investigation. Young Rist was an engineer at a gold mine near the Bolivia-Peru border. According to a letter he was shot in the back by a Spaniard named Yaccara.

STRIKERS WARNED

Police Officers Told to Shoot Into Crowd

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 19.—Chief of Police Mason had the laborers' strike leaders at the central police station for an interview today in the course of which the labor leaders were told the chief's views of just what they can and cannot do. "There will be no more shooting in the air," said Chief Mason. "If the police have to draw their revolvers they will mean business. I told Allesandro, Silva and the secretary of the union this morning, that we will not allow any intimidation of the workmen on the jobs whatever. The contractors are needlessly alarmed. I have talked with some of the men on the jobs and I find that they do not fear at all being molested while they are at work, but are afraid of what the other fellows will do to them after hours. We have furnished absolutely all the protection that the men at work need, but no amount of protection would be able to take that fear out of the minds of the laborers. In my opinion the situation is not at all serious. If the contractors want to put more men at work they can do it without any trouble."

In the interview that the chief of police had this morning with the strike leaders he made clear to them the fact that the authorities have the power to prevent picketing on the various jobs. It was just this point that the strikers seemed to question, having declared openly that the police have no right to force them to leave the public ways in the vicinity of the jobs.

"Peaceful picketing soon resolves itself into unpeaceful picketing," said the chief. "And we cannot allow the strikers to go near the men at work and try to induce them or intimidate them to leave."

MYSTERY OF SEA COL. ROOSEVELT

Was Solved Through a Mishap

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—A seven years mystery of the sea may be solved through a mishap to the German steamship Pallanza which struck a whale at sea, nearly cutting the mammal in two, and disclosing a harpoon believed to have been used by the little whaler James Duncan, lost in 1903. The Duncan sailed from Halifax with a crew of seven men in the spring of that year and has not since been heard from. Captain Fend of the Pallanza, from Hamburg, reports that he ran into the whale on Aug. 11. The monster was firmly impaled on the prow of the steamer and the crew in chopping away the carcass found the harpoon, stamped "J. T. D." "I think the Duncan drove this weapon into the whale and a blow from the infuriated monster's tail sank the Duncan," said the captain. "You'd think so too if you'd seen that whale die."

MAN ARRESTED

EXPECTED TO SEE CRIPPEN

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The steamer Montrose, on which Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and Miss Ethel Levene traveled from Antwerp to Canada to be arrested immediately on their arrival on the American side, reached London this afternoon on her return voyage. A large crowd awaited the arrival of the steamer but the authorities absolutely prohibited any communication with those aboard and newspaper representatives, who had come to interview the captain, officers and stewards on the Crippen case, were rigorously excluded from the ship.

ARCHBISHOP TO SPEAK

At Hibernian Mass On Next Tuesday Morning

Chief Marshal O'Sullivan Announces That Nothing But Bad Weather Will Interfere With Parade — Central Council, A. O. H., Perfects Plans — Other Notes of the Coming Celebration

As the week in which the great A. O. H. celebration is to be held in this city draws near, the completion of preliminary plans emphasizes the fact that the week is to be one of the biggest of its kind in the history of the city. Thousands of strangers will make temporary residence in Lowell and as they are all to be here for a gala occasion their presence means thousands of dollars for the merchants of Lowell. The fact that Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan is the promoter of the big parade on Wednesday is the biggest "ad" for the week, for all the Irish societies of this vicinity still recall the big St. Patrick's day celebration which he promoted a few years ago while every veteran fireman in Massachusetts, be he Irish or Scandinavian, will manage to get to Lowell for any event that Humphrey runs. In Lowell we recall not only these big events but the Fourth of July celebration of a few years, promoted by Mr. Sullivan, and voted one of the best ever held here though it cost the city many a cent.

HE LIKES JAIL

WILLIAM MUIR DOES NOT CARE TO LEAVE IT

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—William Muir's term of imprisonment for disorderly conduct in the Richmond county jail on Staten Island is about to expire and he is unhappy.

Muir likes the jail life so well that only two or three days have elapsed between his different terms in the last six years. He notes it a point to get back into jail with the least possible delay.

Muir, who is about 55 years old, is an expert gardener. For six years he has had charge of the beautiful garden surrounding the jail. Thousands of people stop to admire his handiwork. The variety of flowers and their arrangement are considered in extraordinarily good taste. Indeed, gardeners from all over the island come to the jail to get pointers on new designs.

At one time Muir was in charge of Jay Gould's estate, Pinchurst, at Tarrytown. He often speaks of George Gould, "who was a fine boy when I worked for his father." He says that "any man who makes up his mind to make a million can do it if he sticks to it. If I made up my mind to cultivate a garden, I will flush that garden in the manner originally intended."

He will be discharged shortly, but the sheriff's attaches say that "he simply will not stay away." They will keep his old cell in readiness for his return, and no one will be allowed to touch the garden in his absence.

SOCIETY WOMAN

IS DISGUSTED AND WILL BECOME A NURSE

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—"The life of a nurse is far more useful to society than that of a social butterfly," said Miss Daphne E. Wasmser of Bayside, last night when asked why she matriculated at the New York Post Graduate hospital. Miss Wasmser intends to become a trained nurse and has banished the "frivolities of society" to take up more serious work.

"I am tired of this butterfly existence," exclaimed Miss Wasmser. "It leads to nowhere and ends in ennui and disappointment. I've played the hostess at whist, entertained at teas and enjoyed myself at stiff necked parties, but I found more genuine pleasure and satisfaction in half an hour's useful service at a sick bedside than in days and years of social courting."

Miss Wasmser is twenty, pretty and a daughter of Herman Wasmser, a wealthy dry goods merchant in Manhattan. Miss Wasmser has been a leader in Bayside society several years, entertaining with her mother, and she was considered a charming hostess. The death of her mother has changed Miss Wasmser's view of life, and she considers nursing the highest social calling for a woman. She will perfect herself in her profession and follow her calling wherever it may lead.

WAS NO WEDDING

Girl Waited in Vain for Her Fiance

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 19.—Miss Mary E. Bolger, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bolger, of Franklin street, waited in vain in church today for her husband-to-be, Peter McCarthy, of Fuller street. The wedding was to have taken place this morning, but Mr. McCarthy failed to show up, having decided last night that he was too young to get married. He is 20 years old, and has a good position in one of the local factories.

Friends of Miss Bolger and McCarthy were at the Bolger home at 7 o'clock, ready to partake of the wedding breakfast, which was to be served before the couple took a New York train. The friends waited in vain, however. McCarthy was found after a search. At first he refused to budge, but, after repeated entreaties and threats, said he would be married at 10 o'clock. When 10 o'clock came, however, he was just as much missing as before, and then the marriage was called off.

A couple of hours later friends of the couple got hold of McCarthy and induced him to go to the home of Miss Bolger, where there were apologies. "Oh, how could you?" said Miss Bolger, as she caught sight of McCarthy. But McCarthy only grinned and said:

"It's all off."

James Bolger, father of the deserted girl, was not kindly disposed toward McCarthy at first, but, after talking with the young man, he announced that the wedding would take place in a week.

CITY HALL NEWS

Mayor Meehan Has Signed the Pump Resolution

New York Concern Asks For Permit to Exhibit the Jeffries-Johnson Fight Pictures — A Special Meeting of Aldermen Tomorrow Afternoon — Many Autos Line Up at City Hall — Police Officer vs. Small Boys

Mayor Meehan has signed the resolution of the board of aldermen requesting the water board to ask for competitive bids for a new pump prior to the making of an appropriation for same.

The same request was made by the committee on appropriations and the water board, replying to the committee, said the board deemed it inexpedient to call for bids before an appropriation had been made.

Following is a copy of the resolution which the mayor affixed his signature today:

Resolved by the board of aldermen of the city of Lowell, assembled, as follows:

That the water board be and it is hereby requested to procure competitive bids for a new pump for Central-ville pumping station, so that an accurate estimate of its cost may be obtained.

Relative to the signing of the resolution, Mayor Meehan said: "I have given the matter a great deal of thought and I decided that to ask for competitive bids before an appropriation had been made was a sound business proposition. What I signed is nothing more nor less than a request. I do not look upon it as being mandatory. In the least, I am not fully acquainted with the pump question. I have heard the arguments, pro and con, but my knowledge of the affair that I have at the present time is in the abstract. I take it that the aldermen are as much in the dark as the mayor and the best thing to do is to ask for bids, as the aldermen request, in order that we may get an accurate estimate of the cost. I do not see why any reliable pump company should hesitate to put in a bid even though the money was not appropriated in advance."

Those Fight Pictures

Mayor Meehan is in receipt of a letter from Frank H. H. Co. of Newark, N. J., Berger secretary, asking permission to exhibit the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures in this city. It is very evident that New Yorkers do not keep posted on affairs in Lowell, but that doesn't detract in the least from Lowell's greatness.

It was generally understood that the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures were a dead issue in Lowell. The agitation of the question was quite lively here for a time. Mayor Meehan was opposed to any exhibition of the pictures in this city, but an opinion handed down by the city solicitor took the matter out of the mayor's hands and transferred it to the board of police.

No sooner did the police board members discover that authority in the matter rested with them than they came out with a statement in which they said that they would not stand for the pictures being exhibited here. That settled it in Lowell, but it would appear that the news didn't reach New York.

The letter received by Mayor Meehan today reads as follows:

New York City, Aug. 18, 1910.

Hon. John F. Meehan, Mayor City of Lowell, Lowell, Mass.

Will you please be kind enough to inform me by return mail to room 321 Kulickbocker theatre building, New York City, whether or not I can exhibit the above fight pictures in your city for some night in the near future.

Thanking you in advance for the favor, I beg to remain

Yours very truly,

L. J. Berger.

Mayor Meehan will turn the letter over to the police board and he knows the kind of an answer that the board will send the New York concern. The pictures will not be exhibited in Lowell. That's the day's best bet.

TWO WERE DROWNED THEY

Victims Were Tired After a Strenuous Game of "Toss"

LYNN, Aug. 19.—A game of "toss" ended fatally for two Lynn men yesterday when they entered the surf near the Nahant bath house just after the exercise, which had been of a violent form. Both were drowned in a spot a little over 10 feet in depth, though they were nearly 200 yards from shore.

The victims of the double drowning are Alonzo Leundrin, 19, a mechanic, of 11 Cheever place, and Alfred LaBlanc, 25, shoe cutter of Littlefield block. Both were unmarried.

John H. Clinton, a police officer of Andover, who is taking his vacation at Nahant, so far as can be learned was the only witness of the drowning, and it was he who gave the alarm to Supt. William A. Anderson and the life guards, who recovered the bodies later about 40 feet from shore.

According to both Clinton and Anderson, the men have been repeatedly cautioned about going into the water in an overheated condition. The two men, according to Clinton, arrived on the beach about 10 o'clock and started a game of "toss," each playing as fast and hard as he could. At the end of the game they took a fast run up the beach toward Nahant, and returning to a point about a quarter of a mile from Nahant both boys entered the water as far as their waists and there continued the game of ball.

When they seemed to have tired of the sport, both started on a long swim from shore. The water in this particular spot is not very deep and both men were expert swimmers. When about 200 yards from shore Leundrin tired, and it is thought called upon LaBlanc for help. The men were swimming some distance apart, and the older of the two immediately started to assist the younger. Before he had gone a dozen strokes, however, his companion had disappeared for the third time. LaBlanc called for help and attracted the attention of Clinton, who rushed into the water. Before Clinton had waded out far enough to swim LaBlanc disappeared and Clinton left the water to run to the bath house and give the alarm. Both he and Supt. Anderson and Life Guards Fred L. Reed and Newell Gillman hastened to the scene of the accident in a lifeboat, but the bodies were not sighted until they had drifted yards toward shore.

was elected band guide on the part of the division and President Michael McMullin will be the division marshal. The members will meet in Harrington Thomas O'Brien and John Fitzpatrick have been elected aids to the division marshal.

Ayer Is Enthusiastic

The following, taken from the Ayer News, shows what interest is being taken by the town of Ayer in the coming parade.

Division No. 4, A. O. H., of Ayer, is to make a determined effort to bring home the prize offered at the state parade of the order, to be held in Lowell next Wednesday. The local division will be represented by about 30 members and 40 members of division No. 29 of Pepperell are to unite with them on the trip and help swell the numbers in the parade.

The members will wear full uniform, including caps, sashes and gloves and will carry small canes bearing the number of the division.

Those who are to take the trip will assemble at A. O. H. hall at 9:15 Wednesday morning and march to Main street, where a special trolley car seating seventy will leave for Lowell just ahead of the 10 o'clock train. Those who are unable to get seats on the special will follow in the regular car, and all will meet in front of the Richardson house, Lowell.

President McCarthy will be marshal, William Walsh of Ayer and Frank O'Toole and John O'Brien of Pepperell aids. They will attend as guests of the division and will have a seat in the reviewing stand.

President McCarthy and Michael J. Carey have been chosen delegates to the convention, which will be held during the day, and will attend the banquet in the evening.

Archbishop Will Speak

It is now expected that Archbishop O'Connell will not only be present at the service prior to the opening of the convents on Tuesday morning, but that His Grace will also make an address to the Hibernians at the close of mass. The ushers appointed for the church service are as follows: Chief, Thomas J. Fitzgerald; John J. Hanlon, Warren P. Flannery, private secretary to Mayor Meehan; Edward P. Murphy, Jr., J. J. Meehan, Dr. John Donovan and James P. Sheehan.

The Local Delegates

The local delegates to the convention are as follows:

Division 1—Michael McMullin and Daniel C. Hogan. The latter is the hustling secretary of the general committee.

Division 3—Daniel F. Riley and Thomas Dawson.

Division 4—Patrick Connolly and James O'Sullivan, the latter one of Lowell's oldest and most prominent Hibernians.

Merrimack Information Bureau

Manager P. Mahoney of the Merrimack Clothing company, waxing enthusiastic over the coming event, has prepared a commodious and well appointed bureau of information at the Merrimack Clothing company for the visiting delegates of both sexes. A more convenient place for such a bureau could not be located, for it is directly under Associate hall and only a few steps from Matthews hall. Manager Mahoney states that he will provide necessary stationery, telephones and chairs and desks, so that the visitors using the place will find every convenience and comfort.

Band Concert Wednesday

Mayor Meehan has made a popular move by shifting the municipal band concert from Thursday to Wednesday, the big day. The Lowell Military band will give the concert and "Jimmie" Buckley, of Buck's Best fame, assures the committee that the program will be one that will arouse the enthusiasm of the Irish hordes.

Plans were perfected at the meeting of the Central council last evening. There was a large attendance and the enthusiasm of the members is any criterion then Lowell is to have something in the line of a celebration next week.

President McMullin called to order, and Daniel C. Hogan, sec., read the minutes of the last meeting. Chief Marshal Humphrey O'Sullivan was present and made a lengthy statement on the coming affair, principally concerning the parade. He said that arrangements were being carried out as well as could be expected and, judging from present indications, everything would be worked out to a successful close. He has received communications from many parts of the state and, judging from these, it is estimated that close to 10,000 will participate in Wednesday's parade.

Chief Marshal O'Sullivan assured the council that nothing but bad weather can stop the success of the great parade.

The banquet committee reported that in addition to those already scheduled to appear, Mayor (Coughlin) of Fall River had been invited to speak at the banquet to be held Wednesday evening.

It was announced that neither the central council nor any of the local organizations had sanctioned the sale of postals or postcards during convention week and that the general public was to understand that the Hibernians are to receive no benefit from the sale of such.

The central council will hold its final meeting at Hibernian hall Sunday afternoon, with the state officers.

Division 1 Meeting

Division 1, A. O. H., held its regular meeting last night and eight new members were initiated and five propositions were received. James Bourke was elected band guide on the part of the division and President Michael McMullin will be the division marshal. The members will meet in Harrington Thomas O'Brien and John Fitzpatrick have been elected aids to the division marshal.

Ayer Is Enthusiastic

The following, taken from the Ayer News, shows what interest is being taken by the town of Ayer in the coming parade.

Division No. 4, A. O. H., of Ayer, is to make a determined effort to bring home the prize offered at the state parade of the order, to be held in Lowell next Wednesday. HUNT FOR CAPSALIS

Reward for Capture of the Greek is Considered

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 19.—Deputy Sheriff Elmer Clark of this city and Loven D. Casler of Somersworth, who have been hunting in Maine and Massachusetts since Sunday for Nicholas Capsalis, better known among the Greeks as Capsalis, who is wanted for the alleged murder of his aunt, Marietta Capsalis, at Somersworth Aug. 10, both returned from Maine late yesterday empty-handed.

It is said that a conference will be held by Sheriff Smith and his deputies with County Solicitor Dwight Hall today in regard to the next move. Solicitor Hall stated last night that the Bangor crew had not been abandoned, but might be investigated later. A move in another direction, which the authorities have not disclosed, is first contemplated.

Whether the county will offer a reward has not been decided. There are many who think that the offer of a reward would hasten the Greek's arrest. A Somersworth man well acquainted with the Greeks said last night that the offer of a reward of a few hundred dollars would arouse an interest on the part of the Greeks to aid the authorities in their search for Capsalis and would probably result in his being quickly brought in.

Sheriff Smith has been busy sending out circulars describing Capsalis. He has mailed nearly 3000, covering all the nearby cities where there are known to be Greeks and all the large cities and shipping ports of the country.

BOUGHT IN BIDDEFORD

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 19.—Officers in the two cities believe that Nicholas Capsalis is hiding somewhere in this vicinity. Detective Regis of Lowell is putting in much time searching in this city. It is believed here the Greek will be captured within a few days. State detectives and the regular officers here are looking for the man.

Many think that the alleged murderer bought the revolver in Somersworth to slay Nicholas Kallias, who disappeared last Sunday from Old Orchard.

Will Leave Hospital in a Few Weeks Going to the Eagles Convention

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Mayor Gaynor awoke today from a refreshing night's rest and seemingly much improved in spirits and strength. His physicians said he had a fine night. Mr. Gaynor will leave the hospital in a few weeks, it is said. It is further stated that there are no present indications necessitating an operation and that the bullet gave the mayor no inconvenience and had become encysted, the physician said, and the worst that could be looked for would be a slight suppurative and that could be easily treated as a case of quinsy sore throat.

The wound in the mayor's neck is nearly healed, and the scar that will be left will be hardly noticeable.

The following official bulletin on Mayor Gaynor's condition was issued at 8 a. m.

"The mayor slept well and is in excellent condition this morning. Temperature, pulse and respiration normal and all symptoms are favorable."

BROKE AUTO RECORD

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Breaking the automobile time record, from coast to coast L. L. Whitman, who established the former record in 1906, accompanied by E. L. Hammond and a driving crew of three, arrived last night from New York after ten days, fifteen hours and twelve minutes and one second, official time, on the road. Whitman took four days, ten hours, 59 minutes and 59 seconds off his former record.

The Eagles' convention takes place at St. Louis, Mo., next week. The local aeris will be represented by Past Worthy President James F. Morrison, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Morrison and Past Worthy President Mr. Duffy and Mrs. Duffy of Peabody, Mass. Mr. Morrison says this will be the largest convention ever held by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, as about every aeris in this country and British Columbia and Canada will be represented.

According to the estimate given, the Fraternal Order of Eagles gained about 50,000 members last year, making a grand total of over 400,000 members.

THE MUNSEY TRIP

Lowell People Accompanied the Autoists

Mr. Donald A. Mackenzie, of the Mackenzie Auto Co., local agents for the Maxwell cars, accompanied by John J. Deavitt, of the Deavitt Mfg. Co., in Thorndike street, and representatives of the Courier-Citizen and The Sun, made up one of the many parties of automobilists which acted as escort from Providence to Boston to the automobilists in the Munsey historic tour yesterday afternoon.

The Lowell party left Merrimack square yesterday morning at 8:15 o'clock in a Model C 26-horse power Maxwell touring car and had a most delightful non-stop trip into the Rhode Island city. The weather was ideal, the roads for the greater part in excellent condition, the car was in perfect running order and good time was made all the way, an average speed of 30 miles an hour being negotiated. Owing to the number of cities and towns through which the party had to pass and the restrictions in many places, it was deemed advisable not to do much speeding.

The trip which was made in two hours and 35 minutes was through Billerica, Bedford, Lexington, Waltham, Dedham, Norwood, Walpole, Wrentham, North Attleboro, Mass., Pawtucket, R. I., and Providence.

Upon arriving at Providence the Lowell party stopped at the Crown hotel, the headquarters for the tourists, after which the car was parked in Exchange place, where several hundred automobiles were parked.

It was Mr. Mackenzie's intention to entertain the members of his party at the Crown hotel for dinner, but upon invitation of Mr. Eugene L. E. Drake, of the Cassella Color company, a friend of Mr. Deavitt, the Lowellites were entertained at the West End club in Aborn street. An excellent dinner was enjoyed, after which the visitors were shown through the clubhouse, which occupies three floors of one of the largest buildings in Providence.

Shortly after noon the party started to Boston with the tourists, the trip between Providence and Boston being made in one hour and 45 minutes.

Upon arriving at the Hotel Lenox, where the Bay State Automobile association's headquarters are situated, the Lowell aggregation visited the Maxwell-Brisson headquarters in Massachusetts avenue, which was recently damaged by fire.

The return trip was made to Lowell during the early part of the evening, all members of the party having had a most enjoyable time, thanks to Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Drake.

Among the entrants in the Munsey tour were Forest L. Peabody, formerly of this city, and Jack Coffey, who drove one of the racing cars in the races held over the Merrimack Valley course last fall.

The only thing to mar the pleasure of the Munsey tour from New London, Conn., to Boston yesterday was the fact that one of the entrants rode through an auto trap in Providence at a rate of 25 miles an hour, was arrested and fined $15 and costs. The promoters of the contest feel that the police officials of Providence should have shown some leniency to the tourists on the occasion.

The Munseites left Boston this morning at 8 o'clock and will check out at Portland, Me., tonight, the noon stop being made at Portsmouth, N. H. From Portland the route leads to Bethlehem, N. H., Burlington, Vt., Saratoga, N. Y., Binghamton, N. Y., Wilkesbarre, Pa., Harrisburg, Pa., and Washington, where the run will come to an end on August 25.

RACE TROUBLES

Admiral Marshall Makes His Report

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 19.—Rear Admiral William Alexander Marshall, commanding the Norfolk Navy Yard yesterday forwarded to the navy department a report on the race disturbance in this city on July 4th, following the Jeffries-Johnson fight. The report gives the names of ten or twelve sailors who were arrested and punished in the city courts as the result of the rioting but shows that the one marine arrested that day, had no connection with race troubles, in which only blue jackets were involved. It has been alleged that United States marines and sailors made unprovoked attacks upon negroes. Publication of this report brought forth a protest from W. H. Ellis, of New York, in communications to both the White House and navy department and the suggestion that marines who attacked negroes without provocation deserved punishment just as severe as that given to negro troops for assaults upon white citizens in the Brownsville, Texas, affair.

MGR O'CALLAGHAN

BOSTON RECTOR IS ILL IN HOSPITAL IN CORK

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—The Rt. Rev. Mgr. D. O'Callaghan, permanent rector of St. Augustine's church, South Boston, who sailed for Ireland three weeks ago, has been at a hospital in Cork, Ire., since Aug. 7, but late reports state that he is quite comfortable.

Yesterday Miss Annie O'Callaghan, a niece of the monsignor, and his housekeeper at his residence on F street, South Boston, received a letter dated August 9, which stated that he had been taken ill with stomach trouble and was being cared for at the Cork hospital.

Later messages indicate that, while he is slowly improving, it will be necessary for him to remain there a week more.

This was Mgr. O'Callaghan's first trip to his native land in more than five years, and he planned to spend the greater part of his time in the vicinity of his native heath, Cork. He was the guest of the Very Rev. Cannon Lynch of Blarney.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to all those who so kindly assisted us in our time of trouble and bereavement. Also for the sympathy and beautiful floral tributes.

Mrs. S. C. Trueman and family.

The Rest Cure

August has been given over to the rest cure by the great American people. A worthy practice and I'd like to see it become even more general and widespread. The rest cure was instituted for the individual, that he might forget his work and struggles for a couple of weeks in the quest of relaxation among the great natural and artificial playgrounds of the land.

But the rest cure was never intended for a business. Let a business take the rest cure for a month and it's good bye business. The individual comes back from a vacation refreshed—a business never comes back at all. That's why we fight for business in the dull season. But we have conditions that amount to about the same thing. As a rule individuals won't buy merchandise in August; they won't buy anything but a good time. Business is virtually packed up in dress suit cases in August and shipped with the vacationist to mountain, lake or shore resort. In other words, business takes the rest cure in August with those of us who are away, and it takes it almost in spite of anything that can be done by those of us who happen to be home.

So it's a fight—a struggle; something must be done to rescue business this month. It's a case of rescuer vs. rest cure, with bargains as the ammunition.

I submit herewith the bargains. If anything on earth will make you order these goods, my prices will make you. If anything on earth could make you order Now the suit or overcoat that you will order next month anyway, these fabrics at my prices ought to.

MITCHELL THE TAILOR 24 Central St., Lowell

Open Nights Till Nine

Read these names carefully and ask to see the goods. They are all standard fabrics, known everywhere throughout the land. They are the favorites of clothing manufacturers and tailors up and down this country and they are as welcome among them as the Lowell Sun is welcome among the homes of Middlesex county. There is no secret to the goods—they are genuine. They cost the money and they earned the reputation of being worth their cost. You can't buy better any place at any price. I've dug them up and I sell them at these prices to rescue business from the August dullness. Buy them—buy them Now on my recommendation.

A LADY JOURNALIST'S ADVICE TO MOTHERS

A lady journalist writes: "Of all the troubles mother endures during the baby's helpless days, skin troubles are the most perplexing. There are so many of them and all are so obstinate and persistent, so wearing to the little sufferer and so apt to become chronic. Often they become so virulent that life itself is threatened, and always they mar baby's beauty and cast an intolerable (though often undeserved) suspicion of neglect upon mother. I am constantly being asked for some safe and effective home remedy for rashes, pimples, blotches, eruptions, and similar blemishes on baby's skin, and especially for something really effective in cases of eczema, and I am quite delighted to hear from several of my regular correspondents that they have used Cadum, the new medical discovery, and have obtained results far in excess of their expectations. A trial box of this wonderful healing salve is sold by all druggists at 10c; large box 25c.

CANOBIE LAKE PARK

Another banner week of vaudeville is promised for the Canobie Lake theatre for the week commencing Aug. 22, and the bill includes many acts that are known features in the variety field. The original Frank J. McNish of "Silence and Fun" fame is coming with McNish and McNish in a real fantasia of singing, dancing and talking and their most grotesque comedy. Berry and Berry are expert exponents of comedy, and their act is interspersed with much delightful music. The novelty in the program will be perhaps furnished by Darroody, the master manipulator, who does most anything he wishes with freights and other unworldly things. A metropolitan act is to be found on the program in that of the favorites, Joe Hearn and Matt Rutter, who are novelty artists in wooden shoe dancing and in grotesque soft shoe dancing.

GREEN TIMBER

4,000,000 Feet Destroyed by Fires

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 19.—Only about 4,000,000 feet of first class green standing timber has been destroyed by forest fires in western Washington this season, according to compilations made yesterday by D. P. Simons, chief warden of the Washington Forest association. About 20,000 acres have been burned over this season west of the Cascade mountains, a large part of which, however, was logged off. In addition to this green timber Mr. Simons says that thousands of cords of firewood and shingle bolts and many fallen trees that might have been cut into logs, have been burned.

LINEMAN INJURED

James E. Wheelock, aged 32 years, residing at the Washington Tavern, was injured yesterday while engaged in his work as a lineman on the N. E. Telephone company, by being hit upon the head by a heavy wrench. The wound required five stitches and was dressed at the Emergency hospital.

BAY STATE TROOPS MAN FOUND DYING

Will Receive Largest Sum From the Government Believed to be Victim of a Murderous Assault

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The New England militia will be helped by the federal government this year by allotments aggregating nearly $350,000 from appropriations of $4,000,000 for the benefit of the militia authorized by the last session of congress.

There are two appropriations of $2,000,000 each, one to be distributed according to the representation of each state in congress and the other to be allotted upon the basis of the enlisted strength of the militia of each state.

The allotments under the first appropriations are divided into new funds, one available for arms, equipments and camp purposes $45,946.85, promoting of rifle practice $15,648.95, total $61,595.80.

Maine—Arms, equipment, etc., $17,605.07, rifle practice $5,868.55, total $23,473.62.

New Hampshire, Vermont and Rhode Island—Arms, equipment and camp purposes $11,736.71, promotion of rifle practice $3,912.24, total $15,648.95.

Connecticut—Arms, equipment, etc., $20,539.24, rifle practice $6,846.42, total $27,385.66.

In distributing the $2,000,000 among the states, according to the enlisted strength of their militia organizations, the war department reserved $400,000 for emergencies. If no emergencies arise during the year this amount will be distributed among the states according to the strength of their militia at the end of the fiscal year, June 30 next.

The $1,600,000 of the second appropriation was divided into two funds. The first is for ammunition, the allowance of which to the militia is limited to 50 per cent of the allowance made to the regular army. The second fund is available for the purchase of supplies.

The allotment to New England upon the basis of the enlisted strength of their militia organizations is as follows:

Massachusetts, with an enlisted strength of 5404, is allotted $26,304.50 for ammunition and $51,945.02 for supplies, a total of $78,249.52.

Maine, with an enlisted strength of 1253, is allotted $5,031.79 for ammunition and $12,111.65 for supplies, a total of $17,143.44.

New Hampshire, with 1184 men in her militia, received $5,347.71 for ammunition and $11,796.61 for supplies, a total of $17,144.32.

Vermont, with only 769 men in her militia, received the smallest allotment of any New England state, $3,846.59 for ammunition and $7,288.43 for supplies, a total of $11,135.02.

Rhode Island has an enlisted militia strength of 1027 and received $344.47 for ammunition and $11,726.49 for supplies, a total of $12,070.96.

Connecticut received the second largest allotment. With 2,398 militia she has received an allowance of $10,919.39 for ammunition and $23,863.55 for supplies, a total of $34,782.94.

While they were conducting their investigation Engineer Lacey returned and was at once placed under arrest. The hotel people then pleaded with the police to allow Lacey to remain at his engines until the chief engineer, George Nash, could take his place. They feared to leave the engine room unattended any longer. The officers sent for Nash and stood guard over their prisoner until the chief engineer arrived.

Lacey is a giant in size, weighing nearly 235 pounds, while Lacey is of medium height, weighing at the most but 125 pounds. He refused to affirm or deny bad blood between him and the injured man, simply denying that he was guilty of any crime.

The hotel officials were entirely at sea over the affair and not one person out of the entire hotel staff could give any aid to the police in clearing up the matter.

At the hospital the attending physician could not state in what manner or with what weapon Levy had been injured.

He was brought face to face with the injured man in the hospital, the officers hoping that Levy might identify him, if he appeared to be the right man, as his assistant, but Levy when he sat up in bed was still in a stupor and could only murmur: "Take that block of wood away from my head."

Shortly after 7 o'clock last evening the police of station 16 received a hurry call from the Hotel Somerset for an ambulance. The ambulance arrived at the hotel and the accompanying officers saw at once that no ordinary accident had taken place.

They inquired as to who might have been around when the prostrated Levy had received the injury, and were told that Engineer Lacey should have been in the vicinity.

Lacey was searched for but not found and another call to the station house brought Sergeant Barry with Officer Brett in the scene. Levy was hurried to the hospital, where he was found to be in a dying condition.

The police officers left on the scene were unable to learn a single fact that would shed further light on the affair except the persistent rumor that there had been bad blood between Lacey and Levy.

WOMAN DIED

AFTER HAVING A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Charles Mahagan of East 5th street, South Boston, who had a narrow escape from drowning while making a long-distance swim in Dorchester bay two days previous, died yesterday in the City hospital from internal hemorrhages.

Mrs. Mahagan was known as one of the cleverest woman swimmers at the headhouse beach at City Point. Shortly before noon Tuesday, when several bathers asked her if she was not going to take her usual long-distance swim, she struck out into the bay and met with a trying experience.

After being rescued by volunteers she was taken to the U. S. life saving station in Dorchester bay and later to her home. Her condition became more serious the following day and she was removed to the hospital.

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

The more auto fire machines we add to our fire department the fewer fire stations and firemen we will need.

John Bull goes right ahead building Dreadnoughts without paying much attention to aeroplanes or dirigible balloons. Thus far he seems to have both the bulge and the laugh on the kaiser.

Some clergymen are never happy unless they get their congregation quarrelling with some other congregation over things which neither congregation knows anything about.

TEACH THEM A LESSON

If we are not mistaken there is a law which compels automobilists in passing a street car where passengers are alighting to go slowly and if necessary to come to a standstill. They certainly do not observe this law in Merrimack square. We have watched them frequently and not a single chauffeur seemed to have the slightest regard for the law or the least consideration for people getting on or off the street cars. We have wondered why some one hasn't been killed long ago in Merrimack square. It is not the fault of the drivers of automobiles that accidents haven't occurred in the square every day in the week.

PLAIN LOOT IN LAND DEALS

Here is what the Springfield Republican says about the Indian land scandals in which high government officials are involved:

"Not a day passes in the Indian lands investigation without justifying Senator Gore's action in dragging the scandal into the light of publicity. Each new witness seems to testify much as Congressman Carter did, when he mentioned various personages who would 'get their share,' or who were 'in on the deal.' No very high standard of morality, to be sure, was shown by the Indians who signed the names of their paposes to the McMurray contracts, but the fertile, finished rascality of the white man is manifest in all of the operations. Possibly nothing has yet developed that would send anyone to jail, although the lying here and there must be terrific. The real benefit will arise probably, from the fact that 'attorney's fees' in such cases will hereafter be known to the world as plain loot."

MAKE IT A SWIMMING POOL

There are many complaints about the condition of the pond on the South common, and many suggestions as to the possibilities of its development as a swimming pool for boys in the summer time. It is contended that the pond is hard to keep clean because it receives the drainage from the surrounding portions of the common. That could be easily overcome by running a pipe or drain around the outer side of the walk to catch the water that flows from the higher land adjoining. If the pond was thus protected, and had a concrete bottom, then there would be little difficulty in using it as a swimming pool for children in the summer season. We have nothing of this kind in Lowell, and it is about time to meet the public demand even in a moderate way.

Some method must be adopted to prevent the crank bent on homicide from purchasing a gun at the nearest hardware store or pawn shop. Otherwise every public official who does his duty fearlessly will require a body guard.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES

Fraternal societies are very good in their way. They have many fine features, and they certainly accomplish a great deal of good. But there is one feature that should be very carefully supervised in the formation and conducting of fraternal organizations, and that is the insurance feature.

Any plan of insurance that is not founded upon sound principles will sooner or later prove burdensome to the members and work irreparable injury to otherwise worthy organizations. Never fool with an insurance plan that is based on chance. Life insurance is entirely different from fire insurance. One is positive, the other is not. A fire insurance company may carry policies on a hundred buildings, and none of them may ever burn down. Barring a big conflagration only a small percentage of the buildings are likely to be destroyed by fire. But when a life insurance company takes a risk upon the lives of a hundred men, it must set down as a positive fact that the hundred men will surely die, and one hundred insurance policies must be paid within a limited time. There is no chance to this obligation. It is a positive obligation from the moment the policy is written, and the time of death, according to age, is fixed so accurately by the American mortality tables that the average expectation of life in every group of one thousand policy holders has not varied for two hundred years, including years of wars and pestilence.

Any insurance system that does not provide for the payment of every policy at the time of the expectation of death or sooner is unsound. To levy assessments only when a death occurs is a chance or gambling system of insurance that is bound to fail. Any system imposing a total loss on the insurer who fails to keep up his payments is unjust, because a partly paid policy should have a cancellation value at all times. To take a man's money for years and then give him or his beneficiaries nothing because he was unable to pay in his last days is an unjust transaction even though it be agreed to by the policy holder.

Fraternal societies should, therefore, see to it that if they introduce an insurance feature into their organizations it should be based on the simple and sound plan that a sum of money be paid annually by each policy holder sufficient to meet the amount of his policy at the expectation of death according to the American mortality tables, and to this sum should be added a reasonable amount to pay the expenses of conducting the insurance department.

Insured based on such a plan as this may not be as cheap as the lottery form of insurance, but it will be sound and free from every possible taint of insurance gambling.

SEEN AND HEARD

Paying the bills is the divine right of man.

To owe no man is almost like being a capitalist.

Some folks' idea of satire is just disagreeableness.

The man who means well too often loses his meaning.

The bald man never thinks that baldness is noticeable, much.

The uncommon thing in this world is to follow advice, something that most commonly asked.

When a woman would discuss her friends' troubles, a man generally switches the conversation to the weather.

"I want some talcum powder," said a Hebrew gentleman to a drug clerk the other day.

"Yes, sir! Some talcum powder—Mennen's, I suppose?"

"No, no! Vaseline!" replied the Hebrew.

"Do you want it scented?" asked the clerk, further.

"No, I'll take it vid me!"

And even with all that fun the Hebrew thought he wasn't getting his money's worth.

A well known shoe man says that he fell asleep one evening and dreamed he had died and gone to heaven. St. Peter showed him around and everything seemed to be perfect with one exception. The newcomer was surprised at the makeshifts used for footwear. St. Peter questioned him:

"How do you like things in general?"

"Oh, first class in most every way," the stranger replied.

"Most every way?" exclaimed St. Peter, in a surprised tone of voice. "Why, name one thing that's wrong."

"Well," said the recent arrival, "just look at the shoes you're wearing here—they're the limit."

St. Peter shook his head in a melancholy manner.

"Ah, well," he sighed, "you see we never get any good shoemakers up here."

"But you said you had done the cooking for a whole family," exclaimed.

"I did," he replied, "but I didn't know how to do it."

He lamed with a sizable stone.

The best of his uncle's chickens.

He broke the bed, and it may be said.

With truth, that he raised the dickens.

Till grandmother raised her eyes, she did.

And murmured, "The Lord preserve us!"

But mother remarked, as she kissed the kid:

"The poor little dear is nervous."

He fidgeted, sulked and fussed—

So daintily about his meat.

He screamed that his mother must.

Have something a fellow could eat.

He answered his auntie back.

He snapped at his uncle, too.

He tortured and teased and did as he pleased.

And not what they wished he'd do.

Till grandmother raised her eyes, she did.

And murmured, "The Lord preserve us!"

But mother remarked, as she kissed the kid:

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mrs. Perry Starkweather has four women assistants in her work as assistant labor commissioner of Minnesota. Mrs. Starkweather is the only woman in the country holding such an office, and Minnesota is the only state in the Union that has a department for women and children in its bureau of labor. This department is a sort of clearing house for all matters pertaining to women and children in industry and school. At present special attention is being given to the home conditions.

The filing of plans with the building department of the borough of Queens, New York, discloses another of the plans of the Sage foundation, in which Mrs. Russell Sage is interested, which is developing at Forest Hills a community for working men and women. There is to be built there a fine modern hotel for the accommodation of those who will not care to own their own homes, but who may desire to avail themselves of the privileges afforded by the community.

The plans show that the hotel will be one of the largest on Long Island. There will be three wings, the dimensions being 245 by 218 by 35 by 54. The main wing will be eight stories in height, another will be five stories, and third will be three stories. There will be several hundred guest rooms and suites.

The construction will be entirely fireproof—steel skeleton filled with reinforced concrete, brick and terra cotta. There will be all modern improvements, and on one of the wings there will be a roof garden. The hotel will cost several hundred thousand dollars and it will be located on the west side of Station square, near Continental avenue, facing the splendid station which is now being erected jointly by the Long Island railroad, the Sage Foundation company, and the Cord Meyer company.

"Jere McCauley," a reformed drunkard, made, nearly forty years ago, a strong impression on the slum activities of New York in his Water street mission, which attained national fame. "Hadley," his successor, built well on the foundation, and his last words were reported as being, "What will the 'bums' now do?" But the present manager seems to have been in no wise behind his predecessors, until now it is announced that a new five-story building on the site, to which has been added an adjoining lot, is to be erected, the estimated cost of which will be about $100,000.

Edmond Rostand, author of "Chantecler," recently won the grand prize offered by the French Society for the Protection of Animals. The award was really made not because of any active friendship shown by the poet for dumb creatures but because of the genuine sympathy and tenderness for them which is supposed to have animated to a very great degree his composition of "Chantecler."

There are no end of caustic critics who laugh at this idea. More serious, however, than this is the fact that the real friends of animals declare that M. Rostand and his family display quite a cruel spirit in regard to them, says a Paris despatch to the New York Times.

In the first place, the proper staging of "Chantecler" meant the spoils of thousands of harmless birds—both those of the barnyard and those which inhabit the wilds had to be employed.

In the making of costumes there was a wonderfully lavish use of feathers. The excuse that the sacrifice was made to art might be accepted in that instance, but not when not long afterward Mme. Rostand paid $400 for feathers from birds of paradise with which to ornament her hat.

It is even said that the feathers for the "Chantecler" costumes were mostly plucked from living birds. Furthermore, the play revived the feminine fashion of wearing stuffed birds or their plumage as hat trimmings.

HOLYOKE YOUTH

Tripped and Fell to His Death

HOLYOKE, Aug. 19.—Michael Connelly, a youth of 18, tripped while at work on the roof of the new mill of the Farr Alpaca company yesterday morning and fell through a skylight down an elevator shaft eight stories to the basement.

Death was instantaneous, as his skull was badly fractured, shoulder blade broken and several ribs crushed in. Workmen in the building rushed to him, but nothing could be done. Asst. Medical Examiner Frank A. Woods viewed the body, which was taken to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Maurice Hogan of 326 Main street. He also leaves two sisters, Josephine and Mary, both of Holyoke.

112,985 DEATHS

Caused by the Cholera in Russia So Far This Year

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 19.—One week's cholera record shows 23,944 new cases of cholera and 10,723 deaths, bringing the total number of cases in Russia this year to 112,985. Of these 50,287 or nearly half, have died, the exact percentage of mortality being 44.5.

The figures are those furnished by the sanitary bureau covering the week from August 7 to August 13 inclusive and are therefore official. Reports from Red Cross sources indicate that the actual figures are somewhat greater as it is a practical impossibility to register every case in an epidemic of such proportions.

Of the deaths last week 1678 were reported from the district of the Don Cossacks, 1087 from the district of Kuban Cossacks, 1013 in Yekaterinoslav province, 759 in Samara province, 418 in Voronezh, 411 in the Terek Cossack district, 528 in Kherson province, 334 in the Crimea, where Russians resort for the summer months. 333 in Tambov province, and 226 in Stavropol province.

The epidemic in St. Petersburg shows a decrease, only 18 deaths having been reported for the six days ending at noon yesterday in comparison to the 228 deaths reported the previous week. The sanitary authorities of the city believe that from now on the epidemic will continue its natural decrease. The total figures for St. Petersburg since the first cases reported June 20 show 2,079 cases and 730 deaths. The mortality here in the capital is 35 per cent, less than in the southern province owing to better hospital facilities and the experience gained in handling the first big outbreak two years ago.

JAMES P. RAMSAY

Will Have Full Charge of Middlesex County Work

Probation Officer James P. Ramsay of this city has been given full charge of the probationary work of Middlesex county by the judges of the superior court.

The resignation of Rev. Robert Walker, chaplain for the past 14 years or so of the house of correction at Cambridge, from the probation work which he has taken care of for some time at that end of the county, left a vacancy which it required a man of ability and training in the work to fill. Rev. Mr. Walker has resigned to become chaplain of the Massachusetts reformatory, a place to which he has just been appointed.

The superior court judges immediately appointed Mr. Ramsay as chief of all the work in the county, to have charge not only of the work which he has cared for in the past, but also of that formerly conducted by Rev. Mr. Walker.

Mr. Ramsay has been given an assistant, Miss Louisa Higginbotham of Waltham. Miss Higginbotham has had considerable experience in 'probation work' gained through voluntary service along those lines. She will therefore be of great assistance in carrying for the multitudinous minor duties of the probation officer. It was in response to the expressed wish of Mr. Ramsay that a woman was appointed as an assistant.

During the year Mr. Ramsay collected some $3000 in small sums in non-support cases in addition to his other work in connection with the office. This work and similar duties will be turned

MADE FAST TIME

Gamar Went a Mile in 2.08 1-2

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 19.—A record crowd attended the races here yesterday and besides some excellent contests for the purse events they saw one of the greatest miles ever trotted by a stallion over a half mile track.

Gamar, 2:07 1-4, that has been racing over the grand circuit tracks, stopped off here on his way to the Empire track meeting to try for the $250 trophy offered by B. A. Bulkley of Bridgeport, Conn., for a trotter that should beat 2:09 1-2, the time made by his mare Nahma, 2:07 1-4, over this track last season.

Starting without a pacemaker, Gamar trotted twice around the track in 2:08 1-2, which is only a half second slower than the world's stallion record over a half mile track held by Crescus, 2:02 3-4. The first half was in 1:04 3-4 and the last quarter in 21 3-4 seconds.

Rey Miller, whose birthplace is at Chester, a few miles from here in Orange county, won the 2 year old sweepstakes with the Dromore farms well mannered colt Judge Brooks, by Baron Moore, 3:14 1-4, out of Expectation, dam of Major Delmar, 1:52 1-4.

George G. Moore, the colt's owner, occupied a box in the grandstand and not only saw Judge Brooks win but also saw Miller drive Belle Bunker, his chestnut daughter of Axworthy, a winner of second money in the 3 year old trot. Chatty Direct, bred in Kentucky but owned in Massachusetts, won the event very handsly and acted like she could have gone several seconds faster than her best heat, which was in 3:15 1-2.

The 2:25 trot proved the most hotly contested race of the day, it took five heats for Baron Aberdeen, the Boston entry, to win. Madge Worthy trotted a grand race and when she did not win heats was only beaten a few inches. The summary:

THE DIVING HORSES

Probably the most interesting feature that was seen at Lakeview park last season was that provided by the original Prof. Holloway's diving horses. At that time they made such a pronounced hit and there were so many requests for a return engagement that their manager has been induced to cancel western engagements to appear again with the Boston & Northern street railway's circuit of parks. They will give absolutely free exhibitions at Lakeview park every afternoon and evening during next week.

As people who saw the horses last year well know, they are very beautiful specimens of the equine family. They are pure snow white. Since they were very small colts, when they first evidenced a desire to dive, they have been trained particularly for this purpose. They have had the most careful attention; in fact, they have been given fully as much care as the average child. These horses have never been ridden and have never worn a shoe. They are sleek and beautiful.

It is necessary wherever they appear to build for them special stalls which must be fitted with electric lights. Two men are in constant attendance upon them and sleep by their side each night. These horses really and genuinely delight in their work. They do not have to be whipped off the high platform from which they dive, nor do they have to be coaxed. It is no exaggeration at all to say that they would a great deal rather do their dive and have the pleasure of a plunge in the cooling waters of the tank than to remain inactive in their stalls. Their dives are especially graceful, and one which appeals to the natural love which everyone has for the sight of a beautiful horse in action.

PLEASANT OUTING

At the Home of Albert O'Heir, Clark Road

Mr. Albert E. O'Heir, the well known furniture dealer, gave a large number of his friends a most delightful evening's entertainment at his beautiful suburban home on Clark road last evening.

Mr. O'Heir has certainly become somewhat of a farmer in that district. He promised his friends when he became properly situated on his farm he would give them an outing, and that time arrived last evening when his spacious lawn never looked more beautiful. There were hundreds of Japanese lanterns illuminated and strung all about the trees and the house, and with the darkness of the night they looked to great advantage, and showed pretty from a distance. Mr. O'Heir has a very pretty home, and it was agreed by all present to the number of fifty, that no better time nor place for an outing could be chosen than at the O'Heir farm.

One of the most interesting features of the event was a "Corn Roast," which is certainly a novelty, and considerably out of the usual, but none the less pleasant. The idea of this feature arose from Mr. O'Heir's talk about the superior quality of his farm products, particularly his sweet corn, which he claimed to be superior to any found elsewhere in Middlesex county. His friend, Joe Duffy, selectman from Tewksbury, dispensed the statement. Well, Joe is considered by everybody an authority on agriculture, so it was decided that Albert would produce the sample of the products on his farm in the form of sweet corn. Joe was to have a committee with him to test the quality of the corn. By a unanimous vote it was considered the best corn ever seen. The corn roast on the lawn was a novelty to most of those present.

Another feature of the occasion was the dedication of Mr. O'Heir's new home. An impromptu program was rendered, which consisted of about every stunt that might be thought up to go with a husking bee.

Mr. O'Heir was acknowledged the king farmer of Clark road, while Mrs. O'Heir proved her ability in the domestic line by the plentiful supply of refreshments she had prepared and the ingenious way she had of serving them.

After the pleasures enjoyed on the spacious lawn the party repaired to the house, where both vocal and instrumental music, readings and other pleasurable pastimes were indulged in. The entire party before leaving became patriotic and the whole assembly joined in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

JOHN GOLDEN

TRIES TO AROUSE LABOR UNIONS OF LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, Aug. 19.—Following in the wake of the suffragette campaign of last week John Golden, former president of the National Mule Spinners' association and now general president of the United States Textile Workers, assisted by several prominent women, representatives of the Woman's Trade Union league of Boston, are in Lawrence this week conducting a series of meetings in behalf of the cause of organized labor.

The movement is not to stir up a strike but to organize the women textile workers as well as the men. President Golden will stop at the Hotel Needham through the week and has already opened headquarters at the Central Labor Union headquarters, 154 Broadway.

Mill gate and street corner campaigns similar to those conducted last week by the "Votes for Women" workers, will be held each day. The women who are here assisting President Golden are Mrs. Glendower Evans, who was here last week in the interest of the "votes for women," Mrs. Sarah Conloy, Miss Gillespie and Mrs. Mary K. O'Sullivan. The first three named were prominently identified as leaders during the Roxbury carpet factory strike through which they gained a great deal of newspaper notoriety.

Meetings will be held at the junction of Lawrence and Essex streets and Essex street and Broadway every evening and at the various mill gates during the noon hour. The speakers are able and forceful and are listened to with intense interest by large crowds every day.

Mrs. Conloy and President Golden spoke at the corner of Essex and Lawrence streets last night. Organization was the theme.

TWO MEN ARRESTED

Larceny of Silk Valued at $50,000 is Alleged

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—A scheme to rob the Boston & Maine railroad and a leading woolen merchant of thousands of dollars was unearthed last night by inspectors Gleaves, Patton, Linton and Laughlin, and two arrests followed, though more are expected.

At present about $2500 is involved, but the arresting officers say that the accused had planned to divert $50,000 worth of silk, which was soon to be put into transit over the Boston & Maine lines, with Boston as its objective point.

Those arrested last night gave their names as William Potter, 33, claiming to live at 88 Brooks street, East Boston, and John H. O'Neill, 32, who says he lives at 6 Harmony place, South Boston. Both are teamsters.

Last night 14 rolls of woolen containing 700 yards were recovered in a tailoring shop in Meridian street, East Boston, by the arresting inspectors. This was brought to police headquarters in a team with Inspector Linton as guard.

An employee in the mills where the alleged stolen goods were sent from is under surveillance, the police having evidence to show, they claim, that he was a party to the fraud. This mill is to take stock on Sept. 1, and it is said that the employee in question intends to resign right away, so that when an inventory is taken at the mill he will be conspicuous by his absence.

About two months ago, when the police first learned of the big swindle, three rolls of cloth were found in a local tailor shop, and since then the officers have been quietly working up their case. They did not want to make any arrests too hastily, as they heard that a big shipment of silk, valued at $50,000, which was to be shipped here, would be diverted to someone other than the consignee and then disposed of at a low figure.

MORE ARRESTS

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Two more arrests were made today in connection with the wholesale stealings of wool from the Boston & Maine and various Massachusetts woolen mills. The men arrested today, Edward Parkins and John Rose, are teamsters. Parkins was on the team last night when the first two defendants, John O'Neill and William Potter were arrested, but managed to make his escape. The officers waited for him this morning and took him into custody as he appeared at his place of work. It is alleged that the wool thefts will aggregate $50,000.

COTTON INDUSTRY IS WORTH $4,000,000

Steady Growth in New Eng. - Arkansas Negro Offers Free Land States Farms to Colored Men

While the growth of the south in the cotton manufacturing industry has been rapid during the past few years, its progress has been but slight in comparison with the energy displayed during the same period in Massachusetts, writes a correspondent in the current issue of the Manufacturers' Record. His article follows:

"Massachusetts has 3,000,000 population," he says, "but it has $728,000,000 in its savings banks, or an average of nearly $250 represented in this form of savings for every man, woman and child in the state. In this state there are over 2,000,000 savings bank deposits."

"The south, with 38,000,000 population, has only $108,000,000 in its savings banks, and of that amount $81,

000,000 is in Baltimore. Even including Baltimore, the south has less than $8 per capita in its savings banks, against nearly $250 per capita in Massachusetts. Omitting the state of Maryland, the south has only about $3 per capita in savings banks.

"Massachusetts has 30 times as much per capita, or in other words for every dollar per capita the south out of Maryland has in savings banks, Massachusetts has about $80.

"This disproportion in the tangible wealth represented by savings banks deposits is only indicative of the vast difference in the industrial progress and the general wealth of Massachusetts, and, for that matter, of New England, as compared with the south. A study of these facts is of profound interest."

"Turning from savings banks to manufacturing interests, it is found that at the end of 1904, the latest date of government figures giving the manufacturing statistics of New England, Massachusetts had invested in manufacturing enterprises $956,948,357. The south with more than eight times as many people, with 100 times as much land area, with 1000 times more natural resources, had only $1,587,636,872 capital invested in manufacturing.

"New England as a whole had $1,570,995,405 manufacturing capital, or nearly $500,000,000 more than the south. Maryland to Texas included, though the south has 13 times the area of New England, and more than four times its population. The value of the manufactured products of New England in 1904 was $2,025,905,438, while that of the south was $1,787,926,325.

"But some may say that these figures are five and six years old, and that during the time the south has made very great material development. That is true. The capital invested in manufacturing in the south has grown from $1,500,000,000 in 1904 to over $2,200,000,000 at present, and the value of manufactured products from $1,787,000,000 to over $2,700,000,000. This is a marvelous increase, worthy to be commended. But what has Massachusetts been doing in the meantime?

"New England was putting $75,000,000 of new money into the building of textile industries, while the south felt, and justly so, that it was doing great things because it was spending $25,000,000 in building new cotton mills. Wherever one turns from the moment he enters New England he sees on every hand the evidence of increasing wealth. He sees the power of energy combined with almost limitless wealth, made by the same energy.

"It is the human agency without raw materials, but the human agency developed to the highest type, determined to win material success regardless of a lack of advantages. It has, indeed, gathered its raw materials of manufacture from the four quarters of the globe and touched them with the magic wand of energy of trained brain and brawn, and from this touch there is pouring out a stream of wealth so vast in its proportions as to justify the boast of the delegate from Massachusetts.

"Two hundred and thirteen new textile mills have been built or planned in the United States during the first six months of the present year. This, the wool and cotton men say, is absolute evidence of the return of prosperity. Massachusetts leads in 1910 construction with 52 new mills, of which 25 are cotton and 11 wool. North Carolina comes next with 23 new mills, of which 15 are cotton, seven knit, and one wool. New York state is third with 20 new mills, of which 10 are knit, six wool and three cotton. Then comes Rhode Island with 15 new mills, of which eight are wool. South Carolina with 16 new mills, all of which are cotton, and Pennsylvania with 13 new mills, of which seven are knit and six miscellaneous. Of the 313 new mills, 137 are in the north and 76 in the south. Thirty-one Union states are in this revival of textile industry: Alabama, 2; Arkansas, 2; Calif., 1; Colorado, 1; Connecticut, 6; Delaware, 1; Georgia, 9; Idaho, 1; Illinois, 3; Indiana, 1; Iowa, 1; Kentucky, 1; Maine, 4; Michigan, 1; Minnesota, 2; Ohio, 5; Oklahoma, 4; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 5; Utah, 2; Virginia, 4; Washington, 1; and Wisconsin 1.

John Bearup, a woolen manufacturer of Albuquerque, N. M., heads a syndicate which plans a $100,000,000 string of mills in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, California and other ranch states. Mr. C. D. Borden is putting up a 108,000 spindle mill in Fall River. Mr. Lawrence and Pacific mill company is erecting a worsted mill to cover eight blocks. A 60,000 spindle mill is under way in New Bedford. A cotton storehouse to handle 18,000 bales of cotton a year is being put up by the Nashua Manufacturing company in Nashua.

Figuring the 213 new mills at $50,000 each, and the 200 and more mill additions at $25,000 each, a low estimate, more than $15,000,000 has gone into textile construction in six months.

THIEVES BROKE INTO REFRESHMENT STAND

Thieves broke into the refreshment stand of Louis Veller at Spalding park Wednesday and stole tonic and cigars to the value of about $6. The matter has been reported to the police, but as yet there is no clue to the identity of the thieves.

Gilmore's orch. Sat. eve., Prescott hall.

Scott Bond shuffled and grinned. "Well," he said, "down in Arkansas they tax us 50 cents on every $1000. I pay a few dollars less than $2000 a year."

A little arithmetic shows that this tax represents a capital appraised at nearly $4,000,000, consisting, Scott Bond said, of his own farm, 18 farms rented to other negroes, cotton gins, 20 general stores and live stock.

"What do you raise?" asked a woman delegate.

"On my place," was the reply, "I raise mules, corn, cotton, tobacco and boys and girls."

"These insurance men talk about the mortality among our race, but I tell you the thing that's killing us off is style. If the nigger women would quit wearing patent leather shoes and get out into the country and try less to be like white women, we'd have more and healthier children."

Other speakers at the afternoon session were Booker T. Washington, Mrs. Henry Villard, the daughter of William Lloyd Garrison, and Garrison's grandnephew, Oswald Garrison Villard, a New York editor. Solidarity, Mr. Villard thought, was what the negro most needed.

The Committee Makes Recommendation

The members of the fire department committee went on a tour of inspection yesterday afternoon and later held a meeting at city hall. The committee visited the central fire station, the Highland, Pawtucketville and Oakland districts. The boiler inspectors have recommended that a new boiler be installed at the central fire station and the committee's visit to the Highland and Pawtucketville districts was to look over proposed sites for fire alarm boxes. The committee visited the Oakland as the result of a request by the residents of that section for better fire protection. Chief Hosmer accompanied the committee.

At the meeting, and on motion of Councilman Achin, the committee voted to recommend to the lands and buildings committee that better heating apparatus be installed in the central fire station. Mr. Achin explained that the main fire alarm system is located on the top floor of the building and that an even temperature must be maintained. He said that if the present boiler should go wrong during the coming winter the system would be put out of commission.

In regard to better fire protection in the Oakland district, Councilman Tracy expressed the belief that the proper thing to do would be to place

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA, PIMPLES, AND DANDRUFF.

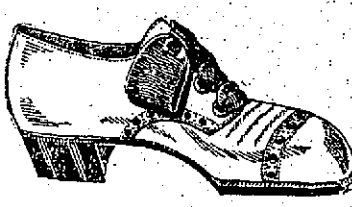

We desire to say that when we took the agency for ZEMO, we were convinced that it was a valuable remedy for Eczema, pimples, and dandruff. Yet, we must frankly admit that Zemo has far exceeded our expectations as a treatment for skin diseases. We are pleased to state that we shall continue the agency as ZEMO has given splendid results wherever recommended. Our customers like ZEMO too, because it is a clean vegetable liquid for external use.

ZEMO effects its cures by drawing to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the disease, leaving the skin clear and healthy. It does not soil the clothing or linen and can be used freely on infants.

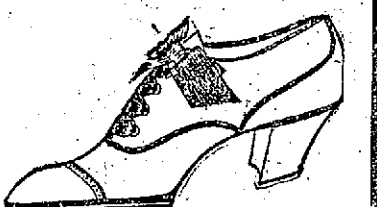

With every purchase we give a booklet on skin diseases explaining in simple words how any person can be cured at home of any form of skin or scalp diseases by this clean, scientific remedy. A. W. Dows & Co., druggists.

CHAIRMAN MANN BAVARIAN DUKE WILL SEE AMERICAN CITIES AND GIRLS

Delivered Address at Versailles

PARIS, France, August 19.—"The grandest name in all the history of America is that of George Washington and the history of all the nations give us none that is grander," said James Mann, chairman of the Virginia commission, in the course of his address at Versailles yesterday in presenting to the people of France on behalf of Virginia a bronze copy of Houdon's statue of Washington. The original of the statue stands in the state capitol at Richmond.

Mr. Mann recounted the splendid deeds of "the father of his country" both in war and in peace and paid fitting tribute to the illustrious Frenchmen who aided America in its struggle for liberty. "We remember always," he said, "that but for the aid of France success could not have crowned the efforts of Washington in our Revolutionary war. It is because Virginians remember these things and remembering them, love the people of France, that we have come in their name as the bearers of this token of their affection."

The statue was accepted in behalf of the French government by M. Pinchon, secretary of foreign affairs. "The graciousness with which the gift of this statue has been received," said Mr. Mann, "has added to the pleasure Virginia has felt in sending her best loved son to stand on the soil of France, amid the only allies of offensive and defensive America has ever had. It was a beautiful thought that prompted the people of France to place on the right of this statue of Washington the bust of Lafayette, his most trusted lieutenant and dearest friend, and on his left, Sufferin, the gallant commander of the redoubtable Fantassme, who dealt such telling blows to the British ships upon our coast and later, by his bravery, won for himself the high honor of being the admiral of France. It is indeed fitting that there should be placed within the pedestal as a part of his support the names and deeds of these brave French soldiers who made possible the successful termination of the war and thereby entitled Washington to stand upon that high pinnacle of fame which history accords only to the victorious. His spirit, as it hovers here above his statue, must indeed feel that he stands in the midst of his friends."

Mr. Mann referred to the fact that it was within the very walls within which he stood and where the statue had been placed that on September 3, 1783, was signed the Treaty Peace between Great Britain and the United States. "This indeed the birthplace of our nation," he said, "and we have come in grateful recognition of the splendid part that France took in the accomplishment of our freedom to place within these sacred walls the statue of the 'father of his country'."

Speaking of Washington, Mr. Mann said:

"Grand as he was in war, he was grander still in peace, and to him above all others is due the adoption of the constitution, which welded the states together into that form of government which became the pattern of future republics. Courteous and courteous to all men, a tender affection characterized his intercourse with his friends. Lafayette's heart went out to him in filial love; Rochambeau held him as a dearly beloved brother in arms; de Grasse admired him and was glad to call him 'le grand'; Chestnut declared him to be the greatest and best of all men while his own people with an accord have proclaimed him 'first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen.'"

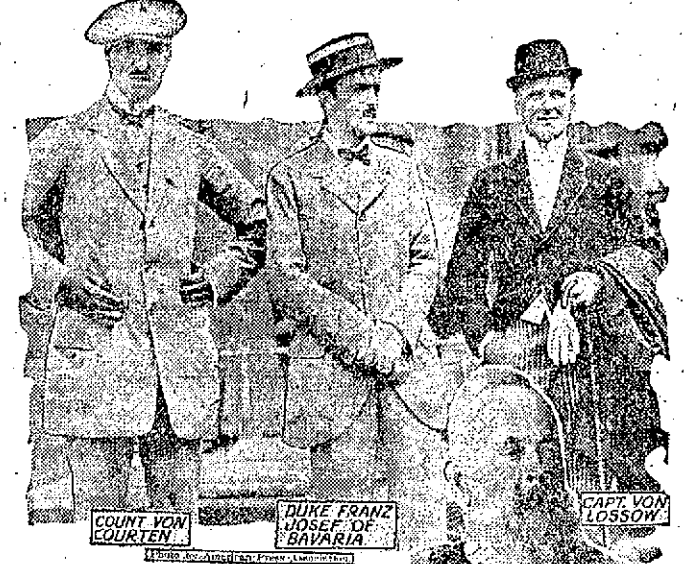

In glowing terms, Mr. Mann referred to Lafayette and the affectionate regard in which Americans hold his memory.

"No name in all the history of our Revolutionary period, save only that of Washington," said Mr. Mann, "is so dear to the American people as that of the gallant young Frenchman, who before he had reached the age of twenty became a major-general in the army of the United States, having tendered his services as a volunteer without pension or allowance. Before the constitution was adopted, Lafayette had been by legislative act declared a citizen of Virginia, the highest honor a free state can pay to any man; and upon his death by order of the president of the United States the same honors were rendered the nation as had been observed on the death of Washington. His love for our state was touchingly shown when he named a daughter Virginia. And it is a proud to relate that when offered his choice of commands in the Continental army he selected a division, composed entirely of Virginians. It was he, at the head of his division of brave Virginians, who drove Cornwallis into the untenable position at Yorktown and held him there until the coming of Washington and Rochambeau by land, and of de Grasse and the French fleet by sea. Cornwallis had said to him: 'The boy cannot escape me,' but it was due to the splendid strategy of the boy that the entire British army on the glorious October day in 1781 was forced to march into in humble submission between the line of French and Americans and laid down its arms."

Mr. Mann related how a Frenchman had been chosen to perpetuate the form of the illustrious Washington in imperishable marble.

"The war drums of the Revolution had hardly ceased to sound before the new born state of Virginia voted a statue to Washington," he said. "Desiring to honor the greatest of her sons, she knew when she enshrined in the place of highest honor in her capitol, that splendid figure of a man, that she was handing down to generations then and now unborn an inspiration that would rebound always to the good of the commonwealth."

"Jefferson, author of our Declaration of Independence and later president of the republic, then in France, selected for this great work that illustrious French sculptor, Jean Antoine Houdon, whom he declared to be without rival. Houdon visited America and at Mount Vernon, where he was entertained with that courteous hospitality which distinguished the home life of Washington."

COURT VON COURTNEY, DUKE FRANZ JOSEF OF BAVARIA, PRINCE LUITPOLD, REGENT OF BAVARIA

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Many American cities will be visited by Duke Franz Josef of Bavaria, who arrived here recently, and, while the duke neglects to say so, there is reason to believe that he will not be averse to meeting American girls wherever he journeys. The duke is a good looking, genial bachelor of twenty-one and is accompanied by Captain von Lersow of the German army. He says there would be no royal objection to his marrying an American and added, "You know the Emperor William is very fond of Americans." Duke Franz Josef is a nephew of the prince regent. The possibility that he may ever ascend the throne is rather remote. The duke's father was the Duke Karl Theodor, noted for his contributions to the various branches of optical science. Karl Theodor was one of the most skilled oculists in Europe. He died, and Franz Josef succeeded him in the year 1909. Franz Josef's mother is an aunt of the king of Portugal. His aunt, the Empress Elizabeth of Austria, was assassinated in Geneva twelve years ago. The young duke is a lieutenant in Emperor William's first regiment of Uhlans. He has had three years' service and is one of the expert horsemen in Europe. "After I complete my present term of service," said the duke, "I shall visit America again. I think it is much better for one to have work he is interested in. I love work. I could never be idle. I think when you are engaged in some sort of work that life is much more satisfactory. I am very keen to learn about your wonderful commercial life we hear so much about on the other side. I want to visit your large industries here. I shall go to Chicago, and then to the Pacific coast. I shall look into your banking system and what you call your 'billion dollar enterprises.' I should like very much, I think, to return here when I complete my army service and enter the banking business."

ton, he studied thoroughly his subject, took accurate measurements and even made a mould of his face. Returning to France, wonder in your beautiful Paris, working patiently and with consummate skill, Houdon, fashioned in marble the perfect statue which was described by Lafayette as a 'face smile of Washington's person.'

"It is accepted as the standard and no perfect likeness of Washington, true to any portrait the best artist could produce, as work of art it surpasses any statue in America; its value to my people cannot be measured in gold, or in silver or in precious stones. It is a beautiful bronze copy of this statue that we have brought to you on behalf of the people of Virginia."

In glowing terms, Mr. Mann referred to Lafayette and the affectionate regard in which Americans hold his memory.

BADLY BEATEN

Police Officer is Victim of Gang

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Coleman Donahue of 378 West 2d street, South Boston, was twice taken into custody yesterday by officers of division 6 and twice he escaped from them.

In the second instance he put up a terrific battle and brutally assaulted the officer who had caught him and was bringing him to the station. A large crowd of men and boys also attacked the officer and assisted in getting the prisoner away from him.

Donahue has been sought by the police of division 6, as there is a warrant for his arrest. Yesterday afternoon he was discovered by Patrolman Ernest Robertson, but quickly got away from him and disappeared.

Last night, shortly after 8 o'clock, Patrolman Martin Haverly of division 6 saw Donahue in front of 402 West 2d street and he immediately placed him under arrest. Donahue is a big fellow and very strong. He had not gone far with Haverly before the prisoner fought to get away. A gang of men and boys gathered and followed the officer and prisoner on the way to the box and soon set upon him.

Haverly held on to his man and was preparing for an attack when Donahue grabbed the hand that was holding him and bit three of the officer's fingers. Several of the crowd and Donahue then attacked the officer and he was thrown to the ground and, while down, it is said that Donahue kicked the policeman. Haverly fractured the thumb of his right hand, the same hand that the prisoner had bitten.

When the policeman was on the ground he was kicked several times and suffered a deep cut on the top of the head. Haverly lost his helmet and his trousers and what is pretty bad shape. The prisoner got away and Haverly was taken to the station, where he was attended by Dr. Keenan of 252 West Broadway.

During the trouble Patrolman Haverly struck the prisoner several times with the club and although the latter got away it is believed by the police that he is nursing a sore head.

SENATOR LODGE

Meets More Opposition Than He Expected

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge is finding more difficulty in obtaining pledges of support from republican candidates for the legislature than he thought. Despite the fact that he has been able to line up the leaders he is having trouble with the show within a short time of its first presentation and look for any degree of success, especially at a summer party, but that's exactly what is taking place at Lakeview theatre where the Lakeview Stock Co. is repeating "St. Elmo" to crowded houses. It is acted by the same splendid company and every detail of the performance, with the exception of a few minor improvements, is given the same as when the bill made such a pronounced hit two weeks ago.

For local theatregoers a treat comes next week, when at Lakeview theatre Eugene Walter's drama of New York life today, "Paid in Full," will be presented. This attraction will take the place of the stock company, and is composed of a brilliant New York cast, this engagement being the first one over played at a summer party.

"Paid in Full" is a vital, living story of the hour, depicting with compelling power conditions and persons that help make up the human sum of every American city, and to see this great play acted by a great cast is a treat not to be missed by anyone. Matinees at 2:30; evening at 8:15, and advances seats on sale at Carter & Sherburne's drug store.

A well attended and enjoyable lawn party was held on the grounds of the Perry Parker estate in Broadway last night under the auspices of the Carrington club of the Worthen Street Baptist church. The grounds were well illuminated and decorated with Calceolae and Japanese lanterns.

There was a burly-kurly on the grounds and pleasing selections were given during the evening. There were automobile trips and games for the young people, and well patronized refreshment tables. THEATRE VOYONS

The story of the eastern tenderfoot's adventures in the wild and woolly west is familiar to many and much fun has been made of them in "Willie" the comedy at the Theatre Voyons today. The laughs are plenty, the story interesting and the staging real western from top to bottom. It is one of the best western comedies yet shown and met with a most favorable reception yesterday. The dramatic feature is "The Attack on the Mill," a story of the Franco-German war, well acted and staged with due regard to history. It depicts several very dramatic episodes, deals with the sufferings of a father, daughter and sweetheart, besides many other characters. The Sunday program to be offered next Sunday is a first class one in every way and the musical selections by James and Lillian Bales are especially worthy of attention.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

It isn't very often you can repeat a show within a short time of its first presentation and look for any degree of success, especially at a summer party, but that's exactly what is taking place at Lakeview theatre where the Lakeview Stock Co. is repeating "St. Elmo" to crowded houses. AN ALIENIST NAMED
To Decide Whether Alleged Murderer is Sane Or Not

GREENFIELD, Aug. 19.—An alienist was named by Chief Justice Aiken of the superior court today for the purpose of observing Bertram Spencer, who is charged with murdering Miss Martha B. Blackstone at Springfield, Mass. The physician who will examine Spencer is Joseph W. Courtney of Boston. A motion by counsel for the defendant for a change of venue was denied. The defense expressed the opinion that by reason of the wide publicity given the case by the Springfield newspapers it would be impossible to

STRONG CHARGE

Bingham Says He Will Appeal to Taft

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Asserting that he had been thwarted in every possible way in his efforts to uphold the laws of his state against the sale of food containing benzene and announcing that he would appeal to President Taft, a scathing denunciation of department of agricultural officials was given today by Attorney-General Bingham of Indiana. The scoring occurred in the hearing today of the case of Williams Bros. and others against the board of health of Indiana. Dr. Harvey Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry being under cross-examination at the time.

"The department said if I wanted the testimony of Wiley and his assistant I would have to come here and get it," said Attorney-General Bingham. "When one comes here this week for that purpose the department, with Acting Secretary Hayes at its head, informed us that we would have to get a court order to compel the experts to testify. We appeared in court and the department was then doing everything possible in preventing our getting this testimony."

DAVID RANKIN, JR.
THE WELL KNOWN PHILANTHROPIST IS DEAD

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—David Rankin, Jr., who a month ago, devoted his entire fortune of $5,000,000 to endow a trade school in St. Louis that bears his name ended a long and busy life, and a useful one, at Atlantic City yesterday. He died in a hotel of heart failure. His health had been failing for several months, and his will power alone sustained him for the last several days.

It was determination that marked the entire career of the philanthropist.

STRIKERS WARNED

Police Officers Told to Shoot Into Crowd

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 19.—Chief of Police Mason had the laborers' strike leaders at the central police station for an interview today in the course of which the labor leaders were told the chief's views of just what they can and cannot do. "There will be no more shooting in the air," said Chief Mason. "If the police have to draw their revolvers they will mean business. I told Allesandro, Silva and the secretary of the union this morning that we will not allow any intimidation of the workmen on the jobs whatever. The contractors are needlessly alarmed. I have talked with some of the men on the jobs and find that they do not fear at all being molested while they are at work, but are afraid of what the other fellows will do to them after hours. We have furnished absolutely all the protection that the men at work need, but no amount of protection would be able to take that fear out of the minds of the laborers. In my opinion the situation is not at all serious. If the contractors want to put more men at work they can do it without any trouble."

In the interview that the chief of police had this morning with the strike leaders he made clear to them the fact that the authorities have the power to prevent picketing on the various jobs. It was just this point that the strikers seemed to question, having declared openly that the police have no right to force them to leave the public ways in the vicinity of the jobs.

STRIKEBREAKERS JEERED

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 19.—The heavy rain of the early morning prevented much of the construction work in this city today and as a result there was little chance for the striking building laborers to interfere with the strikebreaking laborers. A demonstration had been expected at the new Sharp mill in the extreme southerly part of the city but when 100 or more strikers divided into four or five groups approached the mill from different directions they were corralled by a detail of police who handed the strikers together and sent them up Eastmouth street. In command of the police detail at the Sharp mill was Inspector Stow who fifteen or twenty years ago was a famous major league baseball player known as Harry Stovey.

The strike breakers at the Sharp mill construction work were hoisted and jeered by the strikers but no violence was attempted. A large party of city laborers was encountered by a small band of strikers today. The strikers requested the city employees to join the strike but were not insistent in their demands inasmuch as they were greatly outnumbered. The city laborers refused to listen to the pleas of the strikers.

Police D'Allesandro, organizer of the union, said today that there were 3200 men enrolled in the union and now on strike. Organizer D'Allesandro said he had visited Boston, Providence and other cities and that he had made it impossible for the contractors to secure Italian strikebreakers at any of the cities he had visited. Both the strikers and the contractors are loud in their criticism of the police. The strike officials say that the strikers have been discriminated against and the contractors claim that they are not given protection to enable them to keep non-union laborers at work in safety. The method of protecting the strikebreakers at the construction work on

Was Solved Through a Mishap

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—A seven years mystery of the sea may be solved through a mishap to the German steamship Pallanza which struck a whale at sea, nearly cutting the mammal in two, and disclosing a harpoon believed to have been used by the little whaler James Duncan, lost in 1903. The whaler sailed from Halifax with a crew of seven men in the spring of that year and has not since been heard from. Captain Fendt of the Pallanza, from Hamburg, reports that he ran into the whale on Aug. 11. The monster was firmly impaled on the prow of the steamer and the crew in chopping away the carcass found the harpoon, stamped "J. T. D." "I think the Duncan drove this weapon into the whale and a blow from the infuriated monster's tail sank the Duncan," said the captain. "You'd think so too if you'd seen that whale die."

MAN ARRESTED

In Connection With the Death of Woman

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The police took into custody today E. Rosenheimer, son of a millionaire needle manufacturer, to tell what he may know concerning the death of Miss Grace Lough, who was hurled from a carriage which was struck by an automobile going 50 miles an hour last night. Rosenheimer denied his car struck the carriage.

EXPECTED TO SEE CRIPPEN

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The steamer Montrose, on which Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and Miss Ethel Levene traveled from Antwerp to Canada, to be arrested immediately on their arrival on the American side, reached London this afternoon on her return voyage. A large crowd awaited the arrival of the steamer but the authorities absolutely prohibited any communication with those aboard and newspaper representatives, who had come to interview the captain, officers and stewards on the Crippen case, were rigorously excluded from the ship.

RECEPTION POSTPONED

ROME, Aug. 19.—Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, today again postponed the usual diplomatic reception. The incident causes comment as showing a plan to avoid a meeting with Marquis de Gonzales, the Spanish charge d'affaires.

"Tommy" Rogers, of the Fletcher street engine house, has returned from his vacation which he spent with his family in a cozy cottage at Mud Pond. Numerically speaking Mr. Rogers' family numbers a half-dozen and for the last two weeks they had the time of their lives.

AMERICAN LEGION OF HONOR

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—The fifth report of Henry Wyman, receiver of the American Legion of Honor, presented to Judge Rugg of the supreme judicial court today, shows that the 3500 members remaining in good standing are entitled to a pro rata share in assets amounting to about $125,000, although their total claims reach nearly $2,000,000. Many of these certificate holders live in California, New Orleans, Texas, Pennsylvania and New York and they have been given until May 31, 1911, to prove claims. The order of the court will apply to all members who paid assessment No. 114, which reduced the amount of the certificate and increased the assessment. Judgments of nearly $100,000 obtained in the courts of Texas against the Legion of Honor have not been recognized by the Massachusetts supreme court as these judgments were not obtained until after a receiver had been appointed here.

INCREASED POPULATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The population of Sioux City, Ia., is 47,828, an increase of 4,717, or 44.4 per cent. as compared with 33,111 in 1900. The population of Danville, Ill., is 27,371, an increase of 11,517, or 70.4 per cent. as compared with 15,854 in 1900.

ARCHBISHOP TO SPEAK

At Hibernian Mass On Next Tuesday Morning

Chief Marshal O'Sullivan Announces That Nothing But Bad Weather Will Interfere With Parade—Central Council, A. O. H., Perfects Plans—Other Notes of the Coming Celebration

As the week in which this city draws near, the completion of preliminary plans emphasizes the fact that the week is to be one of the biggest of its kind in the history of the city. Thousands of strangers will make temporary residence in Lowell and as they are all to be here for a gala occasion which means thousands of dollars for the merchants of Lowell, the fact that Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan is the promoter of the big parade on Wednesday is the biggest "ad" for the week, for all the Irish societies of this vicinity still recall the big St. Patrick's day celebration which he promoted a few years ago while every veteran fireman in Massachusetts, be he Irish or Scandinavian, will manage to get to Lowell for any event that Humphrey runs. In Lowell we recall not only these big events but the Fourth of July celebration of a few years, promoted by Mr. Sullivan, and voted one of the best ever held here though it cost the city, nearly a cent.

Corporations Show Right Spirit

Secretary Murphy of the board of trade recently sent a communication to all the local mills, as follows:

Lowell, Aug. 18, 1910.

Dear Sir:

I have been delegated by the joint committees from the board of trade, and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, to request you to grant your employees the privilege of being absent from

HE LIKES JAIL

WILLIAM MUIR DOES NOT CARE TO LEAVE IT

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—William Muir's term of imprisonment for disorderly conduct in the Richmond county jail on Staten Island is about to expire and he is unhappy.

Muir likes the jail life so well that only two or three days have elapsed between his different terms in the last six years. He makes it a point to get back into jail with the least possible delay.

Muir, who is about 55 years old, is an expert gardener. For six years he has had charge of the beautiful garden surrounding the jail. Thousands of people stop to admire his handiwork. The variety of flowers and their arrangement are considered in extraordinarily good taste. Indeed, gardeners from all over the island come to the jail to get pointers on new designs.

At one time Muir was in charge of Jay Gould's estate, Pinchurst, at Tarrytown. He often speaks of George Gould, "who was a fine boy when I worked for his father," he says that "any man who makes up his mind to make a million can do it if he sticks to it. If I made up my mind to cultivate a garden, I will finish that garden in the manner originally intended."

He will be discharged shortly, but the sheriff's attaches say that "he simply will not stay away." They will keep his old cell in readiness for his return, and no one will be allowed to touch the garden in his absence.

SOCIETY WOMAN

IS DISGUSTED AND WILL BECOME A NURSE

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—"The life of a nurse is far more useful to society than that of a social butterfly," said Miss Daphne E. Wasmser of Bayside, last night when asked why she matriculated at the New York Post Graduate hospital. Miss Wasmser intends to become a trained nurse and has banished the "frivolities of society" to take up more serious work.

"I am tired of this butterfly existence," exclaimed Miss Wasmser. "It leads to nowhere and ends in ennui and disappointment. I've played the hostess a while, entertained at teas and enjoyed myself at stiff necked parties, but I found more genuine pleasure and satisfaction in half an hour of full service at a sick bedside than in days and years of social courting."

Miss Wasmser is twenty, pretty and daughter of Herman Wasmser, a wealthy dry goods merchant in Manhattan. Miss Wasmser has been a leader in Bayside society several years, entertaining with her mother, and she was considered a charming hostess. WAS NO WEDDING

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 19.—Miss Mary E. Bolger, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bolger, of Franklin street, waited in vain in church today for her husband-to-be, Peter McCarthy, of Fuller street. The wedding was to have taken place this morning, but Mr. McCarthy failed to show up, having decided last night that he was too young to get married. He is 20 years old, and has a good position in one of the local factories.

Friends of Miss Bolger and McCarthy were at the Bolger home at 7 o'clock, ready to partake of the wedding breakfast, which was to be served before the couple took a New York train. The friends waited in vain, however. McCarthy was found after a search. At first he refused to budge, but, after repeated entreaties and threats, said he would be married at 10 o'clock. When 10 o'clock came, however, he was just as much missing as before, and then the marriage was called off.

A couple of hours later friends of the couple got hold of McCarthy and induced him to go to the home of Miss Bolger and there offer apologies. "Oh, how could you?" said Miss Bolger, as she caught sight of McCarthy. But McCarthy only grinned and said:

"It's all off."

James Bolger, father of the deserted girl, was not kindly disposed toward McCarthy at first, but, after talking with the young man, he announced that the wedding would take place in a week.

TWO WERE DROWNED THEY BROKE CAMP

Mayor Meehan Has Signed the Pump Resolution

New York Concern Asks For Permit to Exhibit the Jeffries-Johnson Fight Pictures — A Special Meeting of Aldermen Tomorrow Afternoon — Many Autos Line Up at City Hall — Police Officer vs. Small Boys

Mayor Meehan has signed the resolution of the board of aldermen requesting the water board to ask for competitive bids for a new pump prior to the making of an appropriation for same.

The same request was made by the committee on appropriations and the water board, replying to the committee said the board is not in a position to call for bids before an appropriation had been made.

Following is a copy of the resolution to which the mayor affixed his signature today:

Resolved by the board of aldermen of the city of Lowell, assembled, as follows:

That the water board be and it is hereby requested to procure competitive bids for a new pump for Centralville pumping station, so that an accurate estimate of its cost may be obtained.

Relative to the signing of the resolution, Mayor Meehan said: "I have given the matter a great deal of thought and I decided that to ask for competitive bids before an appropriation had been made was a sound business proposition. What I signed is nothing more nor less than a request. I do not look upon it as being mandatory in the least. I am not fully acquainted with the pump question. I have heard the arguments pro and con, but any knowledge of the affair that I have at the present time is in the abstract. I take it that the aldermen are as much in the dark as the mayor and the best thing to do is to ask for bids, as the aldermen request, in order that we may get an accurate estimate of the cost. I do not see why any reliable pump company should be put in a position to bid even though the money was not appropriated in advance."

Those Fight Pictures

Mayor Meehan is in receipt of a letter from the New York Herald Co. of Newark, N. J., Berger secretary, asking permission to exhibit the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures in this city. It is in evidence that New York City does not keep posted on affairs in Lowell, but that doesn't detract to the least from Lowell's greatness.

It was generally understood that the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures were a dead issue in Lowell. The agitation of the question was quite lively here for a time. Mayor Meehan was opposed to any exhibition of the pictures in this city, but an opinion handed down by the city solicitor took the matter out of the mayor's hands and transferred it to the board of police.

No sooner did the police board members discover that authority in the matter rested with them than they came out with a statement in which they said that they would not stand for the pictures being exhibited here. That settled it in Lowell, but it would appear that the news didn't reach New York.

The letter received by Mayor Meehan today reads as follows:

New York City, Aug. 18, 1910.

Hon. John F. Meehan, Mayor City of Lowell, Lowell, Mass.

My Dear Sir:

Will you please be kind enough to inform me by return mail to room 321 Knickerbocker theatre building, New York City, whether or not I can exhibit the above fight pictures in your city for some night in the near future.

Thanking you in advance for the favor, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,

L. J. Berger.

Mayor Meehan will turn the letter over to the police board and he knows the kind of an answer that the board will send the New York concern. The pictures will not be exhibited in Lowell. That's the day's best bet.

IN POLICE COURT

Dentist's Bill Sets Two Women Fighting

A dentist bill which caused considerable trouble between two women, figured as the most important piece of evidence produced in the case of Maria Lundstrom, charged with assault and battery on Freida Johnson, which was heard before Judge Hadley in the police court this morning. Both the complainant and defendant disclaimed the ownership of the bill, but in regard to the assault the court found Mrs. Lundstrom guilty and ordered her to pay a fine of $5.

According to the testimony offered in the case, Mrs. Johnson resides at 109 South Whipple street and recently received a letter addressed to "Mrs. Lundstrom, 109 South Whipple street." Inasmuch as Mrs. Lundstrom had lived in a house now occupied by Mrs. Johnson, the latter turned the letter over to the letter carrier and told him that the letter belonged to Mrs. Lundstrom and gave the carrier the address where the woman is now living.

When Mrs. Lundstrom opened the letter she found that it contained a bill for dental work. She also learned that the letter had been delivered at Mrs. Johnson's house and the letter had refused to accept it. Mrs. Lundstrom then called upon Mrs. Johnson and asked her what she meant by sending bills to her house. Mrs. Johnson said that she thought the bill belonged to Mrs. Lundstrom. Then followed the colloquy:

Mrs. Johnson claimed that Mrs. Lundstrom struck her on the chin, while on the other hand Mrs. Lundstrom said that she tapped Mrs. Johnson an open hander on the chin in self-defense.

Mrs. Lundstrom said that she never had any dental work done in this city and that when she received the bill she thought Mrs. Johnson was giving her money to the dentist because she was afraid to go to the dentist herself and gave her maiden name which was Lundstrom. She testified that when she went to Mrs. Johnson's house that she felt that the bill belonged to her.

Mrs. Lundstrom was cautioned by the court not to enter people's houses and assault them. He then imposed a fine of $5.

Arrested in Middlesex Street

Joseph Poulth and Eva Trotter were taken from 153 Middlesex street last night about 1 o'clock by Patrolman Bagley. The women were charged with fornication. Both entered pleas of not guilty but after the testimony had been submitted they were found guilty and each ordered to pay a fine of $15.

Denied He Was Drunk

Daniel J. Regan denied that he was drunk last night, but Special Officer Briggs said that he found Regan staggering drunk in Webster street about 1:30 o'clock last night. He was fined $5.

Cornelia Sullivan is on parole from the state farm and will be returned to that institution. Samuel Sharrow received a direct sentence to the state farm.

James McGrady, Patrick Higgins and John H. Moriarty were fined $5 each. Six first offenders were fined $2 each.

Victims Were Tired After a Strenuous Game of "Toss"

LYNN, Aug. 19—A game of "toss" ended fatally for two Lynn men yesterday when they entered the surf near the Nahant bath house just after the exercise, which had been of a violent form. Both were drowned in a spot a little over 15 feet in depth, though they were nearly 900 yards from shore.

The victims of the double drowning are Alonzo Leundrin, 39, a mechanic, of 11 Cheever place, and Alfred LaBlanc, 25, a shoe cutter of Littlefield block. Both were unmarried.

John H. Clinton, a police officer of Andover, who is taking his vacation at Nahant, so far as can be learned was the only witness of the drowning, and it was he who saved the victim to the surface. Anderson and the life guards, who recovered the bodies later about 40 feet from shore.

According to both Clinton and Anderson, the men have been repeatedly cautioned about going into the water in an overheated condition. The two men, according to Clinton, arrived on the beach about 10 o'clock and started a game of "toss," each playing as fast and hard as he could. At the end of the game they took a fast run up the

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19—A heavy rain that fell during the early hours this morning put the courts at the Casino in bad condition and it is doubtful whether any of the matches in the fifth round of the 30th annual all-comers lawn tennis championship of the United States would be played today. The rain was drizzling down at 8 a. m. but it was stated that if it stopped in time to let the courts dry out a little play would probably be started this afternoon.

Some of the contestants in the tournament looked over the courts this morning but said they did not entertain the idea of taking chances on the soft ground when they were so near to the finals.

At 11 o'clock Dr. James Dwight, the referee, announced that unless more rain should fall the matches in the fifth round would be started today. At that hour the weather was still somewhat threatening, but no rain had fallen for some time. It was expected that play would begin about noon.

SOLD HIS SEAT

Patten Out of Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—James Patten, the Chicago cotton operator, disdaining to talk of financial conditions, said today that he was chiefly interested in university matters in Chicago and that the work was taking up most of his time. Mr. Patten was a passenger on the steamship Adriatic today for Europe. He confirmed the wireless report that he had sold his seat on the stock exchange.

"There is not anything to make a fuss about in regard to the seat," said Mr. Patten. "I simply gave word before leaving this country that if the bid for the seat should go to $70,000 the seat should be sold."

Well, when the bid reached that amount the seat was sold. I can't do a thing without it."

O. M. I. Cadets Engaged in Two Sham Battles

A tired looking, but healthy, rugged and happy set of boys disembarked from the cars at the corner of East Merrimack and High streets at 7:30 last night. They were the O. M. I. Cadets who have been in camp for three days past. They broke camp at 6:30 last night, marched to the cars and returned home. Yesterday was one of the most strenuous days they put in. There were two sham battles fought, then came the drills, the baseball games and athletic sports. It was an ideal day, too, for the boys and their parents who gathered in large numbers to witness the closing scenes of the camp. The big feature of the day was a "battle of Wilmington Woods" which was called off by a shout from Mr. Sullivan, athletic instructor of the High school. The boys were kept busy covering the ground to witness and decide the points of the war. For they were the umpires who were to decide the winner. The cadets were organized into two armies, the attacking and the defending forces and for two hours the "battle" raged. The first battle started about 9 o'clock in the morning and was a most interesting one.

John of the O. M. I. corps, under Major Francis J. Haggerty, came down upon the town from the north marching and creeping through woods and underbrush for one mile and a half. The approach was cleverly made but the soldiers of the defending side, under Capt. Luke McCann, discovered the approach of the attacking force, which was then almost up to Milligan's grove. The war was not over until the line of headquarters, and Capt. McCann immediately rushed out his corps of defenders and the enemy was met in that part of Wilmington woods known as Milligan's grove. Here several fierce struggles took place between the skirmishing forces.

For a time it looked as though the attackers would have to retreat, but Capt. McCann thinking that the main body was in the skirmish line, had only a small force left in reserve to cover the right.

Major Haggerty sent up his reinforcements from the left, attacking the extreme right flank of the defenders. Though resistance was practically useless, since the enemy's skirmishers could hold the main body of McCann's army in check for a considerable length of time, the "men" fought gallantly, but were finally overcome.

In the afternoon Capt. Luke McCann's army regained the town.

Major Haggerty was outwitted by the clever orders of McCann, whose main force crept up almost to the trenches of the enemy totally unseen by the sentinels. When most of his men were in an opportune position for a sudden charge, the captain, with a smaller body appeared on the brow of a nearby hill, drawing the attention of the defense. Haggerty at once began to make preparations to repel this attacking force, which was so well arranged that it appeared as if it contained all of McCann's troops. When the defenders were fairly started on the track of the decoys, the main attacking force rushed forward and took the trenches, and the recapture of Wilmington was soon after effected.

Great credit is due to Lieut. Bernard McArdle of Co. H, Ninth Regiment, M. V. M., who acted as military instructor to the boys. The tactics were the same

PANAMA CANAL

Part of It Opened to Navigation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—Five and a half miles of the Panama canal at the Atlantic entrance were opened to navigation for the sand and rock fleet of the Atlantic division last week, according to the issue of the Canal Record which reached this city today. This section, added to the five miles at the Pacific entrance which is open to vessels of all kinds, brings the total of the canal now in actual use up to ten and a half miles.

The division just opened is not completed but has a channel 15 feet deep at its shallowest point and a width of 100 feet at its narrowest point. The dredges are constantly working on this part, broadening and deepening it to the full width of 500 feet and the full depth of 45 feet. The part just opened does away with the long detour via the old Panama canal which it was necessary for the rock and sand laden ships to make in hauling their cargoes from Porto Bello to Gatun.

HOUSE BURNED

The Occupants Made Their Escape

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 19—The story and a half house at Old Orchard, owned by Wesley G. Smith and occupied by Lewis Fowler, was burned to the ground this morning about four o'clock. The occupants of the house were awakened by the flames and made their escape without injury. Loss on house and contents is total, and the Fowler held no insurance. The house was insured for $1250 and was worth $3500. The cause of the fire is unknown but the family state that a stranger man was seen hanging around the building Thursday evening. An investigation will be made.

FREIGHT BUSINESS FALLS OFF

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 19—Freight business of the Boston & Albany railroads, as well as other railroads, has fallen off considerably in the last few weeks and the roads are retrenching by operating fewer trains and sending fewer cars over the lines. The decrease in freight business the railroad men ascribe to the political situation. The officials of the Boston & Albany declare that the road is about breaking even and the receipts from carrying freight just about allow the road to pay operating expenses and pay six per cent dividend to the stockholders, that is required by the law of the losses.

Railroad men are optimistic, however, and believe that in a few weeks business will again be normal.

HUNT FOR CAPSALIS

Reward for Capture of the Greek is Considered

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 19.—Deputy Sheriff Elmer Clark of this city and Loven D. Casler of Somersworth, who have been hunting in Maine and Massachusetts since Sunday for Nicholas Capsalis, better known among the Greeks as Capsalis, who is wanted for the alleged murder of his aunt, Mari-sa Capsalitsa, at Somersworth Aug. 10, both returned from Maine late yesterday empty-handed.

It is said that a conference will be held by Sheriff Smith and his deputies with County Solicitor Dwight Hall today in regard to the next move. So-litor Hall stated last night that the Bangor crew had not been abandoned, but might be investigated later. A move in another direction, which the authorities have not disclosed, is first contemplated.

Whether the county will offer a reward has not been decided. There are many who think that the offer of a reward would hasten the Greek's arrest. A Somersworth man well acquainted with the Greeks said last night that the offer of a reward of a few hundred dollars would arouse an interest on the part of the Greeks to aid the authorities in their search for Capsalis and would probably result in his being quickly brought in.

Sheriff Smith has been busy sending out circulars describing Capsalis. He has mailed nearly 3000, covering all the nearby cities where there are known to be Greeks and all the large cities and shipping ports of the country.

SOUGHT IN BIDDEFORD

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 19.—Officers in the two cities believe that Nicholas Capsalis is hiding somewhere in this vicinity. Detective Regis of Lowell is putting in much time searching in this city. It is believed here the Greek will be captured within a few days. State detectives and the regular officers here are looking for the man.

Many think that the alleged murderer brought the revolver in Somersworth to slay Nicholas Kallias, who disappeared last Sunday from Old Orchard.

Will Leave Hospital in a Few Weeks

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Mayor Gaynor awoke today from a refreshing night's rest and seemingly much improved in spirits and strength. His physicians said he had a fine night. Mr. Gaynor will leave the hospital in a few weeks, it is said. It is further stated that there are no present indications necessitating an operation and that the bullet gave the mayor no inconvenience and had become encysted, the physician said, and the worst that could be looked for would be a slight suppurative and that could be easily treated as a case of quinsy sore throat.

The wound in the mayor's neck is nearly healed, and the scar that will be left will be hardly noticeable.

The following official bulletin on Mayor Gaynor's condition was issued at 8 a. m.:

"The mayor slept well and is in excellent condition this morning. Temperature, pulse and respiration normal and all symptoms are favorable."

BROKE AUTO RECORD

Whitman took four days, ten hours, 59 minutes and 59 seconds off his former record.

THE MUNSEY TRIP

Lowell People Accompanied the Autoists

Mr. Donald A. Mackenzie, of the Mackenzie Auto Co., local agents for the Maxwell cars, accompanied by John J. Deavitt, of the Deavitt Mfg. Co., in Thorndike street, and representatives of the Courier-Citizen and The Sun, made up one of the many parties of automobilists which acted as escort from Providence to Boston to the automobilists in the Munsey historic tour yesterday afternoon.

The Lowell party left Merrimack square yesterday morning at 8.15 o'clock in a Model G, 20-horse power Maxwell toy tonneau and had a most delightful non-stop trip into the Rhode Island city. The weather was ideal, the roads for the greater part in excellent condition, the car was in perfect running order and good time was made all the way, an average speed of 30 miles an hour being negotiated. Owing to the number of cities and towns through which the party had to pass and the restrictions in many places, it was deemed advisable not to do much speeding.

The trip which was made in two hours and 35 minutes was through Ellerica, Bedford, Lexington, Waltham, Dedham, Norwood, Walpole, Wrentham, North Attleboro, Mass., Pawtucket, R. I., and Providence.

Upon arriving at Providence the Lowell party stopped at the Crown hotel, the headquarters for the tourists, after which the car was parked in Exchange place, where several hundred automobiles were parked.

It was Mr. Mackenzie's intention to entertain the members of his party at the Crown hotel for dinner, but upon invitation of Mr. Eugene L. Drake, of the Cassella Color company, a friend of Mr. Deavitt, the Lowellites were entertained at the West End club in Aborn street. An excellent dinner was enjoyed, after which the visitors were shown through the clubhouse, which occupies three floors of one of the largest buildings in Providence.

Shortly after noon the party started to Boston with the tourists, the trip between Providence and Boston being made in one hour and 45 minutes.

Upon arriving at the Hotel Lenox, where the Bay State Automobile association's headquarters are situated, the Lowell aggregation visited the Maxwell-Briscoe headquarters in Massachusetts avenue, which was recently damaged by fire.

The return trip was made to Lowell during the early part of the evening, all members of the party having had a most enjoyable time, thanks to Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Drake.

Among the entrants in the Munsey tour were Forest L. Peabody, formerly of this city, and Jack Coffey, who drove one of the racing cars in the races held over the Merrimack Valley course last fall.

The only thing to mar the pleasure of the Munsey tour from New London, Conn., to Boston yesterday was the fact that one of the entrants rode through an auto trap in Providence at a rate of 25 miles an hour, was arrested and fined $15 and costs. The promoters of the contest feel that the police officials of Providence should have shown some leniency to the tourists on the occasion.

The Munseyites left Boston this morning at 8 o'clock and will check in at Portland, Me., tonight, the noon stop being made at Portsmouth, N. H. From Portland the route leads to Bethlehem, N. H., Burlington, Vt., Saratoga, N. Y., Binghamton, N. Y., Wilkesbarre, Pa., Harrisburg, Pa., and Washington, where the run will come to an end on August 25.

RACE TROUBLES

Admiral Marshall Makes His Report

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 19.—Rear Admiral William A. Marshall, commanding the Norfolk Navy Yard, yesterday forwarded to the navy department a report on the race disturbance in this city on July 14, following the Jeffries-Johnson fight. The report gives the names of ten or twelve sailors who were arrested and punished in the city courts as the result of the rioting but shows that the one marine arrested that day had no connection with race troubles, in which only blue jackets were involved. It has been alleged that United States marines and sailors made unprovoked attacks upon negroes. Publication of this report brought forth a protest from W. H. Ellis, of New York, in communications to both the White House and navy department and the suggestion that marines who attacked negroes without provocation deserved punishment just as severe as that given to negro troops for assaults upon white citizens in the Brownsville, Texas, affair.

MGR O'CALLAGHAN

BOSTON RECTOR IS ILL IN HOSPITAL IN CORK

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—The Rt. Rev. Mgr. D. O'Callaghan, permanent rector of St. Augustine's church, South Boston, who sailed for Ireland three weeks ago, has been at a hospital in Cork, Ire., since Aug. 7, but late reports state that he is quite comfortable. Yesterday, Miss Annie O'Callaghan, a niece of the nonsignor, and his housekeeper at his residence on F street, South Boston, received a letter dated August 9, which stated that he had been taken ill with stomach trouble and was being cared for at the Cork hospital.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to all those who so kindly assisted us in our time of trouble and bereavement. Also for the sympathy and beautiful floral tributes.

Mrs. S. C. Trueman and family.

DAM COMPLETED

Big Structure is 6200 Feet Long

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The earthwork on the big Belle Fourche irrigation dam in South Dakota, which is one of the largest earth' embankments in the world, practically has been completed, according to advices received here by the reclamation service. The dam is 6200 feet long with a maximum height of 115 feet and contains 45,200 cubic feet of earth. When the distribution system is completed 600 miles of canals and laterals will carry the waters over 100,000 acres of land. About 3000 acres already are receiving water.

The Rest Cure

August has been given over to the rest cure by the great American people. A worthy practice and I'd like to see it become even more general and widespread. The rest cure was instituted for the individual, that he might forget his work and struggles for a couple of weeks in the quest of relaxation among the great natural and artificial playgrounds of the land.

But the rest cure was never intended for a business. Let a business take the rest cure for a month and it's good-bye business. The individual comes back from a vacation refreshed—a business never comes back at all. That's why we fight for business in the dull season. But we have conditions that amount to about the same thing. As a rule individuals won't buy merchandise in August; they won't buy anything but a good time. Business is virtually packed up in dress suit cases in August and shipped with the vacationist to mountain, lake or shore resort. In other words, business takes the rest cure in August with those of us who are away, and it takes it almost in spite of anything that can be done by those of us who happen to be home.

So it's a fight—a struggle; something must be done to rescue business this month. It's a case of rescuer vs. rest cure, with bargains as the ammunition.

I submit herewith the bargains. If anything on earth will make you order these goods, my prices will make you. If anything on earth could make you order Now the suit or overcoat that you will order next month anyway, these fabrics at my prices ought to.

NINTH REGIMENT

Will Leave Boston for Pine Camp, N. Y. Tomorrow

Tomorrow the 9th infantry, M. V. M., will leave Boston for Pine camp, N. Y., where it will participate with other regiments from New England and the regular army in maneuvers for the next eight days.

Co. M of this city will leave with the other companies of the regiment.

The regiment will be commanded by Col. John J. Sullivan and will go out with full ranks, but will be rather weak in officers, there being several vacancies in companies.

During the past week the east armory in Boston has been a veritable hive of industry, and Capt. William L. Conrad, regimental quartermaster, has been a busy man, but with the assistance of the three battalion quartermasters, Lieut. William L. Ford, Lieut. J. B. Connolly and Lieut. Richard H. Baker, he hopes to have all the 13 wagons loaded by noon tomorrow and on board the baggage train in the yards of the B. & A. railroad in rear of the Mechanics building, Huntington avenue.

The company wagons will each be drawn by two horses, and these with the mounts for the officers, will be boxed and sent along at 2 o'clock, the wagons being loaded on flat cars.

In the evening at 6:45 o'clock the regiment will assemble at the east armory, and headed by its band, march to the South station and board two special trains of standard tourist sleepers, the first section leaving at 8 o'clock and the second section 10 minutes later.

The regiment will leave in heavy marching order, and will carry two rations. Enroute each company will be supplied with coffee.

Capt. Daniel J. Murphy and his assistants will have their hands full on the arrival of the regiment, as each wagon will have to be unloaded, and afterwards will have to go to the division commissary for rations for the regiment, which will be quite an undertaking should the regiment be late on arrival at the rendezvous.

It is expected that the regiment will be brigaded with several other organizations from New England, as Maine, Rhode Island and Vermont will be represented. Many of the officers are looking forward with no little degree of pleasure to meeting the officers of the 10th U. S. cavalry, which is at the maneuvers, and whom they met at the New England maneuvers last year.

A LADY JOURNALIST'S ADVICE TO MOTHERS

A lady journalist writes: "Of all the troubles mother endures during the baby's helpless days, skin troubles are the most perplexing. There are so many of them and all are so obstinate and persistent so wearing to the little sufferer and an apt to become chronic. Often they become so virulent that life itself is threatened, and always they mar baby's beauty and cast an intolerable (though often undeserved) suspicion of neglect upon mother. I am constantly being asked for some safe and effective home remedy for rashes, pimples, blotches, eruptions, and similar blemishes on baby's skin, and especially for something really effective in cases of eczema, and I am quite delighted to hear from several of my regular correspondents that they have used Cadum, the new medical discovery, and have obtained results far in excess of their expectations. A trial box of this wonderful healing salve is sold by all druggists at 10c; large box 25c.

Get Rid of Itching Scalp, Falling Hair and Dandruff

As a rule, one application of Parisian Sage will stop the worst case of itching scalp and make the head feel cool and refreshed.

Used as directed, this wonderful hair tonic (which can now be obtained in every town and city in America) will stop falling hair and dandruff in two weeks, or money back. Ask Carter & Sherburne.

Careful people who desire an immediately clean scalp and luxuriant hair should not hesitate to try this wonderful invigorator and hair beautifier, for nothing ever compounded can compare with it.

Get rid of dandruff; stop your hair from falling out; start to grow an abundance of luxuriant hair; make your hair look lustrous, radiant and attractive.

Parisian Sage will do it, and do it for man or woman, in an astonishingly short time. It is not sticky or greasy; it is delicately perfumed, and in summer will immediately drive away that disagreeable odor arising from perspiration.

Large bottles only 50 cents at druggists and everywhere; and at Carter & Sherburne.

Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Look out for imitations. The genuine has the girl with the Auburn hair on every bottle and carton.

CANOE LAKE PARK

Another banner week of vaudeville is promised for the Canoe Lake theatre for the week commencing Aug. 22, and the bill includes many acts that are known favorites in the variety field. The original Frank J. McNish of "Silence and Fun" fame is coming with McNish and McNish in a real fantasia of singing, dancing and talking and their most grotesque comedy. Berry and Berry are expert exponents of comedy, and their act is interspersed with much delightful music. The novelty in the program will be perhaps furnished by Darnody, the master manipulator, who does most anything he wishes with firearms and other unworldly things.

A metropolitan act is to be found on the program in that of the favorites, Joe Hearn and Matt Rutter, who are novelty artists in wooden shoe dancing and in grotesque soft shoe dancing.

GREEN TIMBER

4,000,000 Feet Destroyed by Fires

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 19.—Only about 4,000,000 feet of first class green standing timber has been destroyed by forest fires in western Washington this season, according to compilations made yesterday by D. P. Simons, chief warden of the Washington Forest reservation. About 20,000 acres have been burned over this season west of the Cascade mountains, a large part of which, however, was logged off. In addition to this green timber Mr. Simons says that thousands of cords of firewood and shingle bolts and many fallen trees that might have been cut into logs, have been burned.

LIXEMAN INJURED
James E. Wheelock, aged 52 years, residing at the Washington Tavern, was injured yesterday while engaged in his work as a fireman on the N. B. Telephone company, by being hit upon the head by a heavy wrench. The wound required five stitches and was dressed at the Emergency hospital.

BAY STATE TROOPS MAN FOUND DYING

Will Receive Largest Sum From Believed to be Victim of a Murderous Assault

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The New England militia will be helped by the federal government this year by allotments aggregating nearly $350,000 from appropriations of $4,000,000 for the benefit of the militia authorized by the last session of congress.

There are two appropriations of $2,000,000 each, one to be distributed according to the representation of each state in congress and the other to be allotted upon the basis of the enlisted strength of the militia of each state.

The allotments under the first appropriation are divided into new funds, one available for arms, equipments and camp purposes $46,345.85, promoting of rifle practice $15,648.25, total $62,595.80.

Maine—Arms, equipment, etc. $17,605.07, rifle practice $5,808.25, total $23,413.32.

New Hampshire, Vermont and Rhode Island—Arms, equipment and camp purposes $11,736.71, promotion of rifle practice $3,312.24, total $15,648.95.

Connecticut—Arms, equipment, etc. $20,539.24, rifle practice $5,846.42, total $26,385.66.

In distributing the $2,000,000 among the states, according to the enlisted strength of their militia organizations, the war department reserved $400,000 for emergencies. If no emergencies arise during the year this amount will be distributed among the states according to the strength of their militia at the end of the fiscal year, June 30 next.

The $1,600,000 of the second appropriation was divided into two funds. The first is for ammunition, the allowance of which to the militia is limited to 50 per cent of the allowance made to the regular army. The second fund is available for the purchase of supplies.

The allotment to New England upon the basis of the enlisted strength of their militia organizations is as follows:

Massachusetts, with an enlisted strength of 5404, is allotted $25,304.50 for ammunition and $51,945.02 for supplies, a total of $77,249.52.

Maine, with an enlisted strength of 1253, is allotted $5,931.79 for ammunition and $13,111.65 for supplies, a total of $19,043.44.

New Hampshire, with 1154 men in her militia, received $5,347.71 for ammunition and $11,796.61 for supplies, a total of $17,144.32.

Vermont, with only 769 men in her militia, received the smallest allotment of any New England state, $3,846.69 for ammunition and $7,288.43 for supplies, a total of $11,135.12.

Rhode Island has an enlisted militia strength of 1027 and received $3,144.47 for ammunition and $11,726.49 for supplies, a total of $14,870.96.

Connecticut received the second largest allotment. With 2,398 militia she has received an allowance of $10,919.39 for ammunition and $23,804.65 for supplies a total of $34,724.04.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Down in the dark of the arched room of the Hotel Somerset, while the fashionable guests were dining all unmindful far above, a tragedy took place last evening and Night Watchman Joseph Levy of 96 Harvard street, Dorchester, was found dying in a pool of blood with a compound fracture of the skull.

Night Engineer William Lacey of 570 Columbus avenue, who had deserted his post and was nowhere to be found when the injured man was discovered, was afterward arrested, charged with assault with intent to kill.

No one saw the struggle, if struggle there was. No one heard the sounds of the two men battling in the gloom, if they really did battle, and the great hotel was for a time in danger of sudden darkness or any other mishap that might happen as a result of the engines being deserted.

Lacey, the arrested night engineer, denied striking the night watchman, and stated that he must have fallen; but further than that he would say nothing, preferring to wait until represented by counsel.

WOMAN DIED

AFTER HAVING A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Charles Mahagan of East 5th street, South Boston, who had a narrow escape from drowning while making a long-distance swim in Dorchester bay two days previous, died yesterday in the City hospital from internal hemorrhages.

Mrs. Mahagan was known as one of the cleverest woman swimmers at the headhouse beach at City Point. Shortly before noon Tuesday, when several bathers asked her if she was not going to take her usual long-distance swim, she struck out into the bay and met with a treacherous experience.

After being rescued by volunteers she was taken to the U. S. life saving station in Dorchester bay and later to her home. Her condition became more serious the following day and she was removed to the hospital.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was

16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

The more auto fire machines we add to our fire department the fewer fire stations and firemen we will need.

John Bull goes right ahead building Dreadnoughts without paying much attention to aeroplanes or dirigible balloons. Thus far he seems to have both the bulge and the laugh on the kaiser.

Some clergymen are never happy unless they get their congregation quarrelling with some other congregation over things which neither congregation knows anything about.

TEACH THEM A LESSON

If we are not mistaken there is a law which compels automobilists in passing a street car where passengers are alighting to go slowly and if necessary to come to a standstill. They certainly do not observe this law in Merrimack square. We have watched them frequently and not a single chauffeur seemed to have the slightest regard for the law or the least consideration for people getting on or off the street cars. We have wondered why some one hasn't been killed long ago in Merrimack square. It is not the fault of the drivers of automobiles that accidents haven't occurred in the square every day in the week.

PLAIN LOOT IN LAND DEALS

Here is what the Springfield Republican says about the Indian land scandals in which high government officials are involved:

"Not a day passes in the Indian lands investigation without justifying Senator Gore's action in dragging the scandal into the light of publicity. Each new witness seems to testify much as Congressman Carter did, when he mentioned varied personages who would 'get their share' or who were 'in on the deal.' No very high standard of morality, to be sure, was shown by the Indians who signed the names of their paposes to the McMurray contracts, but the fertile, finished rascality of the white man is manifest in all of the operations. Possibly nothing has yet developed that would send anyone to jail, although the lying here and there must be terrific. The real benefit will arise probably, from the fact that 'attorney's fees' in such cases will hereafter be known to the world as plain loot."

MAKE IT A SWIMMING POOL

There are many complaints about the condition of the pond on the South common, and many suggestions as to the possibilities of its development as a swimming pool for boys in the summer time. It is contended that the pond is hard to keep clean because it receives the drainage from the surrounding portions of the common. That could be easily overcome by running a pipe or drain around the outer side of the walk to catch the water that flows from the higher land adjoining. If the pond was thus protected, and had a concrete bottom, then there would be little difficulty in using it as a swimming pool for children in the summer season. We have nothing of this kind in Lowell, and it is about time to meet the public demand even in a moderate way.

Some method must be adopted to prevent the crank bent on homicide from purchasing a gun at the nearest hardware store or pawn shop. Otherwise every public official who does his duty fearlessly will require a body guard.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES

Fraternal societies are very good in their way. They have many fine features, and they certainly accomplish a great deal of good. But there is one feature that should be very carefully supervised in the formation and conducting of fraternal organizations, and that is the insurance feature.

Any plan of insurance that is not founded upon sound principles will sooner or later prove burdensome to the members and work irreparable injury to otherwise worthy organizations. Never fool with an insurance plan that is based on chance. Life insurance is entirely different from fire insurance. One is positive, the other is not. A fire insurance company may carry policies on a hundred buildings, and none of them may ever burn down. Barring a big conflagration only a small percentage of the buildings are likely to be destroyed by fire. But when a life insurance company takes a risk upon the lives of a hundred men, it must set down as a positive fact that the hundred men will surely die, and one hundred insurance policies must be paid within a limited time. There is no chance to this obligation. It is a positive obligation from the moment the policy is written, and the time of death, according to age, is fixed so accurately by the American mortality tables that the average expectation of life in every group of one thousand policy holders has not varied for two hundred years, including years of wars and pestilence.

Any insurance system that does not provide for the payment of every policy at the time of the expectation of death or sooner is unsound. To levy assessments only when a death occurs is a chance or gambling system of insurance that is bound to fail. Any system imposing a total loss on the insurer who fails to keep up his payments is unjust, because a partly paid policy should have a cancellation value at all times. To take a man's money for years and then give him or his beneficiaries nothing because he was unable to pay in his last days is an unjust transaction even though it be agreed to by the policy holder.

Fraternal societies should, therefore, see to it that if they introduce an insurance feature into their organizations it should be based on the simple and sound plan that a sum of money be paid in annually by each policy holder sufficient to meet the amount of his policy at the expectation of death according to the American mortality tables, and to this sum should be added a reasonable amount to pay the expenses of conducting the insurance department.

Insurance based on such a plan as this may not be as cheap as the lottery form of insurance, but it will be sound and free from every possible taint of insurance gambling.

SEEN AND HEARD

Paying the bills is the divine right of man.

To owe no man is almost like being a capitalist.

Some folks' idea of satire is just disagreeableness.

The man who means well too often loses his meaning.

The bald man never thinks that baldness is noticeable, much.

The uncommon thing in the world is to follow advice, something that's most commonly asked.

When a woman would discuss her friends' troubles, a man generally switches the conversation to the weather.

"I want some talcum powder," said a Hebrew gentleman to a drug clerk the other day.

"Yes, sir! Some talcum powder—Mennen's, I suppose?"

"No, no! Vimmens!" replied the Hebrew.

"Do you want it scented?" asked the clerk, further.

"No, I'll take it vld me!"

And even with all that fun the Hebrew thought he wasn't getting his money's worth.

A well known shoe man says that he fell asleep one evening and dreamed he had died and gone to heaven. St. Peter showed him around and everything seemed to be perfect with one exception. The newcomer was surprised at the makeshifts used for footwear. St. Peter questioned him:

"How do you like things in general?"

"Oh, first class in most every way," the stranger replied.

"Most every way?" exclaimed St. Peter, in a surprised tone of voice.

"Well," said the recent arrival, "just look at the shoes you're wearing here—they're the limit!"

St. Peter shook his head in a melancholy manner.

"Ah, well," he sighed, "you see we never get any good shoemakers up here."

"But you said you had done the cooking for a whole family," exclaimed

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mrs. Perry Starkweather has four women assistants in her work as assistant labor commissioner of Minnesota. Mrs. Starkweather is the only woman in the country holding such an office, and Minnesota is the only state in the Union that has a department for women and children in its bureau of labor. This department is a sort of clearing house for all matters pertaining to women and children in industry and school. At present special attention is being given to the home conditions.

The filing of plans with the building department of the borough of Queens, New York, discloses another of the plans of the Sage foundation, in which Mrs. Russell Sage is interested, which is developing at Forest Hills a community for working men and women. There is to be built there a fine modern hotel for the accommodation of those who will not care to own their own homes, but who may desire to avail themselves of the privileges afforded by the community.

The plans show that the hotel will be one of the largest on Long Island. There will be three wings, the dimensions being 245 by 218 by 35 by 51. The main wing will be eight stories in height, another will be five stories, and third will be three stories. There will be several hundred guest rooms and suites.

The construction will be entirely reinforced-steel skeleton filled with fireproof concrete, brick and terra cotta. There will be all modern improvements, and on one of the wings there will be a roof garden. The hotel will cost several hundred thousand dollars, and it will be located on the west side of Station square, near Continental avenue, facing the splendid station which is now being erected jointly by the Long Island railroad, the Sage Foundation company, and the Cord Meyer company.

"Jere McCauley," a reformed drunkard, made, nearly forty years ago, a strong impression on the slum activities of New York in his Water street mission, which attained national fame. "Jadley," his successor, built well on the foundation, and his last words were reported as being: "What will the 'bums' now do?" But the present manager seems to have been in no wise behind his predecessors, until now it is announced that a new five-story building on the site, to which has been added an adjoining lot, is to be erected, the estimated cost of which will be about $100,000.

Edmond Rostand, author of "Chantecler," recently won the grand prize offered by the French Society for the Protection of Animals. The award was really made not because of any active friendship shown by the poet for dumb creatures but because of the genuine sympathy and tenderness for them which is supposed to have animated to a very great degree his composition of "Chantecler."

There are no end of caustic critics who laugh at this idea. More serious, however, than this is the fact that the real friends of animals declare that M. Rostand and his family display quite a cruel spirit in regard to them, says a Paris despatch to the New York Times.

In the first place, the proper staging of "Chantecler" meant the spoils of thousands of harmless birds—both those of the barnyard and those which inhabit the wilds had to be employed. In the making of costumes there was a wonderfully lavish use of feathers. The excuse that the sacrifice was made to art might be accepted in that instance, but not when not long afterward Mme. Rostand paid $400 for feathers from birds of paradise with which to ornament her hat.

It is even said that the feathers for the "Chantecler" costumes were mostly plucked from living birds. Furthermore, the play revived the feminine fashion of wearing stuffed birds or their plumage as hat trimmings.

HOLYOKE YOUTH

Tripped and Fell to His Death

HOLYOKE, Aug. 18.—Michael Connolly, a youth of 18, tripped while at work on the roof of the new mill of the Farr Alpaca company yesterday morning and fell through a skylight down an elevator shaft eight stories to the basement.

Death was instantaneous, as his skull was badly fractured, shoulder blade broken and several ribs crushed in.

Workmen in the building rushed to him, but nothing could be done. Asst. Medical Examiner Frank A. Woods viewed the body, which was taken to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Maurice Hogan of 326 Main street. He also leaves two sisters, Josephine and Mary, both of Holyoke.

112,985 DEATHS

Caused by the Cholera in Russia So Far This Year

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 19.—One week's cholera record shows 23,044 new cases of cholera and 10,723 deaths, bringing the total number of cases in Russia this year to 112,985. Of these 50,287 or nearly half, have died, the exact percentage of mortality being 44.5.

The figures are those furnished by the sanitary bureau covering the week from August 7 to August 13 inclusive and are therefore official. Reports from Red Cross sources indicate that the actual figures are somewhat greater as it is a practical impossibility to register every case in an epidemic of such proportions.

Of the deaths last week 1678 were reported from the district of the Don Cossacks, 1057 from the district of Kuban Cossacks, 1013 in Yekaterinoslav province, 769 in Samara province, 416 in Voronezh, 411 in the Terek Cossack district, 623 in Kherson province, 334 in the Crimea, where Russians resort for the summer months, 333 in Tambov province, and 325 in Stavropol province.

The epidemic in St. Petersburg shows a decrease, only 18 deaths having been reported for the six days ending at noon yesterday in comparison to the 235 deaths reported the previous week. The sanitary authorities of the city believe that from now on the epidemic will continue its natural decrease. The total figures for St. Petersburg since the first cases reported June 26 show 2,079 cases and 780 deaths. The mortality here in the capital is 35 per cent. less than in the southern province owing to better hospital facilities and the experience gained in handling the first big outbreak two years ago.

JAMES P. RAMSAY

Will Have Full Charge of Middlesex County Work

Probation Officer James P. Ramsay of this city has been given full charge of the probationary work of Middlesex county by the judges of the superior court.

The resignation of Rev. Robert Walker, chaplain for the past 14 years or so of the house of correction at Cambridge, from the probation work which he has taken care of for some time at that end of the county, left a vacancy which it required a man of ability and training in the work to fill. Rev. Mr. Walker has resigned to become chaplain of the Massachusetts reformatory, a place to which he has just been appointed.

The superior court judges immediately appointed Mr. Ramsay as chief of all the work in the county, to have charge not only of the work which he has cared for in the past, but also of that formerly conducted by Rev. Mr. Walker.

Mr. Ramsay has been given an assistant, Miss Louisa Higginbotham of Waltham. Miss Higginbotham has had considerable experience in probation work gained through voluntary service along those lines. She will therefore be of great assistance in carrying for the multitudinous minor duties of the probation officer. It was in response to the expressed wish of Mr. Ramsay that a woman was appointed as an assistant.

During the year Mr. Ramsay collected some $2000 in small sums in non-support cases in addition to his other work in connection with the office. This work and similar duties will be turned

BOGUS BILLS

SOME COUNTERFEIT TWO DOLLARS IN CIRCULATION

Lowell merchants and the public generally are warned to be on the look out for spurious $2 bills which may find their way into this city almost any day now. The bill is a good imitation of the legal tender and they have been worked in a number of New Hampshire cities, especially in Manchester. The police of the Queen City are on the lookout for the passers of these counterfeit bills and undoubtedly the "shovers of the queen" will make their way into Massachusetts.

All of the bills are of $2 denomination of good imitation on the green side but pale on the portrait side. They are printed on flimsy material.

MADE FAST TIME

Gamar Went a Mile in 2.08 1-2

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 19.—A record crowd attended the races here yesterday and besides some excellent contests for the purse events they saw one of the greatest miles ever trotted by a stallion over a half mile track.

Gamar, 2:07 1-4, that has been racing over the grand circuit tracks, stopped off here on his way to the Empire track meeting to try for the $250 trophy offered by B. A. Buikley of Bridgeport, Conn., for a trotter that should beat 2:05 1-2, the time made by his mare Nahma, 2:07 1-4, over this track last season.

Starting without a pacemaker, Gamar trotted twice around the track in 2:08 1-2, which is only a half second slower than the world's stallion record over a half mile track, held by Cresceus, 2:02 3-4. The first half was in 1:04 3-4 and the last quarter in 31 3-4 seconds.

Roy Miller, whose birthplace is at Chester, a few miles from here in Orange county, won the 2 year old sweepstakes with the Dromore farms well-mannered colt Judge Brooks, by Baron More, 2:14 1-4 out of Expectation, dam of Major Delmar, 1:50 3-4.

George G. Moore, the colt's owner, occupied a box in the grandstand and not only saw Judge Brooks win but also saw Miller drive Belle Bunker, his chestnut daughter of Axworthy, a winner of second money in the 3 year old trot. Chatty Direct, bred in Kentucky but owned in Massachusetts, won the event very handsly and acted like she could have gone several seconds faster than her best heat, which was in 3:16 1-2.

The 2:25 trot proved the most hotly contested race of the day, it took five heats for Baron Aberdeen, the Boston entry, to win. Madge Worthy trotted a grand race and when she did not win heats were only beaten a few inches. The summary:

THE DIVING HORSES

Probably the most interesting feature that was seen at Lakeview park last season was that provided by the original Prof. Holloway's diving horses. At that time they made such a pronounced hit and there were so many requests for a return engagement that their manager has been induced to cancel western engagements to appear again at the Boston & Northern street railway's circuit of parks. They will give absolutely free exhibitions at Lakeview park every afternoon and evening during next week.

As people who saw the horses last year well know, they are very beautiful specimens of the equine family. They are pure snow white. Since they were very small colts, when they first evidenced a desire to dive, they have been trained particularly for this purpose. They have had the most careful attention; in fact they have been given fully as much care as the average child. These horses have never been ridden and have never worn a shoe. They are sleek and beautiful.

It is necessary wherever they appear to build for them special stables which must be fitted with electric lights. Two men are in constant attendance upon them and sleep by their side each night. These horses really and genuinely delight in their work. They do not have to be whipped off the high platform from which they dive, nor do they have to be coaxed. It is no exaggeration at all to say that they would a great deal rather do their dive and have the pleasure of a plunge in the cooling waters of the tank than to remain inactive in their stalls. Their dive is especially graceful, and one which appeals to the natural love which every one has for the sight of a beautiful horse in action.

PLEASANT OUTING

At the Home of Albert O'Heir, Clark Road

Mr. Albert E. O'Heir, the well known furniture dealer, gave a large number of his friends a most delightful evening's entertainment at his beautiful suburban home on Clark road last evening.

Mr. O'Heir has certainly become somewhat of a farmer in that district. He promised his friends when he became properly situated on his farm he would give them an outing, and that time arrived last evening when his spacious lawn never looked more beautiful. There were hundreds of Japanese lanterns illuminated and strung all about the trees and the house, and with the darkness of the night they showed to great advantage, and looked pretty from a distance.

Mr. O'Heir has a very pretty home, and it was agreed by all present to the number of fifty, that no better time nor place for an outing could be chosen than at the O'Heir farm.

One of the most interesting features of the event was a "Corn Roast," which is certainly a novelty, and considerably out of the usual, but none the less pleasant. The idea of this feature arose from Mr. O'Heir's talk about the superior quality of his farm products, particularly his sweet corn, which he claimed to be superior to any found elsewhere in Middlesex county. His friend, Joe Duffy, selectman from Tewksbury, disputed the statement.

Well, Joe is considered by everybody an authority on agriculture, so it was decided that Albert would produce the sample of the products on his farm in the form of sweet corn. Joe was to have a committee with him to test the quality of the corn. By a unanimous vote it was considered the best corn ever seen. The corn roast on the lawn was a novelty to most of those present.

Another feature of the occasion was the dedication of Mr. O'Heir's new home. An impromptu program was rendered, which consisted of about every stunt that might be thought up to go with a husking bee.

Mr. O'Heir was acknowledged the king farmer of Clark road, while Mrs. O'Heir proved her ability in the domestic line by the bountiful supply of refreshments she had prepared and the ingenious way she had of serving them.

After the pleasures enjoyed on the spacious lawn the party repaired to the house, where both vocal and instrumental music, readings and other pleasurable pastimes were indulged in. The entire party before leaving became patriotic and the whole assembly joined in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

JOHN GOLDEN

TRIES TO AROUSE LABOR UNIONS OF LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, Aug. 19.—Following in the wake of the suffragette campaign of last week John Golden, former president of the National Mule Spinners' association and now general president of the United States Textile Workers, assisted by several prominent women, representatives of the Woman's Trade Union league of Boston, are in Lawrence this week conducting a series of meetings in behalf of the cause of organized labor.

The movement is not to stir up a strike but to organize the women textile workers as well as the men. President Golden will stop at the Hotel Needham through the week and has already opened headquarters at the Central Labor Union headquarters, 184 Broadway.

Mill gate and street corner campaigns similar to those conducted last week by the "Votes for Women" workers, will be held each day. The women who are here assisting President Golden are Mrs. Glendower Evans, who was here last week in the interest of the "votes for women," Mrs. Sarah Conroy, Miss Gillespie and Mrs. Mary K. O'Sullivan. The first three named were prominently identified as leaders during the Roxbury carpet factory strike through which they gained a great deal of newspaper notoriety.

Meetings will be held at the junction of Lawrence and Essex streets and Essex street and Broadway every evening and at the various mill gates during the noon hour. The speakers are able and forceful and are listened to with intense interest by large crowds every day.

Mrs. Conroy and President Golden spoke at the corner of Essex and Lawrence streets last night. Organization was the theme.

TWO MEN ARRESTED

Larceny of Silk Valued at $50,000 is Alleged

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—A scheme to rob the Boston & Maine railroad and a leading woolen merchant of thousands of dollars was unearthed last night by Inspectors Gleave, Pelton, Linton and Laughlin, and two arrests followed, though more are expected.

At present about $2500 is involved, but the arresting officers say that the accused had planned to divert $50,000 worth of silk, which was soon to be put into transit over the Boston & Maine lines, with Boston as its objective point.

Those arrested last night gave their names as William Potter, 33, claiming to live at 88 Brooks street, East Boston, and John H. O'Neil, 32, who says he lives at 6 Harmony place, South Boston. Both are teamsters.

Last night 14 rolls of woolen containing 700 yards were recovered in a tailoring shop in Meridian street, East Boston, by the arresting inspectors. This was brought to police headquarters in a team with Inspector Linton as guard.

An employee in the mills where the alleged stolen goods were sent from is under surveillance, the police having evidence to show, they claim, that he was a party to the fraud. This mill is to take stock on Sept. 1, and it is said wool thefts will aggregate $50,000.

MORE ARRESTS

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Two more arrests were made today in connection with the wholesale stealings of wool from the Boston & Maine and various Massachusetts woolen mills. The men arrested today, Edward Perkins and John Rose, are teamsters. Perkins was on the team last night when the first two defendants, John O'Neil and William Potter were arrested, but managed to make his escape. The officers waited for him this morning and took him into custody as he appeared at his place of work. It is alleged that the wool thefts will aggregate $50,000.

COTTON INDUSTRY IS WORTH $4,000,000

Steady Growth in New Eng-land States Arkansas Negro Offers Free Farms to Colored Men

While the growth of the south in the cotton manufacturing industry has been rapid during the past few years, its progress has been but slight in comparison with the energy displayed during the same period in Massachusetts, writes a correspondent in the current issue of the "Manufacturers' Record." His article follows:

"Massachusetts has a 3,000,000 population," he says, "but it has $728,000,000 in its savings banks, or an average of nearly $250 represented in this form of savings for every man, woman and child in the state. In this state there are over 2,000,000 savings bank deposits."

"The south, with 28,000,000 population, has only $166,000,000 in its savings banks, and of that amount $81,

000,000 is in Baltimore. Even including Baltimore, the south has less than $6 per capita in its savings banks, against nearly $250 per capita in Massachusetts. Omitting the state of Maryland, the south has only about $3 per capita in savings banks.

"Massachusetts has 80 times as much per capita, or, in other words, for every dollar per capita the south outside of Maryland has in savings banks, Massachusetts has about $80."

"This disproportion in the tangible wealth represented by savings banks deposits is only indicative of the vast difference in the industrial progress and the general wealth of Massachusetts, and, for that matter, of New England, as compared with the south. A study of these facts is of profound interest."

"Turning from savings banks to manufacturing interests, it is found that at the end of 1904, the latest date of government figures giving the manufacturing statistics of New England, Massachusetts had invested in manufacturing enterprises $965,948,557. The south, with more than eight times as many people, with 100 times as much land area, with 1000 times more natural resources, had only $1,597,638,872 capital invested in manufacturing."

"New England as a whole had $1,870,395,405 manufacturing capital, or nearly $200,000,000 more than the south, Maryland to Texas included, though the south has 13 times the area of New England and more than four times its population. The value of the manufacturing products of New England in 1904 was $2,025,998,433, while that of the south was $1,787,926,325."

"But some may say that these figures are five and six years old, and that during that time the south has made very great material development. That is true. The capital invested in manufacturing in the south has grown from $1,500,000,000 in 1904 to over $2,200,000,000 at present, and the value of manufacturing products from $1,787,000,000 to over $2,700,000,000. This is a marvelous increase, worthy to be commended. But what has Massachusetts been doing in the meantime?"

"New England was putting $75,000,000 of new money into the building of textile industries, while the south felt, and justly so, that it was doing great things because it was spending $25,000,000 in building new cotton mills. Wherever one turns from the moment he enters New England he sees on every hand the evidence of increasing wealth. He sees the power of energy combined with almost limitless wealth made by the same energy."

"It is the human agency without raw materials, but the human agency developed to the highest type, determined to win material success regardless of a

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—An old-fashioned Arkansas dandy, one of those proud to call himself "nigger," and equally free-spoken with all his countrymen, stood up in the second day's session of the negro business men's league yesterday and vowed that he "wouldn't change places with Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, big American as he is."

"Come out with us, you niggers," he told the New York negroes, "where the air is free and God is good, and where if there is any gumption in you, you can have more in a year than you've earned in all your life before. If you haven't a dollar I'll give you a farm and a chance. Come out to Arkansas."

"When I get up in the morning and see my cows going to pasture, my calves in the lot, my sheep grazing in the meadow, and my eleven boys going about to the country and try to be like white women, we'd have more and healthier children."

Other speakers at the afternoon session were Booker T. Washington, Mrs. Henry Villard, the daughter of William Lloyd Garrison, and Garrison's grandson, Oswald Garrison Villard, a New York editor. Solidarity, Mr. Villard thought, was what the negro most needed.

lack of advantages. It has, indeed, gathered its raw materials of manufacture from the four quarters of the globe and touched them with the magic wand of energy of trained brain and brawn, and from this touch there is pouring out a stream of wealth so vast its proportions as to justify the boast of the delegate from Massachusetts."

Two hundred and thirteen new textile mills have been built or planned in the United States during the first six months of the present year. This, the wool and cotton men say, is absolute evidence of the return of prosperity.

Massachusetts leads in 1910 construction with 52 new mills, of which 25 are cotton and 11 wool. North Carolina comes next with 25 new mills, of which 16 are cotton, seven knit, and one wool. New York state is third with 20 new mills, of which 10 are knit, six wool and three cotton. Then comes Rhode Island with 17 new mills, of which eight are wool; South Carolina with 16 new mills, all of which are cotton, and Pennsylvania with 13 new mills, of which seven are knit and six miscellaneous.

Of the 215 new mills, 137 are in the north and 78 in the south. Thirty-one Union states are in this revival of textile industry: Alabama, 2; Arkansas, 2; Calif., 1; Colorado, 1; Connecticut, 6; Delaware, 1; Georgia, 9; Idaho, 1; Illinois, 3; Indiana, 1; Iowa, 1; Kentucky, 1; Maine, 4; Michigan, 1; Minnesota, 2; Ohio, 5; Oklahoma, 4; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 5; Utah, 2; Virginia, 4; Washington, 1; and Wisconsin, 1.

John Bearup, a woolen manufacturer of Albuquerque, N. M., heads a syndicate which plans a $16,000,000 string of mills in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, California and other ranch states. M. C. D. Borden is putting up a 108,000 spindle mill in Fall River. Lawrence and Pacific mill company is erecting a worsted mill to cover eleven city blocks. A 60,000 spindle mill is under way in New Bedford. A cotton storehouse to handle 15,000 bales of cotton a year is being put up by the Nashua Manufacturing company in Nashua.

Flouring the 213 new mills at $50,000 each, and the 200 and more mill additions at $35,000 each, a low estimate, more than $13,000,000 has gone into textile construction in six months.

The Committee Makes Recommendation

The members of the fire department committee went on a tour of inspection yesterday afternoon and later held a meeting at city hall. The committee visited the central fire station, the Highland, Pawtucketville and Oakland districts. The boiler inspectors have recommended that a new boiler be installed at the central fire station and the committee's visit to the Highland and Pawtucketville districts was to look over proposed sites for fire alarm boxes. The committee visited the Oakland lands as the result of a request by the residents of that section for better fire protection. Chief Hosmer accompanied the committee.

At the meeting, and on motion of Councilman Achin, the committee voted to recommend to the lands and buildings committee that better heating apparatus be installed in the central fire station. Mr. Achin explained that the main fire alarm system is located on the top floor of the building and that an even temperature must be maintained. He said that if the present boiler should go wrong during the coming winter the system would be put out of commission.

In regard to better fire protection in the Oakland district, Councilman Tracer expressed the belief that the proper thing to do would be to place

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA, PIMPLES, AND DANDRUFF.

We desire to say that when we took the agency for ZEMO, we were convinced that it was a valuable remedy for Eczema, pimples, and dandruff. Yet, we must frankly admit that Zemo has far exceeded our expectations as a treatment for skin diseases. We are pleased to state that we shall continue the agency as ZEMO has given splendid results wherever recommended. Our customers like ZEMO too, because it is a clean vegetable liquid for external use.

ZEMO effects its cures by drawing to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the disease, leaving the skin clear and healthy. It does not soil the clothing or linen and can be used freely on infants.

With every purchase we give a booklet on skin diseases explaining in simple words how any person can be cured at home of any form of skin or scalp diseases by this clean, scientific remedy. A. W. Dows & Co., druggists.

Chief Marshal O'Sullivan Announces That Nothing But Bad Weather Will Interfere With Parade—Central Council, A. O. H., Perfects Plans—Other Notes of the Coming Celebration

As the week in which the great A. O. H. celebration is to be held in this city draws near, the completion of preliminary plans emphasizes the fact that the week is to be one of the biggest of its kind in the history of the city. Thousands of strangers will make temporary residence in Lowell and as they are all to be here for a gala occasion their presence means thousands of dollars for the merchants of Lowell. The fact that Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan is the promoter of the big parade on Wednesday is the biggest "ad" for the week, for all the Irish societies of this vicinity still recall the big St. Patrick's day celebration which he promoted a few years ago while every veteran fireman in Massachusetts, be he Irish or

Bingham Says He Will Appeal to Taft

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Asserting that he had been thwarted in every possible way in his efforts to uphold the laws of his state against the sale of food containing benzate and announcing that he would appeal to President Taft, a scathing denunciation of department of agricultural officials was given today by Attorney-General Bingham of Indiana. The scolding occurred in the hearing today of the case of Williams Bros. and others against the board of health of Indiana, Dr. Harvey Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry being under cross-examination at the time.

"The department said if I wanted the testimony of Wiley and his assistant I would have to come here and get it," said Attorney-General Bingham. "When one came here this week for that purpose the department, with Acting Secretary Hayes at its head, informed us that we would have to get a court order to compel the experts to testify. We appeared in court and the department was then doing everything possible in preventing our getting this testimony."

Mayor Meehan Has Signed the Pump Resolution

New York Concern Asks For Permit to Exhibit the Jeffries-Johnson Fight Pictures — A Special Meeting of Aldermen Tomorrow Afternoon — Many Autos Line Up at City Hall — Police Officer vs. Small Boys

Mayor Meehan has signed the resolution of the board of aldermen requesting the water board to ask for competitive bids for a new pump prior to the making of an appropriation for same.

The same request was made by the committee on appropriations and the water board, replying to the committee, said the board deemed it inexpedient to call for bids before an appropriation had been made.

Following is a copy of the resolution to which the mayor affixed his signature today:

Resolved by the board of aldermen of the city of Lowell, assembled, as follows:

"That the water board be and it is hereby requested to procure competitive bids for a new pump for Centralville pumping station, so that an accurate estimate of its cost may be obtained.

Relative to the signing of the resolution, Mayor Meehan said: "I have given the matter a great deal of thought and I decided that to ask for competitive bids before an appropriation had been made was a sound business proposition. What I signed is nothing more or less than a request. I do not look upon it as being mandatory in the least. I am not fully acquainted with the pump question. I have heard the arguments, pro and con, but my knowledge of the affair that I have at the present time is in the abstract. I take it that the aldermen are as much in the dark as the mayor and the best thing to do is to ask for bids, as the aldermen request, in order that we may get an accurate estimate of the cost. I do not see why any reliable pump company should hesitate to put in a bid even though the money was not appropriated in advance."

These Fight Pictures
Mayor Meehan is in receipt of a letter from the New York Herald Co. of Newark, Louis J. Berger secretary, asking permission to exhibit the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures in this city. It is very evident that New Yorkers do not keep posted on affairs in Lowell, but that doesn't detract in the least from Lowell's greatness.

It was generally understood that the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures were a dead issue in Lowell. The agitation of the question was quite lively here for a time. Mayor Meehan was opposed to any exhibition of the pictures in this city, but an opinion handed down by the city solicitor took the matter out of the mayor's hands and transferred it to the board of police.

No sooner did the police board members discover that authority in the matter rested with them than they came out with a statement in which they said that they would not stand for the pictures being exhibited here. That settled it in Lowell, but it would appear that the news didn't reach New York.

The letter received by Mayor Meehan today reads as follows:
New York City, Aug. 18, 1910.
Hon. John F. Meehan, Mayor City of Lowell, Lowell, Mass.
My Dear Sir:

Will you please be kind enough to inform me by return mail to room 321 Knickerbocker theatre building, New York City, whether or not I can exhibit the above fight pictures in your city for some night in the near future.

Thanking you in advance for the favor, I beg to remain
Yours very truly,
L. J. Berger.

Mayor Meehan will turn the letter over to the police board and he knows the answer to an answer that the board will send the New York concern. The pictures will not be exhibited in Lowell. That's the day's best bet.

Special Meeting Called
A special meeting of the board of aldermen has been called for tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to draw jurors and hear the report of the committee on polling places. The committee on polling places will meet this afternoon and prepare its report for the aldermen.

Automobile Day
Friday is automobile day at city hall and a good number of machines were lined up about the municipal palace this forenoon. Chief Examiner F. L. Austin was on hand bright and early and a dozen or more would-be chauffeurs took the examination. Some of them were first offenders while it was the second offence with others. There is the written examination and the practical examination. It often happens that a fellow who shows up well in a written examination is not the real cheese when it comes to a practical demonstration. The ones who take the examination for a second time, however, do not have to demonstrate on their second time up. Included in the machines that lined up at the city hall today was a large truck, the property of the Andover Laundry Co., Andover, and a machine from Bradford.

Police Officer vs. Small Boys
Police Officer Paige, the veteran member of Lowell's constabulary, played tag with some small boys at city hall this forenoon. Mr. Paige's duties are confined to the city hall and the premises thereabout. The "kids" love to gather about the hall because there is lots of room there. Of course they play in and on places that were not intended for playgrounds and then, of course, the officer has to get busy. Today the boys were having a high old time, running and scurrying back and forth on the A. O. H. reviewing stand in Worthen street between the city hall and the soldiers' monument. The officer attempted to chase them away but they were as lightfooted as a prairie chicken he would not have been equal to the task. Driven from one end of the structure, they would go to the other and say what you will it's a pretty hard proposition for one police officer to surround twenty or more small boys.

IN POLICE COURT

Dentist's Bill Sets Two Women Fighting

A dentist bill which caused considerable trouble between two women, figured as the most important piece of evidence produced in the case of Maria Lundstrom charged with assault and battery on Freda Johnson, which was heard before Judge Hadley in the police court this morning. Both the complainant and defendant disclaimed the ownership of the bill, but in regard to the assault the court found Mrs. Lundstrom guilty and ordered her to pay a fine of $5.

According to the testimony offered in the case, Mrs. Johnson resides at 103 South Whipple street and recently received a letter addressed to "Mrs. Lundstrom, 103 South Whipple street." Inasmuch as Mrs. Lundstrom had lived in the house now occupied by Mrs. Johnson, the latter turned the letter over to the letter carrier and told him that it belonged to Mrs. Lundstrom and gave the carrier the address where the woman is now living.

When Mrs. Lundstrom opened the letter she found that it contained a bill for dental work. She also learned that the letter had been delivered at Mrs. Johnson's house and the latter had refused to accept it. Mrs. Lundstrom then called upon Mrs. Johnson and asked her what she meant by sending bills to her house. Mrs. Johnson said that she thought the bill belonged to Mrs. Lundstrom. Then followed the colloquy:

Mrs. Johnson claimed that Mrs. Lundstrom struck her on the chin, while on the other hand Mrs. Lundstrom said that she tapped Mrs. Johnson on an open hander on the chin in self-defense.

Mrs. Lundstrom said that she never had any dental work done in this city and that when she received the bill she thought Mrs. Johnson in giving her name to the dentist became excited and gave her maiden name which was Lundstrom. She testified that when she went to Mrs. Johnson's house that she felt that the bill belonged to her.

Mrs. Lundstrom was cautioned by the court not to enter people's houses and assault them. He then imposed a fine of $5.

Arrested in Middlesex Street
Joseph Poulin and Eva Trotter were taken from 1653 Middlesex street last night about 12 o'clock by Patrolman Bagley. This morning they were charged with fornication. Both entered pleas of not guilty but after the testimony had been submitted they were found guilty and each ordered to pay a fine of $15.

Daniel He Was Drunk
Daniel J. Regan denied that he was drunk last night, but Special Officer Briggs said that he found Regan staggering drunk in Webster street about 11:30 o'clock last night. He was fined $5.

Cornelius Sullivan is on parole from the state farm and he will be returned to that institution. Samuel Sharrow received a direct sentence to the state farm.

James McGrath, Patrick Higgins and John H. Moriarty were fined $5 each. Six first offenders were fined $2 each.

TO RESUME WORK

"MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 19.—The management of the Stark Cotton Duck mill announces that the plant will be reopened on full time next Monday. The mills have been shut down since Aug. 6 and previously had been running on short time. The mills employ 1500 persons when operating in full time.

TWO WERE DROWNED THEY BROKE CAMP

Victims Were Tired After a Strenuous Game of "Toss"

LYNN, Aug. 19.—A game of "toss" ended fatally for two Lynn men yesterday when they entered the surf near the Nahant bath house just after the exorcise, which had been a violent storm. Both were drowned in a spot a little over 10 feet in depth, though they were nearly 200 yards from shore. The victims of the double drowning are Alonzo Leundrin, 19, a mechanic, of 11 Cheever place, and Alfred LaBlanc, 25, a shoe cutter of Littlefield block. Both were unmarried.

John H. Clinton, a police officer of Andover, who is taking his vacation at Nahant, as far as can be learned, was the only witness of the drowning, and it was he who gave the alarm to Supt. William A. Anderson and the life guards, who recovered the bodies later about 40 feet from shore.

According to both Clinton and Anderson, the men have been repeatedly cautioned about going into the water in an overheated condition. The two men, according to Clinton, arrived on the beach about 10 o'clock and started a game of "toss," each playing as fast and hard as he could. At the end of the game they took a fast run up the work on the occasion of the state parade of the convention which will be held in Lowell August 24. The desire is to secure your permission for these employees so that their absence from work on this day will not in any way jeopardize their position.

THE ARCHBISHOP

Trusting to receive an early reply, I beg to remain
Respectfully yours,
John H. Murphy, Secretary.

He has received favorable answers from the Massachusetts—which was to be closed regardless of the celebration—the Boot, Lowell Machine Shop, Middlesex and Merrimack. All agree that their help may get off to see the parade without losing their employment, while some of his correspondents wished him luck, a fine day and a great time.

Archbishop Will Speak

It is now expected that Archbishop O'Connell will not only be present at the service prior to the opening of the convention on Tuesday morning, but that his speech will also make an address to the pilgrims at the close of mass. The speakers appointed for the church service are as follows: Chief, Thomas J. Fitzgerald; John J. Hanlon, Warren P. Riddard, private secretary to Mayor Meehan; Edward P. Murphy, Dr. P. J. Meehan, Dr. John Donovan and James P. Sheehan.

The Local Delegates

The local delegates to the convention are as follows:
Division 1—Michael McMullen and Daniel E. Hogan. The latter is the hustling secretary of the general committee.

Division 3—Daniel P. Riley and Thomas Dawson.

Division 11—Patrick Connolly and Joseph Molloy.

Division 28—Hugh P. McQuade and James O'Sullivan, the latter one of the oldest and most prominentibernians.

Merrimack Information Bureau

Manager P. Mahoney of the Merrimack Clothing company, waxing enthusiastic over the coming event, has prepared a commodious and well appointed bureau of information at the Merrimack Clothing company for the visiting delegates of both sexes. A more convenient place for such a bureau could not be located, for it is directly under Associate hall and only a few steps from Matthews hall. Manager Mahoney states that he will provide necessary stationery, telephones and chairs and desks, so that the visitors using the place will find every convenience and comfort.

Band Concert Wednesday

Mayor Meehan has made a popular move by shifting the municipal band concert from Thursday to Wednesday, the big day. The Lowell Military band will give the concert and "Jimmie" Buckley of Buckle Bag fame assures the committee that the program will be one that will arouse the enthusiasm of the Irish hearts.

Central Council Meeting

Plans were perfected at the meeting of the Central council last evening. There was a large attendance and it is the enthusiasm of the members is any criterion then Lowell is to have some thing in the line of a celebration next week.

President McMillin called to order, and Daniel E. Hogan, sec., read the minutes of the last meeting. Chief Marshal Humphrey O'Sullivan was present and made a lengthy statement concerning the parade. He said that the arrangements were being carried out as well as could be expected and, judging from present indications, everything would be worked out to a successful close. He has received communications from different parts of the state and, judging from these, it is estimated that close to 10,000 will participate in Wednesday's parade.

Chief Marshal O'Sullivan assured the council that nothing but bad weather can stop the success of the great parade.

The banquet committee reported that in addition to those already scheduled to appear, Mayor Coughlin of Fall River had been invited to speak at the banquet to be held Wednesday evening.

It was announced that neither the central council nor any of the local organizations had sanctioned the sale of postals or postcards during convention week and that the general public was to understand that the Fiberglass are to receive no benefit from the sale of such.

The central council will hold its final meeting at Liberman hall Sunday afternoon, with the state officers.

Division 1 Meeting
Division 1, A. O. H., held its regular meeting last night and eight new members were initiated and five propositions were received. James Bourke

O. M. I. Cade's Engaged in Two Sham Battles

A tired looking, but healthy, rugged and happy set of boys disembarked from the cars at the corner of East Merrimack and High streets at 7:30 last night. They were the O. M. I. Cadets who have been in camp for three days past. They broke camp at 6:30 last night marched to the cars and returned home. Yesterday was one of the most strenuous days they put in. There were two sham battles fought, then came the drills, the baseball games and athletic sports. It was an ideal day, too, for the boys and their parents who gathered in large numbers to witness the closing scenes of the camp. The big feature of the day was the "Battle of Wilmington Woods" as Mr. Sullivan called it. It was a great struggle and the cadets on both sides put up a stubborn fight. Lieut. McArdle, Fr. Sullivan, Athletic Instructor McCann and former Col. Frank Sullivan of the High school regiment were kept busy covering the ground to witness and decide the points of the war game, for they were the umpires who were to decide the winner. The cadets were organized into two armies, the attacking and the defending forces and for two hours the "battle" raged. The first battle started about 9 o'clock in the morning and was a most interesting one.

Half of the O. M. I. corps, under Major Francis J. Haggerty, came down upon the town from the north marching and creeping through woods and underbrush for one mile and a half. The approach was cleverly made but the sentinels of the defending side, under Capt. Luke McCann, discovered the approach of the attacking force, which was then almost up to Miller's grove. The warning was sent along the line of headquarters, and Capt. McCann immediately rushed out his corps of defenders and the enemy was met in that part of Wilmington woods known as Milligan's grove. Here several fierce struggles took place between the skirmishing forces.

For a time it looked as though the attackers would have to retreat, but Capt. McCann, thinking that the main body was in the skirmish line, had only a small force left in reserve to cover the right.

Major Haggerty sent up his reinforcements from the left, attacking the extreme right flank of the defenders. Though resistance was practically useless, since the enemy's skirmishers could hold the main body of McCann's army in check for a considerable length of time, the "men" fought gallantly, but were finally overcome.

In the afternoon Capt. Luke McCann's army regained the town.

Major Haggerty was outwitted by the clever orders of McCann, whose main force crept up almost to the trenches of the enemy totally unseen by the sentinels. When most of his men were in an opportune position for a sudden charge, the captain, with a smaller body appeared on the brow of a nearby knoll, drawing the attention of the defense. Haggerty at once began to make preparations to repel this attacking force, which was so well arranged that it appeared as if it contained all of McCann's troops. When the defenders were fairly started on the track of the decoys, the main attacking force rushed forward and took the trenches, and the recapture of Wilmington was soon after effected.

Great credit is due to Lieut. Bernard Moardie of Co. M, Ninth Regiment, M. V. M., who acted as military instructor to the boys. The tactics were the same as are used in the militia sham battles, and were admirably used by the youthful generals.

Lieut. McArdle, the military instructor who has had years of experience in military circles, was greatly pleased with the work of the cadets both at drill and in the sham battles and so expressed himself to Rev. Fr. Sullivan. After the battles, the boys were put through a final drill and instruction in physical culture by Officer Matt McCann, who has been acting as physical director of the boys, and who has done exceptionally fine work. A baseball game followed between the O. M. I. Cadets, Juniors and the Belvideres, the contest going to the latter by the score of 5 to 4 after nine innings or test play. The Cadet Junior battery was Parrell and Dudloy, while Clark and Chapple worked for the Belvideres.

Immediately after the ball game, the order to "fall in" was given and shortly after the field uniforms had been changed over to dress the dress parade was reviewed with the lowering of the stars and stripes.

Vesper service was conducted by Fr. Sullivan, the chaplain, who in his address thanked from the bottom of his heart those who had served to make the camp so successful.

After a supper, which all declared was the best Caterer Henderson had served during the trip, the boys left camp for the city.

Every Cadet is requested to be at the Immaculate Conception school hall at 7:30 this evening.

PANAMA CANAL

Part of It Opened to Navigation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Five and a half miles of the Panama canal at the Atlantic entrance were opened to navigation for the sand and rock fleet of the Atlantic division last week, according to the issue of the Canal Record which reached this city today. This section, added to the five miles at the Pacific entrance which is open to vessels of all kinds, brings the total of the canal now in actual use up to ten and a half miles.

The division just opened is not completed but it has a channel 15 feet deep at its shallowest point and a width of 100 feet at its narrowest point. The dredges are constantly working on this part, broadening and deepening it to the full width of 500 feet and the full depth of 45 feet. The part just opened does away with the long detour via the old French canal which it was necessary for the rock and sand laden ships to make in hauling their cargoes from Porto Bello to Gatun.

HOUSE BURNED

The Occupants Made Their Escape

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 19.—The story and a half house at Old Orchard, owned by Wesley G. Smith and occupied by Lewis Fowler, was burned to the ground this morning about four o'clock. The occupants of the house were awakened by the flames and made their escape without injury. Loss on house and contents is total, and the Fowlers held no insurance. The house was insured for $1250 and was worth $3500. The cause of the fire is unknown but the family state that a strange man was seen hanging around the building Thursday evening. An investigation will be made.

FREIGHT BUSINESS FALLS OFF

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 19.—Freight business of the Boston & Albany railroads, as well as other railroads, has fallen off considerably in the last few weeks and the roads are retrenching by operating fewer trains and sending fewer cars over the lines. The decrease in freight business the railroad men ascribe to the political situation. The officials of the Boston & Albany declare that the road is about breaking even and the receipts from carrying freight just about allow the road to pay operating expenses and pay six per cent dividend to the stockholders, that is required by the law of the leases. Railroad men are optimistic, however, and believe that in a few weeks business will again be normal.

SOLD HIS SEAT

Patten Out of Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—James Patten, the Chicago cotton operator, disdaining to talk of financial conditions, said today that he was chiefly interested in university matters in Chicago and that the work was taking up most of his time. Mr. Patten was a passenger on the steamship Adriatic today for Europe. He confirmed the wireless report that he had sold his seat on the stock exchange.

"There is not anything to make a fuss about in regard to the seat," said Mr. Patten. "I simply gave word before leaving this country that if the bid for the seat should go to $70,000 the seat should be sold."

Well, when the bid reached that amount the seat was sold. I can't do a thing without it."

HUNT FOR CAPSALIS

Reward for Capture of the Greek is Considered

DOVER, N. H., Aug. 19.—Deputy Sheriff Elmer Clark of this city and Loven D. Casler of Somersworth, who have been hunting in Maine and Massachusetts since Sunday for Nicholas Capsalis, better known among the Greeks as Capsalis, who is wanted for the alleged murder of his aunt, Mari-sa-Capsalitsa, at Somersworth Aug. 10, both returned from Maine late yesterday empty-handed.

It is said that a conference will be held by Sheriff Smith and his deputies with County Solicitor Dwight Hall today in regard to the next move. Solicitor Hall stated last night that the Bangor crew had not been abandoned, but might be investigated later. A move in another direction, which the authorities have not disclosed, is first contemplated.

Whether the county will offer a reward has not been decided. There are many who think that the offer of a reward would hasten the Greek's arrest.

A Somersworth man well acquainted with the Greeks said last night that the offer of a reward of a few hundred dollars would arouse an interest on the part of the Greeks to aid the authorities in their search for Capsalis and would probably result in his being quickly brought in.

Sheriff Smith has been busy sending out circulars describing Capsalis. He has mailed nearly 3000, covering all the nearby cities where there are known to be Greeks and all the large cities and shipping ports of the country.

SOUGHT IN BIDEFORD

BIDEFORD, Me., Aug. 19.—Officers in the two cities believe that Nicholas Capsalis is hiding somewhere in this vicinity. Detective Regis of Lowell is putting in much time searching in this city. It is believed here the Greek will be captured within a few days. State detectives and the regular officers here are looking for the man.

Many think that the alleged murderer bought the revolver in Somersworth to slay Nicholas Kallias, who disappeared last Sunday from Old Orchard.

MAYOR GAYNOR

Will Leave Hospital in a Few Weeks

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Mayor Gaynor awoke today from a refreshing night's rest and seemingly much improved in spirits and strength. His physicians said he had a fine night. Mr. Gaynor will leave the hospital in a few weeks, it is said. It is further stated that there are no present indications necessitating an operation and that the bullet gave the mayor no inconvenience and had become encysted, the physician said, and the worst that could be looked for would be a slight suppurative and that could be easily treated as a case of quinsy sore throat.

The wound in the mayor's neck is nearly healed, and the scar that will be left will be hardly noticeable.

The following official bulletin on Mayor Gaynor's condition was issued at 8 a. m.:

"The mayor slept well and is in excellent condition this morning. Temperature, pulse and respiration normal and all symptoms are favorable."

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Breaking the automobile time record from coast to coast L. L. Whitman, who established the former record in 1906, accompanied by E. L. Hammond and a driving crew of three, arrived last night from New York after ten days, fifteen hours and twelve minutes and one second, official time, on the road. Whitman took four days, ten hours, 39 minutes and 59 seconds off his former record.

THE MUNSEY TRIP

Lowell People Accompanied the Autoists

Mr. Donald A. Mackenzie, of the Mackenzie Auto Co., local agents for the Maxwell cars, accompanied by John J. Deavitt, of the Deavitt Mfg. Co., in Thorndike street, and representatives of the Courier-Citizen and The Sun, made up one of the many parties of automobilists which acted as escort from Providence to Boston to the automobilists in the Munsey historic tour yesterday afternoon.

The Lowell party left Merrimack square yesterday morning at 8.15 o'clock in a Model G, 20-horse power Maxwell toy tonneau and had a most delightful non-stop trip into the Rhode Island city. The weather was ideal, the roads for the greater part in excellent condition, the car was in perfect running order and good time was made all the way, an average speed of 30 miles an hour being negotiated. Owing to the number of cities and towns through which the party had to pass and the restrictions in many places, it was deemed advisable not to do much speeding.

The trip which was made in two hours and 35 minutes was through Billerica, Bedford, Lexington, Waltham, Dedham, Norwood, Walpole, Wrentham, North Attleboro, Mass., Pawtucket, R. I., and Providence.

Upon arriving at Providence the Lowell party stopped at the Crown hotel, the headquarters for the tourists, after which the car was parked in Exchange place, where several hundred automobiles were parked.

It was Mr. Mackenzie's intention to entertain the members of his party at the Crown hotel for dinner, but upon invitation of Mr. Eugene L. E. Drake, of the Cassella Color company, a friend of Mr. Deavitt, the Lowellites were entertained at the West End club in Aborn street. An excellent dinner was enjoyed, after which the clubmen were shown through the clubhouse, which occupies three floors of one of the largest buildings in Providence.

Shortly after noon the party started to Boston with the tourists, the trip between Providence and Boston being made in one hour and 45 minutes.

Upon arriving at the Hotel Lenox, where the Bay State Automobile association headquarters are situated, the Lowell aggregation visited the Maxwell-Briscoe headquarters in Massachusetts avenue, which was recently damaged by fire.

The return trip was made to Lowell during the early part of the evening, all members of the party having had a most enjoyable time, thanks to Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Drake.

Among the tourists in the Munsey tour were Forest L. Peabody, formerly of this city, and Jack Coffey, who drove one of the racing cars in the races held over the Merrimack Valley course last fall.

The only thing to mar the pleasure of the Munsey tour from New London, Conn., to Boston yesterday was the fact that one of the entrants rode through an auto trap in Providence at a rate of 25 miles an hour, was arrested and fined $15 and costs. The promoters of the contest feel that the police officials of Providence should have shown some leniency to the tourists on the occasion.

The Munseyites left Boston this morning at 8 o'clock and will check in at Portland, Me., tonight, the noon stop being made at Portsmouth, N. H. From Portland the route leads to Bath, N. H., Burlington, Vt., Saratoga, N. Y., Binghamton, N. Y., Wilkesbarre, Pa., Harrisburg, Pa., and Washington, where the run will come to an end on August 25.

RACE TROUBLES

Admiral Marshall Makes His Report

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 19.—Rear Admiral William Alexander Marshall, commander of the Norfolk Navy Yard, yesterday forwarded to the navy department a report on the race disturbances in this city on July 4th, following the Jeffries-Johnson fight. The report gives the names of ten or twelve sailors who were arrested and punished in the city courts as the result of the rioting but shows that the one marine arrested that day, had no connection with race troubles, in which only blue jackets were involved. It has been alleged that United States marines and sailors made unprovoked attacks upon negroes. Publication of this report brought forth a protest from W. H. Ellis, of New York, in communications to both the White House and navy department and the suggestion that marines who attacked negroes without provocation deserved punishment just as severe as that given to negro troops for assaults upon white citizens in the Brownsville, Texas, affair.

MGR O'CALLAGHAN

BOSTON RECTOR IS ILL IN HOSPITAL IN CORK

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—The Rt. Rev. Mr. D. O'Callaghan, permanent rector of St. Augustine's church, South Boston, who sailed for Ireland three weeks ago, has been at a hospital in Cork, Ire., since Aug. 7, but late reports state that he is quite comfortable. Yesterday Miss Annie O'Callaghan, a niece of the monsignor, and his housekeeper at his residence on F street, South Boston, received a letter dated August 9, which stated that he had been taken ill with stomach trouble and was being cared for at the Cork hospital.

Later messages indicate that, while he is slowly improving, it will be necessary for him to remain there a week more.

This was Mr. O'Callaghan's first trip to his native land in more than five years, and he planned to spend the greater part of his time in the vicinity of his native parish, Cork. He was the guest of the Very Rev. Canon Lynch of Blarney.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to all those who so kindly assisted us in our time of trouble and bereavement. Also for the sympathy and beautiful floral tributes.

The Rest Cure

August has been given over to the rest cure by the great American people. A worthy practice and I'd like to see it become even more general and widespread. The rest cure was instituted for the individual, that he might forget his work and struggles for a couple of weeks in the quest of relaxation among the great natural and artificial playgrounds of the land.

But the rest cure was never intended for a business. Let a business take the rest cure for a month and it's good bye business. The individual comes back from a vacation refreshed—a business never comes back at all. That's why we fight for business in the dull season. But we have conditions that amount to about the same thing. As a rule individuals won't buy merchandise in August; they won't buy anything but a good time. Business is virtually packed up in dress suit cases in August and shipped with the vacationist to mountain, lake or shore resort. In other words, business takes the rest cure in August with those of us who are away, and it takes it almost in spite of anything that can be done by those of us who happen to be home.

So it's a fight—a struggle; something must be done to rescue business this month. It's a case of rescuer vs. rest cure, with bargains as the ammunition.

I submit herewith the bargains. If anything on earth will make you order these goods, my prices will make you. If anything on earth could make you order Now the suit or overcoat that you will order next month anyway, these fabrics at my prices ought to.

NINTH REGIMENT

Will Leave Boston for Pine Camp, N. Y. Tomorrow

Tomorrow the 9th Infantry, M. V. M., will leave Boston for Pine camp, N. Y., where it will participate with other regiments from New England and the regular army in maneuvers for the next eight days.

Co. M of this city will leave with the other companies of the regiment. The regiment will be commanded by Col. John J. Sullivan and will go out with full ranks, but will be rather weak in officers, there being several vacancies in companies.

During the past week the east armory in Boston has been a veritable hive of industry, and Capt. William L. Conrad, regimental quartermaster, has been a busy man, but with the assistance of the three battalion quartermasters, Lieut. William L. Ford, Lieut. J. B. Connolly and Lieut. Richard H. Baker, he hopes to have all the 13 wagons loaded by noon tomorrow and on board the baggage train in the yards of the B. & A. railroad in rear of the Mechanics building, Huntington avenue.

The company wagons will each be drawn by two horses, and these with the mounts for the officers, will be boxed and sent along at 2 o'clock, the wagons being loaded on flat cars.

In the evening at 6:45 o'clock the regiment will assemble at the east armory and, headed by its band, march to the South station and board two special trains of standard tourist sleepers, the first section leaving at 8 o'clock and the second section 10 minutes later.

The regiment will leave in heavy marching order, and will carry two rations. Enroute each company will be supplied with coffee.

Capt. Daniel J. Murphy and his assistants will have their hands full on the arrival of the regiment, as each wagon will have to be unloaded, and afterwards he will have to go to the division commissary for rations for the regiment, which will be quite an undertaking should the regiment be late on arrival at the rendezvous.

It is expected that the regiment will be brigaded with several other organizations from New England, as Maine, Rhode Island and Vermont will be represented. Many of the officers are looking forward with no little degree of pleasure to meeting the officers of the 10th U. S. cavalry, which is at the maneuvers, and whom they met at the New England maneuvers last year.

CANOBIE LAKE PARK

Another banner week of vaudeville is promised for the Canobie Lake theatre for the week commencing Aug. 22, and the bill includes many acts that are known features in the variety field. The original Frank J. McNish of "Silence and Fun" fame is coming with McNish and McNish in a real fantasia of singing, dancing and talking and their most grotesque comedy. Berry and Berry are expert exponents of comedy, and their act is interspersed with much delightful music. The novelty in the program will be perhaps furnished by Darnody, the master manipulator, who does most anything he wishes with wiretraps and other unenvied things.

A metropolitan act is to be found on the program in that of the favorites, Joe Hearn and Matt Rutter, who are novelty artists in wooden shoe dancing and in grotesque soft shoe dancing.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 19.—Only about 4,000,000 feet of first class green standing timber has been destroyed by forest fires in western Washington, this season, according to compilations made yesterday by D. P. Simons, chief warden of the Washington Forest association. About 20,000 acres have been burned over this season west of the Cascade mountains, a large part of which, however, was logged off. In addition to this green timber Mr. Simons says that thousands of cords of firewood and shingle bolts and many fallen trees that might have been cut into logs, have been burned.

LINEMAN INJURED

James E. Wheelock, aged 52 years, residing at the Washington Tavern, was injured yesterday while engaged in his work as a lineman on the N. E. telephone company, by being hit upon the head by a heavy wrench. The wound required five stitches and was dressed at the Emergency hospital.

BAY STATE TROOPS MAN FOUND DYING

Will Receive Largest Sum From Believed to be Victim of a Murderous Assault

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The New England militia will be helped by the federal government this year, by allotments aggregating nearly $350,000 from appropriations of $4,000,000 for the benefit of the militia authorized by the last session of congress.

There are two appropriations of $2,000,000 each, one to be distributed according to the representation of each state in congress and the other to be allotted upon the basis of the enlisted strength of the militia of each state.

The allotments under the first appropriation are divided into new funds, one available for arms, equipments and camp purposes, and the other for the promotion of rifle practice.

The New England states received allotments from the first appropriations as follows:

Massachusetts—Arms, equipment and camp purposes $46,946.85, promotion of rifle practice $15,648.95, total $62,595.80.

Maine—Arms, equipment, etc., $17,605.07, rifle practice $5,868.35, total $23,473.42.

New Hampshire, Vermont and Rhode Island—Arms, equipment and camp purposes $11,736.71, promotion of rifle practice $3,912.24, total $15,648.95.

Connecticut—Arms, equipment, etc., $25,539.24, rifle practice $5,846.42, total $31,385.66.

In distributing the $2,000,000 among the states, according to the enlisted strength of their militia organizations, the war department reserved $400,000 for emergencies. If no emergencies arise during the year this amount will be distributed among the states according to the strength of their militia at the end of the fiscal year, June 30 next.

The $1,600,000 of the second appropriation was divided into two funds. The first is for ammunition, the allowance of which to the militia is limited to 50 per cent. of the allowance made to the regular army. The second fund is available for the purchase of supplies.

The allotment to New England upon the basis of the enlisted strength of their militia organizations is as follows:

Massachusetts, with an enlisted strength of 5404, is allotted $26,304.30 for ammunition and $51,945.02 for supplies, a total of $78,249.32.

Maine, with an enlisted strength of 1253, is allotted $5,031.79 for ammunition and $18,111.65 for supplies, a total of $23,143.44.

New Hampshire, with 1184 men in her militia, received $5,347.71 for ammunition and $11,796.61 for supplies, a total of $17,144.32.

Vermont, with only 769 men in her militia, received the smallest allotment of any New England state, $3,846.53 for ammunition and $7,288.43 for supplies, a total of $11,134.96.

Rhode Island, with an enlisted militia strength of 1027 and received $244.47 for ammunition and $11,726.49 for supplies, a total of $11,970.96.

Connecticut received the second largest allotment. With 2,398 militia she has received an allowance of $10,519.39 for ammunition and $23,803.55 for supplies, a total of $34,322.94.

SALEM, Aug. 18.—Jumping from a team directly in front of an automobile owned and operated by William Wallace Benjamin of W. Somerville, John McManemon, aged 10 years, received injuries which caused his death late tonight at the Salem hospital. Benjamin was not held responsible.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Down in the dark of the fireroom of the Hotel Somerset, while the fashionable guests were dining all unmindful far above, a tragedy took place last evening and Night Watchman Joseph Levy of 96 Harvard street, Dorchester, was found dying in a pool of blood with a compound fracture of the skull.

Night Engineer William Lacey of 579 Columbus avenue, who had deserted his post and was nowhere to be found when the injured man was discovered, was afterward arrested, charged with assault with intent to kill.

No one saw the struggle, if struggle there was. No one heard the sounds of the two men battling in the gloom, if they really did battle, and the great hotel was for a time in danger of sudden darkness or any other mishap that might happen as a result of the engines being started.

Lacey, the arrested night engineer, denied striking the night watchman, and stated that he must have fallen; but further than that he would say nothing, preferring to wait until represented by counsel.

Lacey was searched for but not found and another call to the station house brought Sergeant Barry with Officer Brett to the scene. Levy was hurried to the hospital, where he was found to be in a dying condition.

The police officers left on the scene were unable to learn a single fact that would shed further light on the affair, except the persistent rumor that there had been blood between Lacey and Levy.

While they were conducting their investigation Engineer Lacey returned, and was at once placed under arrest. The hotel people then pleaded with the police to allow Lacey to remain at his engines until the chief engineer, George Nash, could take his place. They feared to leave the engine room unattended any longer. The officers sent for Nash and stood guard over their prisoner until the chief engineer arrived.

Lacey is a giant in size, weighing nearly 235 pounds, while Lacey is of medium height, weighing at the most but 125 pounds. He refused to affirm or deny bad blood between him and the injured man, simply denying that he was guilty of any crime.

The hotel officials were entirely at sea over the affair and not one person out of the entire hotel staff could give any aid to the police in clearing up the matter.

At the hospital the attending physician could not state in what manner or with what weapon Levy had been injured.

AFTER HAVING A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Charles Mahagan of East 5th street, South Boston, who had a narrow escape from drowning while making a long-distance swim in Dorchester bay two days previous, died yesterday in the City hospital from internal hemorrhages.

Mrs. Mahagan was known as one of the cleverest woman swimmers at the headhouse beach at City Point. Shortly before noon Tuesday, when several bathers asked her if she was not going to take her usual long-distance swim, she struck out into the bay and met with a trying experience.

After being rescued by volunteers she was taken to the U. S. life saving station in Dorchester bay and later to her home. Her condition became more serious the following day and she was removed to the hospital.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was

16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

The more auto fire machines we add to our fire department the fewer fire stations and firemen we will need.

John Ball goes right ahead building Dreadnoughts without paying much attention to aeroplanes or dirigible balloons. Thus far he seems to have both the bulge and the laugh on the kaiser.

TEACH THEM A LESSON

If we are not mistaken there is a law which compels automobilists in passing a street car where passengers are alighting to go slowly and if necessary to come to a standstill. They certainly do not observe this law in Merrimack square. We have watched them frequently and not a single chauffeur seemed to have the slightest regard for the law or the least consideration for people getting on or off the street cars. We have wondered why some one hasn't been killed long ago in Merrimack square. It is not the fault of the drivers of automobiles that accidents haven't occurred in the square every day in the week.

PLAIN LOOT IN LAND DEALS

Here is what the Springfield Republican says about the Indian land scandals in which high government officials are involved:

"Not a day passes in the Indian lands investigation without justifying Senator Gore's action in dragging the scandal into the light of publicity. Each new witness seems to testify much as Congressman Carter did, when he mentioned varied personages who would 'get their share' or who were 'in on the deal.' No very high standard of morality, to be sure, was shown by the Indians who signed the names of their panopies to the McMurray contracts, but the fertile, finished rascality of the white man is manifest in all of the operations. Possibly nothing has yet developed that would send anyone to jail, although the lying here and there must be terrific. The real benefit will arise, probably, from the fact that 'attorney's fees' in such cases will hereafter be known to the world as plain loot."

MAKE IT A SWIMMING POOL

There are many complaints about the condition of the pond on the South common, and many suggestions as to the possibilities of its development as a swimming pool for boys in the summer time. It is contended that the pond is hard to keep clean because it receives the drainage from the surrounding portions of the common. That could be easily overcome by running a pipe or drain around the outer side of the walk to catch the water that flows from the higher land adjoining. If the pond was thus protected, and had a concrete bottom, then there would be little difficulty in using it as a swimming pool for children in the summer season. We have nothing of this kind in Lowell, and it is about time to meet the public demand even in a moderate way.

Some method must be adopted to prevent the crank bent on homicide from purchasing a gun at the nearest hardware store or pawn shop. Otherwise every public official who does his duty fearlessly will require a body guard.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES

Fraternal societies are very good in their way. They have many fine features, and they certainly accomplish a great deal of good. But there is one feature that should be very carefully supervised in the formation and conducting of fraternal organizations, and that is the insurance feature.

Any plan of insurance that is not founded upon sound principles will sooner or later prove burdensome to the members and work irreparable injury to otherwise worthy organizations. Never fool with an insurance plan that is based on chance. Life insurance is entirely different from fire insurance. One is positive, the other is not. A fire insurance company may carry policies on a hundred buildings, and none of them may ever burn down. Barring a big conflagration only a small percentage of the buildings are likely to be destroyed by fire. But when a life insurance company takes a risk upon the lives of a hundred men, it must set down as a positive fact that the hundred men will surely die, and one hundred insurance policies must be paid within a limited time. There is no chance to this obligation. It is a positive obligation from the moment the policy is written, and the time of death, according to age, is fixed so accurately by the American mortality tables that the average expectation of life in every group of one thousand policy holders has not varied for two hundred years, including years of wars and pestilence.

Any insurance system that does not provide for the payment of every policy at the time of the expectation of death or sooner is unsound. To levy assessments only when a death occurs is a chance or gambling system of insurance that is bound to fail. Any system imposing a total loss on the insurer who fails to keep up his payments is unjust, because a partly paid policy should have a cancellation value at all times. To take a man's money for years and then give him or his beneficiaries nothing because he was unable to pay in his last days is an unjust transaction even though it be agreed to by the policy holder.

Fraternal societies should, therefore, see to it that if they introduce an insurance feature into their organizations it should be based on the simple and sound plan that a sum of money be paid in annually by each policy holder sufficient to meet the amount of his policy at the expectation of death according to the American mortality tables, and to this sum should be added a reasonable amount to pay the expenses of conducting the insurance department.

Insurance based on such a plan as this may not be as cheap as the lottery form of insurance, but it will be sound and free from every possible taint of insurance gambling.

SEEN AND HEARD

Paying the bills is the divine right of man.

To owe no man is almost like being a capitalist.

Some folks' idea of satire is just disagreeableness.

The man who means well too often loses his meaning.

The bald man never thinks that baldness is noticeable, much.

The uncommon thing in the world is to follow advice, something that's most commonly asked.

When a woman would discuss her friends' troubles, a man generally switches the conversation to the weather.

"I want some talcum powder," said a Hebrew gentleman to a drug clerk the other day.

"Yes, sir? Some talcum powder—Mennen's, I suppose?"

"No, no! Vimmens!" replied the Hebrew.

"Do you want it scented?" asked the clerk, further.

"No, I'll take it vid me!"

And even with all that fun the Hebrew thought he wasn't getting his money's worth.

A well known shoe man says that he fell asleep one evening and dreamed he had died and gone to heaven. St. Peter showed him around and everything seemed to be perfect with one exception. The newcomer was surprised at the makeshifts used for footwear. St. Peter questioned him:

"How do you like things in general?"

"Oh, first class in most every way," the stranger replied.

"Most every way?" exclaimed St. Peter, in a surprised tone of voice. "Why, name one thing that's wrong."

"Well," said the recent arrival, "just look at the shoes you're wearing here—they're the limit."

St. Peter shook his head in a melancholy manner.

"Ah, well," he sighed, "you see we never get any good shoemakers up here."

"But you said you had done the cooking for a whole family," exclaimed

ed the exasperated housewife when the new arrival told her that she was quite ignorant of the mysteries of broiling a steak and could not have roasted a chicken if her life depended on it. "How in the world could you ever have done that when you seem to know nothing about it?"

The new incumbent smiled blandly. "I did cook for a family of four," she insisted. "But they called themselves 'vegetables,' and all we had to eat used to be nuts and boiled potatoes, and I always boiled the potatoes."

"NERVOUS" CHILD

He harried the household cat, he worried and whipped the dog he sat on his auntie's hat.

He caught and he killed a frog. He lamed with a sizable stone.

The best of his uncle's chickens, he broke the bed, and it may be said with truth, that he raised the dickens.

Till grandmother raised her eyes, she did.

And murmured, "The Lord preserve us!"

But mother remarked, as she kissed the kid:

"The poor little dear is nervous."

He fidgeted, sulked and fussed—

So daintily about his meat, he screamed that his mother must have something a fellow could eat.

He answered his auntie back.

He snapped at his uncle, too, he tortured and teased and did as he pleased.

And not what they wished he'd do. Till grandmother raised her eyes, she did.

And murmured, "The Lord preserve us!"

But mother remarked, as she kissed the kid:

"The poor little dear is nervous."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mrs. Perry Starkweather has four women assistants in her work as assistant labor commissioner of Minnesota.

Mrs. Starkweather is the only woman in the country holding such an office, and Minnesota is the only state in the Union that has a department for women and children in its bureau of labor.

This department is a sort of clearing house for all matters pertaining to women and children in industry and school. At present special attention is being given to the home conditions.

The filing of plans with the building department of the borough of Queens, New York, discloses another of the plans of the Sage foundation, in which Mrs. Russell Sage is interested, which is developing at Forest Hills a community for working men and women.

There is to be built there a fine modern hotel for the accommodation of those who will not care to own their own homes, but who may desire to avail themselves of the privileges afforded by the community.

The plans show that the hotel will be one of the largest on Long Island. There will be three wings, the dimensions being 245 by 218 by 25 by 54.

The main wing will be eight stories in height, another will be five stories, and third will be three stories. There will be several hundred guest rooms and suites.

The construction will be entirely fire-proof—steel skeleton filled with reinforced concrete, brick and terra cotta. There will be all modern improvements, and on one of the wings there will be a roof garden.

The hotel will cost several hundred thousand dollars, and it will be located on the west side of Station square, near Continental avenue, facing the splendid station which is now being erected jointly by the Long Island railroad, the Sage Foundation company, and the Cord Meyer company.

"Jere McCauley," a reformed drunkard, made, nearly forty years ago, a strong impression on the street mission, which attained national fame. "Hadley," his successor, built well on the foundation, and his last words were reported as being:

"What will the 'bums' now do?" But the present manager seems to have been in no wise behind his predecessor, until now it is announced that a new five-story building on the site, to which has been added an adjoining lot, is to be erected, the estimated cost of which will be about $100,000.

Edmond Rostand, author of "Chantecler," recently won the grand prize offered by the French Society for the Protection of Animals. The award was really made not because of any active friendship shown by the poet for dumb creatures but because of the genuine sympathy and no less for them which is supposed to have animated to a very great degree his composition of "Chantecler."

There are no end of caustic critics who laugh at this idea. More serious, however, than this is the fact that the real friends of animals declare that M. Rostand and his family display quite a cruel spirit in regard to them, says a dispatch to the New York Times.

In the first place, the proper staging of "Chantecler" meant the spoils of thousands of harmless birds—both those of the barnyard and those which inhabit the wilds had to be employed.

In the making of costumes there was a wonderfully lavish use of feathers. The excuse that the sacrifice was made for dumb creatures and not for the sake of the play was not accepted in that instance, but not for the sake of the play.

Mme. Rostand paid $100 for feathers from birds of paradise with which to ornament her hat.

It is even said that the feathers for the "Chantecler" costumes were mostly plucked from living birds. Furthermore, the play revived the feminine fashion of wearing stuffed birds or their plumage as hat trimmings.

An emphatic protest was made by many members of the Society for the Protection of Animals against the award of the first prize to M. Rostand, and the matter has been vigorously taken up in other quarters.

FAMILY FETE

AT THE RESIDENCE OF JOSEPH ALBERT

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Albert in Allen street was the scene of a very enjoyable family festival last night. The occasion had a triple significance, it being the 15th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Albert, the 15th anniversary of the birth of their daughter Maria, and the 17th birthday anniversary of their daughter Bernadette.

The affair took the form of a house warming, for it was the first party given by Mr. and Mrs. Albert since moving into their new home.

CHELMSFORD

A horse belonging to Charles Morris of South street ran away yesterday afternoon as the result of a bundle of shingles falling from a roof and striking the animal on the back. Mr. Morris captured the animal on Westford street. The wagon and harness were damaged, but the horse escaped injury.

Workmen in the building rushed to him, but nothing could be done.

Steady Growth in New Eng-land States

Arkansas Negro Offers Free Farms to Colored Men

While the growth of the south in the cotton manufacturing industry has been rapid during the past few years, its progress has been but slight in comparison with the energy displayed during the same period in Massachusetts, writes a correspondent in the current issue of the Manufacturers' Record. His article follows:

"Massachusetts has 3,000,000 population," he says, "but it has $725,000,000 in its savings banks, or an average of nearly $250 represented in this form of savings for every man, woman and child in the state. In this state there are over 2,000,000 savings bank deposit accounts.

"The south, with 28,000,000 population, has only $166,000,000 in its savings banks, and of that amount $81,000,000 is in Baltimore. Even including Baltimore, the south has less than $6 per capita in its savings banks, against nearly $250 per capita in Massachusetts. Omitting the state of Maryland, the south has only about $3 per capita in savings banks.

"Massachusetts has 80 times as much per capita, or, in other words, for every dollar per capita the south outside of Maryland has in savings banks, Massachusetts has about $30.

"This disproportion in the tangible wealth represented by savings banks deposits is only indicative of the vast difference in the industrial progress and the general wealth of Massachusetts, and, for that matter, of New England, as compared with the south. A study of these facts is of profound interest.

"Turning from savings banks to manufacturing interests, it is found that at the end of 1904, the latest date of government figures giving the manufacturing statistics of New England, Massachusetts had invested in manufacturing enterprises $965,048,857. The south, with more than eight times as many people, with 100 times as much land area, with 1000 times more natural resources, had only $1,697,636,372 capital invested in manufacturing.

"New England as a whole had $1,870,355,403 manufacturing capital, or nearly $300,000,000 more than the south, Maryland to Texas included, though the south has 13 times the area of New England and more than four times its population. The value of the manufactured products of New England in 1904 was $2,028,838,438, while that of the south was $1,787,326,325.

"Some may say that these figures are five and six years old, and that during that time the south has made very great material development. That is true. The capital invested in manufacturing in the south has grown from $1,500,000,000 in 1904 to over $2,200,000,000 at present, and the value of manufactured products from $1,787,000,000 to over $2,700,000,000. This is a marvelous increase, worthy to be commended. But what has Massachusetts been doing in the meantime?

"New England was putting $75,000,000 of new money into the building of textile industries, while the south felt, and justly so, that it was doing great things because it was spending $25,000,000 in building new cotton mills. Whenever one turns from the momentary view of New England and sees on every hand the evidence of increasing wealth. He sees the power of energy combined with almost limitless wealth, made by the same energy.

"It is the human agency without raw materials, but the human agency developed to the highest type, determined to win material success regardless of a lack of advantages. It has, indeed, gathered its raw materials of manufacture from the four quarters of the globe and touched them with the magic wand of energy of trained brain and brawn, and from this touch there is pouring out a stream of wealth so vast in its proportions as to justify the boast of the delegate from Massachusetts.

Two hundred and thirteen new textile mills have been built or planned in the United States during the first six months of the present year. This, the wool and cotton men say, is absolute evidence of the return of prosperity.

Massachusetts leads in 1910 construction with 52 new mills, of which 25 are cotton and 11 wool. North Carolina comes next with 28 new mills, of which 16 are cotton, seven knit, and one wool. New York state is third with 20 new mills, of which 10 are knit, six wool and three cotton. Then comes Rhode Island with 17 new mills, of which eight are wool; South Carolina with 16 new mills, all of which are cotton, and Pennsylvania with 13 new mills, of which seven are knit and six miscellaneous. Of the 213 new mills, 137 are in the north and 76 in the south. Thirty-one Union states are in this revival of textile industry: Alabama, 2; Arkansas, 2; Calif., 1; Colorado, 1; Connecticut, 6; Delaware, 1; Georgia, 9; Idaho, 1; Illinois, 3; Indiana, 1; Iowa, 1; Kentucky, 1; Maine, 4; Michigan, 1; Minnesota, 2; Ohio, 5; Oklahoma, 4; Tennessee, 2; Texas, 5; Utah, 2; Virginia, 4; Washington, 1; and Wisconsin, 4.

John Bearup, a woolen manufacturer of Albuquerque, N. M., heads a syndicate which plans a $16,000,000 string of mills in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, California and other ranch states. M. C. D. Borden is putting up a 108,000 spindle mill in Fall River. Mr. Lawrence and Pacific mill company is erecting a 60,000 spindle mill cover eight blocks. A 60,000 spindle mill is under way in New Bedford. A cotton storehouse to handle 18,000 bales of cotton a year is being put up by the Nashua Manufacturing company in Nashua. Figuring the 213 new mills at $50,000 each, and the 200 and more mill additions at $25,000 each, a low estimate, more than $15,000,000 has gone into textile construction in six months.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—An old-fashioned Arkansas dandy, one of those proud to call himself "nigger," equally free-spoken with all his countrymen, stood up in the second day's session of the negro business men's league yesterday and vowed that he "wouldn't change places with Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, big American as he is."

"Come out with us, you niggers," he told the New York negroes, "where the air is free and God is good, and where, if there is any gumption in you, you can have more in a year than you ever earned in all your life before. If you haven't a dollar I'll give you a farm and a chance. Come out to Arkansas. When I get up in the morning, and see my cows going to pasture, my calves in the lot, my sheep grazing in the meadow, and my eleven boys going about to tend to the business, I say to myself, even if I am a nigger, I wouldn't change places with Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, big American as he is."

The speaker was introduced to the audience by Booker T. Washington as Scott Bond, an uneducated negro of Madison, Ark., but of solid substance and a man of his word.

"How much are you worth?" asked an inquisitive delegate.

Scott Bond shuffled and grinned. "Well," he said, "down in Arkansas they tax us 50 cents on every $1000. I pay a few dollars less than $2000 a year."

A little arithmetic shows that this tax represents a capital appraised at nearly $4,000,000, consisting, Scott Bond said, of his own farm, 19 farms rented to other negroes, cotton gins, 20 general stores and live stock.

"What do you raise?" asked a woman delegate.

"On my place," was the reply, "I raise mules, corn, cotton, tobacco and boys and girls."

"These insurance men talk about the mortality among our race, but I tell you the thing that's killing us off is style. If the nigger women would quit wearing patent leather shoes and get out into the country, and try less to be like white women, we'd have more and healthier children."

Other speakers at the afternoon session were Booker T. Washington, Mrs. Henry Villard, the daughter of William Lloyd Garrison, and Garrison's grandson, Oswald Garrison Villard, a New York editor. Solidarity, Mr. Villard thought, was what the negro most needed.

FOR PUBLIC BATHS

The Committee Makes Recommendation

The members of the fire department committee went on a tour of inspection yesterday afternoon and later held a meeting at city hall. The committee visited the central fire station, the Highland, Pawtucketville and Oakland districts. The boiler inspectors have recommended that a new boiler be installed at the central fire station and the committee's visit to the Highland and Pawtucketville districts was to look over proposed sites for fire alarm buildings. The committee visited the Oakland district, where a request by the residents of that section for better fire protection, Chief Hosmer accompanied the committee.

At the meeting, and on motion of Councilman Achin, the committee voted to recommend to the lands and buildings committee that better heating apparatus be installed in the central fire station. Mr. Achin explained that the main fire alarm system is located on the top floor of the building and that an even temperature must be maintained. He said that if the present boiler should go wrong during the coming winter the system would be put out of commission.

In regard to better fire protection in the Oakland district, Councilman Tracey expressed the belief that the proper thing to do would be to place a new fire house somewhere near Shedd park, but Aldermen Byam and Adams were of the belief that an auto fire combination wagon, stationed at the High street house would provide ample protection for that section.

On motion of Councilman Kilpatrick it was voted to recognize the prayer of the petitioners from the Oakland district and to recommend the placing of an auto combination chemical and hose wagon at the High street engine house.

Public Swimming Pool

The question of a public swimming pool and bath was the main question at a meeting of the public convenience committee held at city hall last night. A few days ago the committee visited the bathhouse and swimming pool at Brookline and got a few pointers that will assist in the putting in of a swimming pool and bath in this city.

Inspector Dow of the lands and buildings, accompanied the committee to Brookline and at the meeting last night he submitted a rough sketch of a building that he thought would serve the purpose in Lowell. The plan allows for a swimming pool 80 feet long and 26 feet wide, with a depth, at one end, of three feet and sloping to a depth, at the other end, of six feet. The building would be 95 by 44 feet.

The head house, where the offices, toilets, shower baths and possibly a laundry would be located, was also included in the plans. This would be 54 feet by 18 feet. Allowances were made for 44 dressing rooms surrounding the swimming pool and seven showerbaths. The building over the swimming pool, according to the plans, would be either of cement or brick.

Minor changes were suggested by the members, and finally it was voted to have Inspector Dow ask for bids on his own plans and submit them to the committee.

Although no particular location was suggested by the committee it is understood that either the South or North common would prove more suitable, the former being the choice of the committee, if only one can be secured.

A public comfort station in Merrimack square was talked over at length, but no action was taken.

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA, PIMPLES, AND DANDRUFF.

We desire to say that when we took the agency for ZEMO, we were convinced that it was a valuable remedy for Eczema, pimples, and dandruff. Yet, we must frankly admit that Zemo has far exceeded our expectations as a treatment for skin diseases. We are pleased to state that we shall continue the agency as ZEMO has given splendid results wherever recommended. Our customers like ZEMO too, because it is a clean vegetable liquid for external use.

ZEMO effects its cures by drawing to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the disease, leaving the skin clear and healthy. It does not soil the clothing or linen and can be used freely on infants.

With every purchase we give a booklet on skin diseases explaining in simple words how any person can be cured at home of any form of skin or scalp diseases by this clean, scientific remedy. A. W. Dows & Co., druggists.

STRIKERS WARNED

Police Officers Told to Shoot Into Crowd

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 18.—Chief of Police Mason had the laborers' strike leaders at the central police station for an interview today in the course of which the labor leaders were told the chief's views of just what they can and cannot do. "There will be no more shooting in the air," said Chief Mason. "If the police have to draw their revolvers they will mean business. I told Alessandro, Silva and the secretary of the union this morning that we will not allow any intimidation of the workmen on the jobs whatever. The contractors are needlessly alarmed. I have talked with some of the men on the jobs and I find that they do not fear at all being molested while they are at work, but are afraid of what the other fellows will do to them after hours. We have furnished absolutely all the protection that the men at work need, but no amount of protection would be able to take that fear out of the minds of the laborers. In my opinion the situation is not at all serious. If the contractors want to put more men at work they can do it without any trouble."

In the interview that the chief of police had this morning with the strike leaders he made clear to them the fact that the authorities have the power to prevent picketing on the various jobs. It was just this point that the strikers seemed to question, having declared openly that the police have no right to force them to leave the public ways in the vicinity of the jobs.

"Peaceful picketing soon resolves itself into unpeaceful picketing," said the chief, "and we cannot allow the strikers to go near the men at work and try to induce them or intimidate them to leave."

STRIKEBREAKERS JEERED

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 18.—The heavy rain of the early morning prevented much of the construction work in this city today and as a result there was little chance for the striking building laborers to interfere with the strikebreaking laborers. A demonstration had been expected at the new Sharp mill in the extreme southern part of the city but when 100 or more strikers divided into four or five groups approached the mill from different directions they were met by a detail of police who banded the strikers together and sent them to Dartmouth street. In command of the police detail at the Sharp mill was Inspector Slow who fifteen or twenty years ago was a famous major league baseball player known as Harry Stovey.

The strike breakers at the Sharp mill construction work were hoisted and jeered by the strikers but no violence was attempted. A large party of city laborers was encountered by a small band of strikers today. The strikers requested the city employees to join the strike but were not insistent in their demands inasmuch as they were greatly outnumbered. The city laborers refused to listen to the pleas of the strikers.

Police D'Allesandro, organizer of the union, said today that there were 3200 men enrolled in the union and now on strike. Organizer D'Allesandro said he had visited Boston, Providence and other cities and that he had made it impossible for the contractors to secure Italian strikebreakers at any of the cities he had visited. Both the strikers and the contractors are loud in their criticism of the police. The strike officials say that the strikers have been discriminated against and the contractors claim that they are not given protection to enable them to keep non-union laborers at work in safety. The method of protecting the strikebreakers at the construction work on the new Nashawena mill in the North End yesterday, though most efficacious, has caused amusement about the city. The contractor in charge of the work coupled up several lines of fire hose and every striker who attempted to cross a specified "dead line" was given a drenching. The strike breakers who were on this job were able to keep at their work with little interference beyond the jeers of the strikers who remained at a discreet distance from the mill.

BADLY BEATEN COL. ROOSEVELT

Police Officer is Victim Will Not Enter the State Campaign

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—Coleman Donahue of 378 West 2d street, South Boston, was twice taken into custody yesterday by officers of division 8 and twice he escaped from them.

In the second instance he put up a terrific battle and brutally assaulted the officer who had caught him and was bringing him to the station. A large crowd of men and boys also attacked the officer and assisted in getting the prisoner away from him.

Donahue has been caught by the police of division 6, as there is a warrant for his arrest. Yesterday afternoon he was discovered by Patrolman Ernest Robertson, but quickly got away from him and disappeared.

Last night, shortly after 8 o'clock, Patrolman Martin Haverly of division 8 saw Donahue in front of 102 West 2d street and he immediately placed him under arrest. Donahue is a big fellow and very strong. He had not gone far with Haverly before the prisoner fought to get away. A gang of men and boys gathered and followed the officer and prisoner on the way to the box and soon set upon him.

Haverly held on to his man and was preparing for an attack when Donahue grabbed the hand that was holding him and bit three of the officer's fingers. Several of the crowd and Donahue then attacked the officer and he was thrown to the ground and, while down, it is said that Donahue kicked the policeman. Haverly fractured the thumb of his right hand the same hand that the prisoner had bitten.

When the policeman was on the ground he was kicked several times and suffered a deep cut on the top of the head. Haverly lost his helmet and his twisters and was in pretty bad shape. The prisoner got away and his victory was attended by Dr. Keenan of 252 West Broadway.

During the trouble Patrolman Haverly struck the prisoner several times with the club and although the latter got away it is believed by the police that he is nursing a sore head.

GOV. DRAPER ENTERTAINS TAFT

HOPKINS, Aug. 18.—Rainy weather greeted President Taft on his visit to Governor Draper. He left shortly after 9 o'clock for a trip through the cotton machinery factories here and a view of the model tenements surrounding them. Later President Taft motored to Uxbridge and Mendon, where his ancestors lived, returning to Governor Draper's home for lunch.

RECEPTION POSTPONED

ROME, Aug. 18.—Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, today again postponed the usual diplomatic reception. The incident causes comment as showing a plan to avoid a meeting with Marquis de Gonzales, the Spanish charge d'affaires.

"Tommy" Rogers, of the Fletcher street engine house, has returned from his vacation which he spent with his family in a cozy cottage at Mud Pond. Numerically speaking, Mr. Rogers' family numbers a baker's dozen and for the last two weeks they had the time of their lives.

COL. ROOSEVELT

Will Not Enter the State Campaign

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Colonel Roosevelt made it clear today to his friends that the reports that he did not intend to take any part in the state campaign were quite correct. As the colonel put it, he did not think he had been encouraged to take an active interest in the action of the state committee in turning down his name as temporary chairman of the convention. His close friends are the authority for the statement today that Colonel Roosevelt has never indicated any intentions with regard to 1912. The colonel, however, has always said that he reserves the right to engage in any situation at any time whenever he feels that his policies demand it.

Colonel Roosevelt put in a busy morning today receiving callers at his office, conferring with Congressmen Hamilton Fish of New York, and J. A. Stewart, president of the league of Republican clubs of this state.

County Chairman Griscom, who led the fight for Colonel Roosevelt in the state committee, plans to see President Taft at Beverly within a few days. It was learned today, Mr. Griscom is a prominent part in the conference with Collector Loeb and Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay yesterday. Donahue Mr. Griscom will inform President Taft of the various happenings at the state committee meeting on Tuesday.

MAN ARRESTED

In Connection With the Death of Woman

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The lice took into custody today E. Rosenberger, son of a millionaire needle manufacturer, to tell what he may know concerning the death of Miss Gough, who was hurled from a car.

"Mamma is so unhappy," Colonel Astor's handsome little daughter wrote with childlike frankness. "Timesage was only a part of a sentence a long letter, and the friends of it parents are wondering if it will not be sufficient to undo the work of a divorce court."

Colonel Astor evidently cringes the letter, for he is known to carrying it about with him and to show it to several of his most intimate friends. Mrs. Astor, it is said, does not yet know that the letter was written—at least she was not acquainted with the contents. No one knows whether Colonel Astor has seen his daughter since her arrival in New York.

COLONEL ASTOR

May Be Reconciled to

His Wife

NEWPORT, Aug. 18.—The friends of Colonel John Jacob Astor and Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, whose divorce fumbled the social sensation of the year, are filled with expectancy and hope over the possibility of a reconciliation that seems imminent. The little daughter of the couple, Muriel Astor, eight years old, is being pointed to as a peace messenger.

The little girl makes her home with Mrs. Astor, in accordance with the agreement at the time of the separation and divorce, but writes her father each week. The last of the missives is said to have been most pathetic and to have reflected all the sorrow that can come into a child's when parents are estranged.

THEATRE VOYONS

The story of the eastern tenderfoot's adventures in the wild and woolly west is familiar to many and much fun has been made of them in "Willie" the comedy at the Theatre Voyons today. The laughs are plenty, the story interesting and the staging real western from top to bottom. It is one of the best western comedies yet shown and met with a most favorable reception yesterday. The dramatic feature is "The Attack on the Mill," a story of the Prussian-German war, well acted and staged with due regard to history. It depicts several very dramatic episodes, deals with the affairs of a father, daughter and sweetheart, besides many other characters. The Sunday program to be offered next Sunday is a first class one in every way and the musical selections by James and Lillian Bales are especially worthy of attention.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

It isn't very often you can repeat a show within a short time of its first presentation and look for any degree of success, especially at a summer time, but that's exactly what is taking place at Lakeview theatre where the Lakeview Stock Co. is repeating "St. Elmo" to crowded houses. It is acted by the same splendid company and every detail of the performance, with the exception of a few minor improvements, is given the same as when the bill made such a pronounced hit two weeks ago.

For local theatregoers a treat comes next week, when at Lakeview theatre Eugene Walter's drama of New York life of today, "Paid in Full," will be presented. This attraction will take the place of the stock company and is composed of a brilliant New York cast, this engagement being the first one ever played at a summer park.

"Paid in Full" is a vital, living story of the hour, depicting with compelling power conditions and persons that help make up the human sum of ever American city, and to see this great play acted by a great cast is a treat not to be missed by anyone. Matinees at 2:30; evening at 8:15, and 10:15. Seats on sale at Carter & Sherburne's drug store.
